Johnson Wins Presidency by Landslide

El Paso County Demos Tip Scale in Vote for Johnson

El Paso County voters dealt out surprises Tuesday, and thereby stunned local Republicans.

The county normally is figured to be Republican, but look what happened:

— The county went for the Democratic presidential ticket, 27,417 votes for Johnson-Humphrey compared to 23,630 for Goldwater-Miller.

This was the first time the county had gone for a Democratic presidential candidate since 1948 when it supported Pres. Harry S. Truman over Thomas E. Dewey.

— Elected a Democrat to the Colorado House. James L. La Haye, defeated incumbent Republican James Braden in the 19th Representative District by a score of 4,434 to 4,378.

La Haye will be the first Democrat to go to the Colorado House from this county since 1932 when a man named William Hinkley was elected.

—Elected a Democrat to the Colorado Senate. Joseph Donlon defeated incumbent Republican Vernon A. Cheever by a vote of 7,968 to 7,004. The seat is that of the 11th Senatorial District.

Records available Tuesday night did not indicate when the WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lyndon B. Johnson rode into history's greatest presidential victory today and declared his determination "to make this nation whole again" after one of the bitterest campaigns of modern times.

He buried the hopes of Republican Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona that Americans were ripe for a return to conservatism. He carried with him an overwhelmingly Democratic Congress. He interpreted the results as "a mandate for unity" and a "command . . . to move forward toward peace and a better life for all of our people."

For the 56-year-old former school teacher from Texas it was a triumph consonant with his dreams. A year ago he had inherited the office of President from a martyred President. But now he had earned the White House in his own right.

He won this testament from the people in an election which shattered established voting patterns. Goldwater, candidate of the party of Abraham Lincoln, won five states in the traditionally Democratic South and led in a sixth, his native Arizona. But Johnson won all the rest—44 states and the District of Columbia.

The tide of votes which swept Johnson to victory also gave his party its greatest majority in the House of Representatives since the peak election performance in 1936 of his mentor and idol, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Johnson's landslide enveloped Vermont, which had never voted Democratic before; the industrial East, the Farm Belt, the Mountain States, the West Coast, Alaska, and Hawaii. It encompassed suburbs which normally vote Republican and rural regions which in the past have been distrustful of Democrats.

With 270 electoral votes needed to win, Johnson received the clinching returns from his home state when Texas gave him its 25 Electoral College votes at 10:11 p.m. EST Tuesday.

From then on his victory increased in magnitude until he had captured well over 61 per cent of the total popular vote, a margin greater than FDR's greatest.

The vote for President at 10:30 a.m. EST.

Johnson 61.4 per cent 39,845,958 Goldwater 38.7 per cent 25,103,508.

Johnson had won 45 states with 486 electoral votes.

Goldwater Wins Five

Goldwater had won 5 states with 47 electoral votes and was ahead in one state with 5 electoral votes for an indicated total 52.

The vote was from 92 per cent of the precincts.

The Democrats had won 287 House seats and were leading for 8 others for an indicated total of 295 in the new Congress —a gain of 38. The Republicans had captured 135 seats and were ahead for 5 for an indicated total of 140. The makeup of the 88th Congress was 257

Frank E. Evans Surprised at Vote Victory

PUEBLO (UPI) — A surprised Frank E. Evans, elected 3rd District Congressman over veteran incumbent J. Edgar Chenoweth, had kind words for his opponent Tuesday night.

"It's hard to believe that we have been successful in the race against Chenoweth," Evans said. "I wish to express my greatest respect for his integrity and honor and to his many years of service for his country and the people of the Third District.

"In every county of this district, I have been keenly aware of the warm feelings and devotions of the people toward "Judge" Chenoweth — a tribute that renders great honor to him and of which he should be rightfully proud. He's a grand individual."

Evans, 41, said he wasn't prepared for the victory. "We ac-

Gallagher, Hinton Named District Judges

In a three-way dogfight for District Judge of the Fourth Judicial District, Eastern Division, John F. Gallagher outdistanced his nearest competitor by 6,238 votes.

Gallagher, a Democrat, polled 25,210 votes to 18,972 for Republican Charles J. Simon and 11,131 for Non-Partisan James F. Quine Jr. Running well in each of the four counties in the Fourth Judicial District, but especially well in El Paso County, Gallagher won one of two new judgeships created by the Judicial Reform Bill. The other seat was won by Patrick M. Hinton, who polled 35,667 votes as an unopposed Republican candidate.

Gallagher, Simon, and Quine together polled 55,313 votes, or 19,646 more than did Hinton running alone.

The odd situation in the Fourth Judicial District, composed of three men running for one seat in the Eastern District and only one in the Western District, was created when Quine announced he would run for the western half and found himself in a contest with Hinton. Both men were designated at the district assembly of the Republican Party.

Twelve years ago, Hinton was a deputy district attorney when Quine was district attorney. Apparently, rather than oppose Hinton, Quine announced his withdrawal from the western race and entered the eastern contest.

At this juncture, Simon protested that the signatures on Quine's petitions were incorrectly notarized and was upheld. Thereupon Quine entered the race as a Non-Partisan in the eastern battle, and the resultant split vote knocked both men from the race and provided Gallagher with his victory.

Goldwater Offers LBJ His Help For 'Secure and Dignified Peace'

By JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI)—Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater wired his congratulations to President Johnson today and offered his help "toward achieving a growing and better America and a secure and dignified peace."

In a telegram which he read at his press headquarters here Goldwater said, however, that the GOP "remains the party of opposition when opposition is called for.

"There is much to be done with Viet Nam, Cuba, the problem of law and order in this country, and a productive economy. Communism remains our number one obstacle to peace and I know that all Americans will join with you in honest solutions to these problems," Goldwater said.

Reading the telegram at his press headquarters Goldwater told newsmen he has "no bitterness or rancuor" as a result of the election.

"I am surprised at the figures of this election, they did not reach the numbers that turned out in the 1960 election. I am disappointed that not more voters turned out," said Goldwater.

The Arizona senator in referring to his future said:

"Being unemployed as of Jan. 3 I will have a lot of time to devote to the party. Now is the time to work to strengthen the Republican party. We not only have to work with the party, but as I said in my telegram to the President, we all must join together."

State Demos Amass Biggest Vote in Colorado's History

By GORDON G. GAUSS

DENVER (AP) — Democrats rolled up the biggest victory in Colorado political history at Tuesday's elections.

President Johnson swept the state over Sen. Barry Goldwater by 170,000—a bigger margin than any other presidential candidate ever received, late returns showed today.

In 1915 of the state's 1967 precincts the unofficial vote was Johnson 460,452, Goldwater 290,579.

Democrats elected all four of the state's members of the U.S. House of Representatives unseating Republicans J. Edgar Chenoweth and Donald G. Brotzman.

They won control of the State House of Representatives.

They elected Justice Leonard B. Sutton of Colorado Springs to a new 10-year term on the Colorado Supreme Court.

Both Democratic candidates for the University of Colorado Board of Regents won handily.

The two Democrats trying for the State Board of Education clung tenaciously to narrow leads.

Democrats apparently will fill 17 of the 30 district judgeships at stake and 13 of 22 district attorneyships.

The vote cast was a new record for Colorado, surpassing three-quarters of a million. The Johnson-Goldwater vote alone mounted to 751,000 in 1,915 precincts. No tabulations were kept on the vote received for three minor party candidates for president.

Two amendments to the Colorado constitution, suggested by the legislature, also were approved. One allows the legislature, rather than the voters to select the state auditor. The oth-

Romney Emerges as Champion GOP Vote Getter

By KARL R. BAUMAN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Michigan's Gov. George Romney emerged today as the Republicans' champion big state vote getter, but his party otherwise had little to crow about in governorship races.

Romney, 57, bucked the Lyndon B. Johnson landslide to win a second term, and is certain to be among those called upon to rebuild the Republican party in the wake of the crushing defeat of Sen. Barry Goldwater, the GOP presidential nominee.

Romney, a former automobile executive, defeated Rep. Neil Staebler, 51, a long-time power in Democratic politics in Michigan.

In another race which held national attention, Gov. Otto Kerner, 56, of Illinois, won a second term, defeating Charles H. Percy, 45, a protege of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Connally, 47, vanquished Dallas oil man Jack Crichton.

GOP National Chairman Dean Burch, who had predicted big GOP gains in the governorship races, proved to be a poor prophet.

In the first 21 races to be decided the Democrats took 16, including those in Utah and Arizona. The Republicans won five of the 21.

Republicans got some revenge by defeating Democratic Gov. Albert Rosellini of Washington, who sought a third term. Rosel-

Miller Blames Lack of GOP Party Unity

LOCKPORT, N.Y. (AP) — William E. Miller said lack of party unity contributed to the crushing defeat he and his Republican runningmate, Barry Goldwater, suffered Tuesday.

He said the refusal of many state and local Republican candidates to support the national ticket tended to "weaken the Republican position from top to bottom."

However, Miller, the GOP vice-presidential nominee, said he would make no official statement on President Johnson's landslide election victory until after word from Goldwater.

Miller said he talked by telephone with Goldwater Tuesday night, and they agreed not to comment until the GOP standard bearer had an opportunity to "analyze the vote."

An aide said Miller, a congressman who did not seek reelection to the House, would comment briefly and then fly to his home in Bethesda, Md.

He and his wife, Stephanie, were scheduled to leave Greater Buffalo International Airport at 2 p.m. aboard the chartered airliner in which they had campaigned.

Miller napped Tuesday afternoon and was sleeping at 5 p.m. when Goldwater called him the first time from Arizona. Miller was not awakened, and the two talked later in the evening.

Miller enjoyed a beef stew dinner and then appeared briefly in the press headquarters behind the home of Raymond J. Lee, election night headquarters for the Miller staff.

Miller scanned Associated Press copy in the two-car garage that served as a press center.

"Reading more now and enjoying it less?" quipped a newsman who had traveled with Miller during the campaign.

Miller laughed and said, "Who's that fellow with a sense of humor?"

Later, Miller appeared in front of the Lee home and was interviewed by newsmen while a crowd of about 300 watched from behind rope barriers. When the interview ran several minutes the crowd became impatient and chanted "we want Miller."

He responded by mingling with the crowd and shaking hands.

Miller had voted earlier in the day at a fire station in Olcott nearby where he maintains a legal residence.

After the trip to Olcott he played golf and then spent the remainder of the day at the Lee home.

Heavily Demo Congress To Boost LBJ's Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — The people have given President Johnson a heavily Democratic Congress that seems so snug behind his program it may evoke memories of those early New Deal Congresses that whisked through the proposals of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The new Congress also will feature names that come from the past but may augur power in the future — Democrat Robert F. Kennedy who took away a New York Senate seat from a Republican and Republican Robert Taft Jr., who took away an Ohio Senate seat from a Democrat.

Besides these and other new names in the Senate, the big story of the Congressional election was the creation of a House that seemed to shed most of its obstacles to a Johnson program.

This came despite some spectacular Republican gains in the House. They snared seats in the once mighty Democratic Dixieland of Alabama and Mississippi. But, for the most part, these were votes that rarely ended up on the side of Johnson legislation anyway.

The Democrats made spectacular gains of their own — upsetting Republicans, for example, in their once-safe bastion of Iowa — and these gains were sure to have heavy impact on the legislative picture.

The House appeared ready to lose its role as a roadblock to such controversial legislation as medical care for the aged, the Appalachian poverty program, and area redevelopment projects.

Kennedy, the 38-year-old brother of the late Presient John F. Kennedy, took a Senate seat by pushing aside the reelection bid of Kenneth B. Keating, a white-haired Republican who steadfastly refused to endorse Barry Goldwater for president but still fell under the Johnson tide in New York.

Joining Kennedy in the Senate was another young man who swept a Republican incumbent out of office — 36-year-old Joseph D. Tydings of Maryland, a

Chou Will Go To Moscow for Summit Talks

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China announced today that Premier Chou En-lai will go to Moscow this week at the head of a high level Peking delegation. He was expected to attend a Communist world summit conference in the Soviet capital.

The official Peking New China News Agency said Chou was traveling to Moscow to attend celebrations of the 47th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution beginning Saturday.

Chou will join other leaders of the world's Communist nations for the anniversary celebrations.

Council Says Retailers Could Absorb Sales Tax

Retailers in the city will be able to advertise they will absorb the cost of the two per cent sales tax, City Council decided in special session Tuesday.

The sales tax inside the city and two per cent use tax on purchases by city residents outside the city will become effective June 1, unless the question of a sales tax goes on the ballot and is defeated.

The motion was made by Councilman Eugene McCleary to strike the section from the sales tax ordinance that said it was illegal for a retailer to advertise or say the sales tax would be paid by the retailer, that it would not be added to the property sold, or refunded.

Said McCleary, "I didn't want to throw in a legal monkey-wrench but I'd kind of like to have that out of there," when the city attorney said the amendment might not be legal.

However the amendment passed by unanimous vote of the council.

This morning City Attorney Frederick Henry said he had found nothing illegal in council's action.

This was one of two amendments to sales and use tax ordinances and a measure on voting procedure passed by council.

They agreed that city residents will not have to pay a two per cent use tax on items under $25 purchased outside the city.

This would mean that $50 worth of food purchased outside the city would not be taxed unless a single type of item cost more than $25.

These items less than $25 would not have to be mentioned in a "taxpayers' form."

Under the sales use tax ordinance, every resident of the city who purchases or leases personal property outside the city for use in the city is required

Mars Ship Launch Is Postponed

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A problem with an electrical relay system in the booster rocket today forced a one-day postponement of an attempt to launch the Mariner 3 spacecraft to Mars.

The launching was rescheduled for Thursday in a period between 1:22 p.m. and 3:17 p.m. (EST).

Mariner 3 is one of two twin probes the United States plans to launch toward Mars this month. Mariner 4 is being readied on an adjacent launch pad. Its firing date will depend on how well the first shot fares in the early stages.

Only Deep South Stands Aside in LBJ's Landslide

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans of all races, ethnic groups and economic levels joined to hand Lyndon B. Johnson one of the most lopsided presidential victories in history. Only the Deep South stood aside.

A study of election returns in selected precincts by N B C's Electronic Vote Analysis showed three major factors in Johnson's landslide win:

—The so-called white backlash among ethnic groups and others upset by desegregation troubles had no significant effect.

—As expected Johnson won 88 per cent of the Negro vote, almost 20 per cent better than the Democratic total in 1960.

—Well-to-do persons normally found in the Republican camp voted for Johnson by the thousands. This "frontlash" of Republicans turning away from Sen. Barry Goldwater was a key factor as a Democratic presidential candidate carried large numbers of major suburban communities for the first time.

Johnson piled up increased margins over the 1960 vote for the late President John F. Kennedy in every area — and with almost every group of voters — in his unparalleled sweep of New England, the middle Atlantic states and the industrial Midwest.

He ran about 12 per cent higher than Kennedy in the big cities of these northern areas and 16 to 17 per cent better elsewhere.

Here are some samples of his

By MRS. RUTH CHISMAN

Word was received recently by John Trusdle that his brother Clifton and family, of Indiana, had been in a car accident. The little girl suffered a borken leg and others had cuts and bruises. They were coming along fairly well. John's brother and family had attended Hanover Church while visiting the Trusdles this summer.

Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Bue, of Beloite, Kan., visited from Saturday, Oct. 28, with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Robertson. Mrs. Bue is a sister of Mr. Robertson. On Monday, Oct. 26, Mrs. Bue and Mrs. Robertson toured the Air Force Academy.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Reble and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Reble and daughter, of Colorado Springs, spent Saturday with the W. D. Rebles. Billy and Bonnie have recently returned from their vacation, going to Kansas and Missouri, where they visited relatives.

Mrs. Nellie Dickson and Mrs. Ruth Chisman called on Gertrude Williams Tuesday, Oct. 27. Mrs. Williams is gaining slowly. They also stopped by to get a look at little Kimberly Hammer, the new daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Hammer.

Seems odd after the installing of modern inside toilets at Hanover School there are some who feel they still need an outside one at Halloween time.

The annual white elephant sale will be held Tuesday, Nov. 17, at the Hanover School, at 8 p.m. This is an event held each year to raise money for community treats. So bring your white elephant and join the fun. Also bring a pie or cake to be sold. Before the sale the primary and intermediate grades will present several numbers for your entertainment, followed by a one - act play by the High School students. The Hanover High School pupils on Election Day sold pie, cake and coffee, stew and chili to the voters. The money will go to their junior-senior trip fund.

We are happy to report Mrs. Cora Van Dusen was able to leave the hospital last week and go to her daughter Ellen Drummond's.

On Sunday, Nov 1, Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Vette joined the group at a birthday dinner for Cora.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chisman and Grace Finch drove to Colorado Springs after church and had dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Chisman and girls. It was Sheryl's third birthday. In the afternoon birthday cake and ice cream were served to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chisman, Myra Woods, Ronnie Geist, Mr. and Mrs. David Geist, Mr. and Toni, Mr. and Mrs. Bobbie Geist, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Geist, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Neal, Janice and Patti Ann.

Robert and Marvin Chisman, of Pueblo, came to the Roy Chismans' Saturday and butchered a beef.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Kerlin, of Colorado Springs, attended church at Hanover Sunday, Nov. 1, with Mr. and Mrs. John Trusdle and family, Mr. Kerlin delivering the morning message. Services were also held Sunday evening. "Happy Birthday" was sung to Claudia Akers and Bennie Dickson Sunday morning. Claudia Akers spent the weekend with her folks. Ronnie Vette also was home. Claudia is at Alamosa College and Ronnie at Lamar Junior College.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Chisman of Colorado Springs drove out Friday evening to Roy Chisman's where they showed their World's Fair pictures to some Hanover friends. It was on such short notice that only the Rebles and Dicksons got to enjoy them. They are real interesting, but when I view New York and all the sky scrapers I would prefer the wide open spaces. Charles and Linnie served cider and doughnuts after the pictures.

Mr. and Mrs. Harper Baker had the new little son dedicated at the morning services of the Glad Tidings Assembly of God Church in Pueblo Nov. 1.

DO YOU TAKE VITAMINS AND STILL FEEL TIRED?*

If you take vitamins, yet still feel tired—you may need more than vitamins to restore your normal strength and energy. Check with your doctor. He may tell you that your worn-out feeling can be due to a shortage of iron.

Vitamins alone can't build up iron-poor blood. But GERITOL can! That's because GERITOL not only contains 7 vitamins but, in addition, supplies the amount of iron needed to build iron-rich red blood. Just 2 GERITOL tablets, or 2 tablespoons of GERITOL liquid, contain twice the iron in a pound of calves' liver! Seven times the iron in a pound of spinach! It is this rich source of iron, that makes GERITOL such an effective strength-building tonic. In only one day, GERITOL-iron is in your bloodstream beginning to carry strength and energy to every part of your body!

Proved By Medical Tests!

Patients diagnosed with iron-deficiency frequently were pale, nervous, irritable and easily tired. After patients took GERITOL daily, doctors reported definite clinical improvement. Remember, vitamins alone can't do it! But GERITOL, with its rich source of iron, can help you regain your strength and energy.

Carson Warns Of 'Creeping Monoxide Killer'

Warnings against the "creeping killer" were issued at Ft. Carson this week alerting all personnel on post against the dangers of carbon monoxide during cold weather.

Proper ventilation in sleeping quarters, in garage and while driving is necessary to prevent death from this insidious poisoning, cautioned Lt. Col. Harold D. Pinney, assistant chief of staff for personnel. Cold weather, when doors and windows are kept closed, annually brings on many deaths from carbon monoxide.

In a recent test at Carson, men became nauseous in just 140 seconds after being exposed to the fumes from three vehicles in 10 minutes in a closed garage.

"This creeping killer is dangerous because you cannot see, taste or smell it," said Colonel Pinney.

"It will not tickle your throat, make your eyes smart, or in any other way make its presence known."

Symptoms are weariness, weakness, headache, dizziness, tightness across the forehead, throbbing in the temples, nausea, loss of muscular control and increased pulse and respiration.

L. E. Sewell, safety director, advised all drivers to make a careful check of exhaust systems in their vehicles.

Flexible tubing should be attached to the exhausts of running vehicles to carry the gas from shop to the outside of the shop, on the leeward side. Adequate ventilation is still required.

Fumes concentrate at floor level and rise as they build up. For this reason, the dangers are greatest for the mechanic who is working under the vehicle.

"Do not let vehicles run while parked in the shop unless it is absolutely required, and then make sure adequate ventilation is provided during this time," Colonel Pinney directed.

"When operating wheel or track vehicles, make sure adequate ventilation is provided to combat carbon monoxide that might seep into crew compartments."

Every year many residents are killed because they failed to provide for ventilation while sleeping in homes where gas fumes were given off by stoves.

Cub Scouts Get Capitol Flag

If you were a Cub Scout and you didn't have a United States Flag to pledge allegiance to and salute, how would you go about getting one?

Patrick Adamski, 8, of 510 Leta Drive in Security, was confronted with this problem at the beginning of his den's meetings this fall. He decided the only way to be sure it was a real United States Flag was to write his congressman and ask for one.

Congressman J. Edgar Chenoweth received Patrick's letter on Sept. 18, and sent a letter in reply stating he had requested that a flag which had flown over the capitol be sent to Patrick.

Patrick received the flag and a letter from Architect of the Capitol J. George Stewart on Oct. 28 confirming that the flag had flown over the United States Capitol, and was to be used by Den 5, Pack 182, as their official flag.

Carson Men Receive Awards

Four Ft. Carson Installation Maintenance Office employees shared awards totalling $105 recently, for suggestions adopted by the Carson Incentive Awards Committee.

Largest check went to Floyd R. Pribble, who earned $45 for proposing a new type of rivet gun in upholstering cushions.

Ronald J. Heruth collected $30 for suggesting that Ft. Carson Form 1030 be substituted for Department of the Army Form 9-80 to allow for more information.

Two checks for $15 each were presented to Howard E. Edwin, who proposed an improvement in the mounting lens, part of a project, and to Stanley Baltrunas, who recommended metal carts in lieu of wooden carts in the clothing repair shop.

Lt. Col. W. W. Chapman, installation maintenance officers, presented the checks at an informal ceremony.

Rep. William P. Avery, 53, a 10 year congressional veteran from Kansas, and Gov. John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, 41, were among Republicans who successfully bucked the Johnson landslide.

Chafee, elected in 1962 by a margin of 398 votes, won over Democratic Lt. Gov. Edward Gallogly, 45.

Utah elected its first Democratic governor in 16 years when voters favored Calvin L. Rampton, 50, Salt Lake City attorney, over Mitchell Melich, 52, a former state legislator, university regent and uranium firm president.

Philip H. Hoff, 40, first Democrat to be elected governor since 1854, defeated Republican Lt. Gov. Ralph A. Foote, 41.

In New Hampshire, Gov. John W. King, 46, repeated his 1962 victory over Republican John Pillsbury, 45, a former state legislator.

Six Persons Hurt in Single Traffic Crash

Six persons were hospitalized Tuesday when a single-car accident led to a two-car accident 7 miles north of Colorado Springs on U. S. Highway 85-87, the State Patrol reported.

Silvano Chavez, 20, of 1224 N. Nevada Ave., was southbound on 85-87 at 11:50 p.m. Tuesday when he lost control of his car, skidded off the left side of the road into the median for 150 feet, then rolled over twice while traveling another 65 feet. Chavez was thrown from his vehicle, and suffered a fractured skull and possible neck injuries. He was taken to Penrose Hospital.

Approximately 15 minutes later, Janice Huskey, 17, of Littleton, stopped on the highway at the scene of the Chavez accident, according to the Patrol.

At this time a car driven by Marsha Huffman, 19, of Aurora came upon the Huskey vehicle, skidded 35 feet and rammed into the back of it. The Huskey car was knocked ahead for 31 feet, then continued for another 47 feet down the highway before coming to a stop facing south.

Injured passengers in the Huskey vehicle were Dee A. Hill, 17, of Littleton, who suffered cuts to her legs and face; Gary Waddell, 22, of Denver, suffered numerous cuts; Judith Waddell, 20, of Littleton, suffered a back injury.

Judy Rose, 20, of Aurora, a passenger in the Huskey car, suffered a fractured jaw and cuts on her face.

All of the injured persons were taken to Penrose Hospital by E and E Ambulance.

The Chavez vehicle was a total loss, and the patrol estimated the cost at $2,000; The Huffman vehicle was also a total loss, estimated at $3,000; and the Huskey car was also totaled, costing $400.

Humphrey Sees Support From Republicans

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Vice President-elect Hubert H. Humphrey declared early today that President Johnson had "truly touched the hearts of Americans."

In a nationally televised appearance as the election returns showed Humphrey and Johnson winning the biggest plurality in America in history, Humphrey said:

"I want you to know that this is his (Johnson's) night . . . and also your victory, because he worked for you.

"This is a victory for the American people. And may I add this is a victory that has been participated in not just by Democrats.

Council Says Retailers Could Absorb Sales Tax

to make a return and pay the tax due to the city, within 30 days of the purchase.

Though this is what the ordinance says, Mayor Harry Hoth pointed out it was not the intention of the council to force the citizenry to file monthly returns on all purchases outside the city.

Before items under $25 were exempted from the use tax, the city attorney said it was the experience of other governments that use taxes on minor items have not been collected.

Councilwoman Betty Krouse pointed out the use tax was designed to protect businesses in Colorado Springs.

Of the nine council members and mayor, only Councilman William Becker voted against the $25 exemption.

Said Becker, "I don't think it can be enforced. I must vote no." Becker previously was the only council member voting against the sales and use tax ordinance when they were adopted on first and second readings.

The two amendments were passed Tuesday on first and final readings as "emergency ordinances."

Council also voted to take voter registrations at city hall through the April municipal election, and use voting machines.

The City Charter allows the city to shift its voting registration procedures to the county.

The mayor and Councilman William Roe said they hoped there could be one registration place for city and county elections, to end the confusion of two registration places.

Heavily Demo Congress To Boost LBJ's Program

Kennedy, Tydings and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., 32, the youngest brother of the late President who easily won re-election, could form a new, powerful Kennedy swing both in the Senate and in the Democratic party.

But this new wing will not include one whom some observers once considered a sure member — Pierre Salinger. The portly former press secretary of both Presidents Kennedy and Johnson — already a senator from California by appointment — was defeated by George Murphy, the former Hollywood song and dance man, who stopped Salinger's bid to win the California seat by election.

The Republicans had more than Murphy to show as a new face in the Senate. Taft, the grandson of President William Howard Taft and the son of three-time presidential aspirant Robert A. Taft, took his father's old seat in Ohio by defeating incumbent Sen. Stephen A. Young.

By early morning, the Democrats had won 26 of the 35 Senate seats at stake, taking 3 seats from the Republicans. The Republicans had won 8 seats, taking 2 from the Democrats. Democrat Sen. Howard Cannon of Nevada was leading in the last Senate race.

This would give the Democrats at least 66 seats in the new Senate—the same as they had going into Tuesday's election.

With the final totals still to come in the House, the Democrats had won 264 of the 435 seats, a clear majority. In doing so, they took away 32 Republican places. The Republicans had won 121 seats, gaining 9 from the Democrats.

Despite the Republican gains in the South—they picked up five seats in Alabama and one in Mississippi—they dropped their only two Texas House seats. Both Reps. Bruce Alger and Ed Foreman were upset by Democrats in the President's home state.

The Democrats, besides their victories in New York and Maryland, picked up another Senate seat in New Mexico, when Rep. Joseph M. Montoya, a veteran of eight years in the House, defeated the Republican incumbent Sen. Edwin L. Mechem.

The Republicans were disappointed when Bud Wilkinson, who won so many football games as coach at the University of Oklahoma, failed to win his first contest for public office. An Oklahoma state senator, Fred R. Harris, defeated Wilkinson in the race for Oklahoma's U.S. Senate seat.

Several familiar Republican names will be gone from the House list next year, including Rep. Ben Jensen, R-Iowa, the ranking Republican on the powerful House Appropriations Committee. Others include Reps. Louis C. Wyman of New Hampshire, John R. Pillion of New York, and Earl Wilson of Indiana.

Missing Democrats will include Reps. Arthur Winstead of Mississippi, George Grant of Alabama, Kenneth Roberts of Alabama and George Huddleston of Alabama.

Although Keating was defeated, some moderate Republicans survived the Johnson landslide, including Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania and Sen. Hiram Fong of Hawaii. Rep. John V. Lindsey of New York and a number of other House Republicans who refused to endorse Goldwater won re-election.

The gains by Northern Democrats and the losses by Southern Democrats indicate a greater chance for success than ever before next year when Democratic liberals in the House try to purge those Democratic Southerners who supported Goldwater in the campaign.

Reps. John Bell Williams of Mississippi and Albert Watson of South Carolina are the targets of the Democratic liberals, who may be a majority within the Democratic party in the House for the first time.

Only Deep South Stands Aside in LBJ's Landslide

votes in the normally Republican suburban areas: in the New York City suburbs, Johnson received 59 per cent of the vote in selected precincts; in Buffalo, 66 per cent; in Pittsburgh 70 per cent; in Philadelphia 56 per cent; in Denver, 60 per cent.

His support ran strongest in the low and middle income segments but also sharply trimming Republican totals among high income voters.

Even among ethnic groups, where Goldwater strategists expected a backlash to develop, Johnson showed slight gains.

A check of selected precincts showed 79 per cent of Slavic voters going Democratic, Irish voters by 85 per cent and Italian voters by 74 per cent — all up one per cent over 1960.

Goldwater's strategy was to try to turn out the vote in normally Republican areas, work on ethnically mixed groups in key industrial areas and a sweep of the normally Democratic South.

But 45 of the most Republican counties in the nation gave 51 per cent of their vote to Democrat Johnson.

Goldwater carried only the Deep South states of Louisiana, Alabama, Mississippi, South Carolina and Georgia. Except for Georgia, these states gave their electoral votes in 1948 to the States Rights party.

Johnson ran from 1 to 3 per cent ahead of the Kennedy total in Southern cities, suburbs and smaller towns, but trailed about 3 per cent in rural areas, where Goldwater's civil rights stand apparently had its strongest appeal.

In big Northern cities, Johnson carried 74 per cent of the vote. He ran up a 61 per cent margin in major cities of the West. Both represented increases of about 10 per cent over 1960.

In Northern suburbs, Johnson rolled up 63 per cent, up 17 per cent. He chalked up another 17 per cent gain — to 66 per cent — in smaller towns. He drew 63 per cent of the votes, up 16 per cent, in rural areas.

In the West, Johnson showed a 12 per cent gain in the suburbs to 60 per cent; an 11 per cent gain in smaller towns to 59 per cent, and a 16 per cent jump in rural areas to 60 per cent.

Harding had held the seat since 1960, capturing it from Republicans who monopolized the post for 20 years.

The only area where Johnson trailed Goldwater badly was in the 100 or so counties of the South where Negroes are a majority of the population, but relatively few vote. Here, the Republican garnered about two-thirds of the vote — some 26 per cent higher than the 1960 Republican total.

Hansen's victory was carved by characterizing Harding as the personification of what he called excessive government controls and federal spending. He accused Harding of being a "me-too" candidate.

Frank E. Evans Surprised at Vote Victory

tually were more prepared for defeat," he said. "We were greatly surprised."

Evans, minority party whip in the State House of Representatives the past two years, said victory was "won by the hard efforts of hundreds of people" in the district.

He said he had not planned beyond Nov. 3, but that he and his family would go on a brief vacation for the next several days.

Evans, father of four children, grew up in the Colorado Springs area and attended Fountain Valley High School. He holds economics and law degree from the University of Denver, is board chairman of the Arkansas Valley Bank, and was first elected to the State House in 1960.

Two Rocking Chairs Provided for Them

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—There are two rocking chairs in the manager's office at Ned Vick's new air conditioning, heating, paint and wall paper store here —one for the big boss and one for the little boss. "I know he's only 4 now but I thought I'd better bring him into the business now so he'll have time to get used to it," explained Vick.

Johnson Wins Presidency By Landslide Vote

In the Senate, the Democrats had taken 26 seats. Coupled with 40 holdovers, this gave them an indicated total of 66—the same number as in the last session. Republicans had won 7 seats and were ahead in 2 for an indicated strength of 34.

In the 25 governorship contests, the Democrats won 17 statehouses. With their 16 holdovers, the indicated total was 33 governors—a net loss of one. Republicans won 5 of their gubernatorial races and led in 3 unsettled contests. With their 9 holdovers, their indicated total was 17.

Swept to victory with Johnson were many a Democrat who might not otherwise have won. Among these was Robert F. Kennedy, the assassinated President's brother, who defeated veteran GOP Sen. Kenneth B. Keating.

But in California, where Sen. Pierre Salinger was seeking a full term, actor George Murphy, his Republican opponent, was in the lead.

The election left the Republicans divided and shaken after their decision in San Francisco last July to confront the voters with a conservative bearing no taint of "me-tooism." Goldwater had offered "a choice, not an echo," and the people had rendered the most one - sided verdict since Alfred M. Landon lost to Roosevlt in 1936.

Johnson, who termed his victory a trbiute to the murdered Kennedy, was now free to press forward with his promise to develop "a great society" at home and a stronger U. S. position abroad.

Demos Amass Biggest Vote In Colorado History

er opens the way for counties to abolish the office of county superintendent of schools.

Possibly saving Republicans a worse defeat was the fact that neither U.S. senator's term expires this year and that elective state officials hold over until 1966.

The vote was a complete reversal of the Republican trend of the past two elections in Colorado. In 1960 Republican Vice President Richard M. Nixon carried the state by 71,000 over the late John F. Kennedy. In 1962, Gov. John A. Love ran up a margin of 88,000 over Democratic Gov. Steve McNichols.

Democrats had not carried Colorado for president since 1948 when Harry Truman won by 27,000 votes. It was only their second victory for president in the state since 1936.

Some of the races Tuesday were so close recounts may be asked.

Democrat State Sen. Roy McVicker's margin over Rep. Donald G. Brotzman in the six-county Second District, the Denver suburban area, was only 1,900 with some 2,500 Boulder county absentee votes still uncounted. they were impounded when Republicans protested 28 cast in Democratic Lafayette.

The 67-y e a r old Chenoweth was nosed out in the Third District by State Rep. Frank E. Evans, 41, of Pueblo, who was making his first bid for major office. The defeat was Chenoweth's second in 13 races for Congress from the southern Colorado area dating back to 1940. He lost in 1948, then regained his seat in 1950.

The two veteran Democrats in the state's congressoonal delegation won with comparative ease.

In the new Fourth District, sprawling across 65,000 square miles from Julesburg to the Four Corners, Rep. Wayne N. Aspinall, 68, beat State Sen. Edwin S. Lamm, Grand Junction Republican, by a 3 to 2 margin. The new term will be Aspinall's ninth. The result may be an effort of the northern Colorado counties to nominate a Republican candidate in two years.

Denver Congressman Byron G. Rogers, 64, more than double dthe vote of his 34-year-old Republican opponent, Glen R. Jones, to win an eighth term.

The congressional vote:

Justice Sutton, who was first appointed to fill a vacancy on the Supreme Court and then was elected for eight years, ran 95,000 ahead of Republican State Sen. Ranger Rogers of Littleton. His re-election leaves the court membership at five Democrats and two Republicans.

Democrats elected to the six-member unpaid university regents' board were Fred M. Betz Sr. and Dan Lynch, a Denver and Boulder lawyer. Betz is a former state Democratic chairman and is a Lamar publisher. His son, Fred M. Betz Jr. formerly served on the board but lost a try for re-election two years ago.

Defeated were Frank A. Kemp Sr., Denver sugar company executive who is serving on the board by appointment, and Paul Bradley, Colorado Springs businessman who once was assistant football coach at the university.

Election of Betz and Lunch gives Democrats a 4-2 edge.

The races for the Board of Education, which also carries no salary, were tight throughout the vote count.

Nearly complete returns put Mrs. Jeanne Bender, an Adams County housewife and former teacher, in front of an Arapahoe County lawyer, Robert G. Wilson, for the post from the Second Congressional District. Mrs. Bender is a Democrat; Wilson is a Republican. Almost final tallies also showed Hugh Chastain of Durango, an REA official seeking reelection to the board, ahead of Republican State Rep. William Stevens of Gypsum for the seat from the Fourth District.

The Democrats seemingly will hold their 4-1 margin on the board as the result of the election. The only Republican is Mrs. Anna Petteys of Brush.

The vote count:

University Regents, 171 of 1967 precincts: Betz D 400,870, Lynch D 353,073, Kemp R 317,583, Bradley R 300,498.

Board of Education, 2nd District 350 of 352 precincts: Bender D 97,805, Wilson R 89,984.

Amendment No. 2 1,812 of 1,967 precincts: Yes 290,808 No 172,605.

'Vast Horizons' Predicted for Robert Kennedy

By RELMAN MORIN
AP Specitl Correspondent

NEW PORK (AP)—Robert F. Kennedy stands on the threshhold of a new political future today, a potentially vast horizon opened to him by his election to the U.S. Senate.

Inevitably, speculation will rise on three points—

1. How far will Kennedy go?

Depending on circumstances, he could be in the presidential picture by 1968, and certainly by 1972. He will be approaching his 47th birthday on the latter date. He has a powerful base from which to shape his future. Having been in and around the federal government for more than 10 years, he knows big-league politics.

2. What about a "Kennedy dynasty?"

His younger brother, Edward M. Kennedy — immobilized in a Boston hospital with a broken back—was re-elected to the Senate from Massachusetts Tuesday. They can be a formidable team.

If Pierre Salinger, former White House press secretary, had won his race in California, there would have been a third close confidante of the late President Kennedy in the Senate.

3. Will there be more so-called "carpetbaggers" now, men who go outside their home state to run for office?

Herbert Brownell, campaign director for the defeated Republican Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, said before Tuesday's election: "If Kennedy wins, I think special-interest groups everywhere will simply turn to some popular figure and ask him to run in their states. I think this would be dangerous. It's the same as the court-packing plan." (a reference to President Franklin D. Roosevelt's proposal to enlarge the Supreme Court.)

Robert Kennedy is the third member of his family to be elected a senator. John F. Kennedy was the first; Edward the second.

Of the three, Bobby's victory is the most dramatic. He coolly took the long gamble of going outside his native Massachusetts to seek the seat from New York. In challenging Keating, he was opposing a well-known and respected senator.

It was Robert Kennedy's first campaign for elective office.

Apart from winning the long gamble, the victory was particularly sweet. Go back a few months—.

Last July 30, President Johnson suddenly dealt Kennedy out of the race for the vice presidency.

Douglas Cornell, veteran Washington Associated Press correspondent said the action was "a move which he (Johnson) certainly was aware would stir up immediate speculation that it was aimed at halting Kennedy and perhaps boosting Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota."

The Kennedys were stunned.

They had in hand a sheaf of reports on polls that showed Bobby well ahead of all other potential vice presidential candidates as the choice of various groups of democrats.

Newspaper clippings attested to Kennedy's popularity.

"Kennedy gets fantastic reception," Atlanta Constitution, May 27.

"Bob mobbed on his arrival," Scranton (Pa.) Times, March 18.

Nevertheless Johnson had closed the door and Kennedy commented, "As I have always said, it is the President's responsibility to make known his choice for vice president."

Kennedy wanted to remain in public life. What to do?

He probably could have had a high appointive office in the new Johnson administration.

But a top advisor, considering this, said significantly: "In an appointive position, he wouldn't be his own fellow. If he can win in New York he will be his own fellow."

So the decision was taken.

From the outset, the Kennedy team recognized that the "carpetbagger" accusation would be one of his greatest obstacles, and it was.

He met it head-on, in much the same manner that John F. Kennedy had talked freely about the religious issue of his Catholicism before he won the presidential nomination in 1960. Sometimes, Bobby kidded the "carpetbagger" charge. At others, he spoke seriously about it. But he never avoided it.

He proved to be an able campaigner. Of course, he had had the experience of managing John F. Kennedy's campaigns.

But being a manager, and getting up to face the heat and fury for yourself, are different things.

From the first, the crowds were massive. Kennedy was encouraged — but hard-headed. He never expected all this emotional reaction to go into the ballot box.

Apparently, he under-estimated. Only a few days ago, one of his chief lieutenants calculated that Kennedy might win by a 52-to-40 per cent. His percentage was 54.3.

Kennedy spent Tuesday with his family at his home in Glen Cove, L. I. Tuesday night, he drove to New York for dinner in the apartment of his brother-in-law, Steven Smith.

Mrs. John F. Kennedy, Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, his mother and former New York Gov. W. Averell Harriman were among the guests.

Then Bobby came to the hotel where the Democratic party headquarters were set up. He went to an election center in which wall charts showed all local New York contests.

As the figures came in for these — along with the Kennedy-Keating vote — he could gauge how well he was running. The picture started well for him and it brightened with each new set of returns.

Kennedy said almost nothing. For several hours he sat watching, seldom commenting. His craggy features were expressionless.

— Elected Democrat C. H. (Charlie) Bickley as county commissioner from the 3d District, knocking out Charles L. Smith, Republican who was elected to office four years ago and served as chairman for two years.

The vote was 25,125 for Bickley to 22,209 for Smith. Bickley will be the lone Democrat on the commissioner board.

—Voted for John F. Gallagher for judge in the eastern division of the 4th Judicial District.

Gallaher, 25,210, won the seat in a three-way race with Republican Charles J. Simon, 18,972. Republican county judge seeking to move up, and James F. Quine Jr., 11,131, Republican turned Independent, who is a justice of the peace.

To add further gloom to the local Republican picture, the regular leading champion of the local GOP cause went down to defeat, although this county supported him.

The defeated man was J. Edgar Chenoweth, Trinidad, who lost in the race for U.S. congressman from the Third Congressional District to Frank Evans of Pueblo.

Chenoweth first went to Congress in 1940, was defeated in 1948 when Truman defeated Dewey and then won his seat back in 1950. Chenoweth, now 67, may be gone permanently from the political picture.

The voters also took a poke at the Colorado Constitution and voted in favor of both proposed amendments. The proposals were referred to the electorate by the state assembly and El Paso County votes put their approval on both.

In Amendment No. 1, to take selection of the state auditor out of the hands of the voters and put it into the hands of the state assembly, the county voted 20,773 yes, and 14,228 no.

On Amendment No. 2, to allow counties to do away with the office of county superintendent of schools if they wish, the county voted 18,961 yes, and 17,069 no.

Two home town candidates seeking state-level offices, one a Democrat and the other Republican, led their races in the county.

Leonard Sutton, former Democratic chairman in El Paso County, defeated Ranger Rogers in the county by a vote of 26,633 to 20,016 in the race for Colorado Supreme Court justice.

Sutton first appointed to fill a vacancy on the high court bench in 1956 by then Gov. Edwin Johnson. He was elected the same year to an eight-year term, and was running for a 10-year term this time.

Rogers is from Littleton, and has been both minority and majority leader of Republican forces in the Colorado Senate.

Paul Bradley, local petroleum products businessman, led the pack in this county for a seat on the Colorado University Board of Regents.

Bradley had 24,239 votes, and was followed by fellow Republican Frank A. Kemp, Denver, with 21,697 votes. Kemp is president of Great Western Sugar Co.

The Democrats were Fred M. Betz Sr., of Lamar, newspaper publisher, who had 20,928 votes, and Daniel F. Lynch, Denver, professor at Regis College, who got 18,894.

The Republicans still have two of the three seats in the Colorado Senate. Laurence Skiffington of Manitou Springs has the seat in the 10th District. The seat will be up for election in 1966.

Donlon won the seat in the 11th Senatorial district.

In the 12th Senatorial District, William O. Lennox, veteran member of the Colorado House, defeated Democratic candidate Norman B. Bodinger, mayor of Monument, by a vote of 9,288 to 7,959.

In winning the 19th District representative seat, La Haye knocked out a man who had been close to Gov. John A. Love and was an early supporter of Sen. Barry M. Goldwater.

Braden was the first public office holder in the El Paso County delegation to the state assembly in Pueblo last June to break out a Goldwater button and had not attempted to disassociate himself from the GOP presidential candidate during the campaign.

In the 20th Representative District, Harrie E. Hart, Republican, won a seat the Republicans had expected to win.

Hart was campaign manager for Love when he ran for governor two years ago, and then served as the governors' personal secretary until quitting earlier this year to run for the House. Hart defeated Earl L. Fields, 4,337 to 3,677.

The 21st Representative District race was a squeaker all the way.

Paul V. Evans, local attorney, defeated Democratic candidate Don Brinton, a school teacher, by a vote of 5,024 to 5,006.

Republican Theodore R. Schubert, making his first try for public office, defeated William L. Carew in the 22nd District by a vote of 5,060 to 4,540.

In the 23rd Representative District, George F. Jackson defeated Gerald O. Lindsey, 4,811 to 4,282, to hold that seat for the Republicans.

In the 2d Commissioner's District, Rodger Fay, Republican who was appointed to fill out an unexpired term, defeated two opponents.

Fay had 21,844 votes as compared to 20,251 for L. F. (Red) Quaney Jr., Democrat, and 3,514 for Floyd M. Minson, Republican turned Independent.

Four candidates on the ticket had easy sledding as they were unopposed.

Hinton received 31,018 votes as candidate for District Court judge from the western division. He is a Republican.

Robert Cole had 29,918 votes and Jack L. Roeser had 25,490 as county judge candidates. Bot are Republicans.

Rehab Center Employe Held In Postal Probe

Police reported today that an employe of the State Rehabilitation Center was arrested Tuesday on a complaint that he had been sending obscene literature through the mails.

The complaint was brought by Robert F. Fox, Postal Inspector from Denver, and local Postal Inspector J. R. Simmons. The charge evolved when a man was arrested in California on a similar charge, and letters in possession of the California man were turned over to postal authorities in that state and returned to Denver. The letters were from the man who was arrested Tuesday, according to police.

The person admitted writing the letters and bragged that he "had a bigger collection of obscene literature and photographs second only to the Post Office Museum," according to police. A search of the man's apartment revealed albums filled with obscene photographs and obscene letters.

The man told officers that he "hoped he would be picked up on a federal warrant because he would like to test private communication through the mails." According to his statements, he is an archbishop of a church group, and has also been a teacher in different places in Colorado. He said he "thought his privacy was being invaded by the postal authorities when they intercepted the letters," according to the report.

He was placed in jail under investigation for possession of obscene literature, according to the report.

The history of World's Fairs dates back 113 years, to the Crystal Palace Exposition in London in 1851.

Armed Forces News

By STEVE TILLMAN

WASHINGTON — (Special to the Gazette Telegraph) — The angry convention in 1962 of the Retired Officers Association may turn out to have been a rather tame affair in contrast to what is coming up for this year's convention. Last year's affair brought headlines to the news of the convention due to the language used by high ranking military retired officers, even in the grade of Admiral and General.

There are quite a few charges and counter-charges going the rounds as to the whys and wherefores of the situation. It is generally conceded here that the present paid staff members have out-lived their usefulness to the retirees because of the situation.

The organization is split and split badly, according to reliable sources. Law suits for libel and slander have been filed in several courts. There is definitely a clash of personalities involved.

The net result is that this month's meeting will have the largest personal attendance of members from all parts of the countries and one should not be surprised if the proxies are guarded by armed security guards. The situation is just that hot.

The Department of Defense is working on a plan that would rotate overseas civilian employes back State-side every five years. This will also permit overseas assignments of thousands of Defense employes now in the States. It is not programmed, so that the returning employes would have a salary grade adjustment on return to the States.

At this time it appears that the Air Force and the Navy will take over the major portion of the 1966 Housing Units. This will mean that Army will have only 50 per cent of what either of the other two services will be authorized.

The Navy has been putting up a very successful program for better housing for its personnel.

The Marine Corps will not promote any on Sergeant Major promotion list in November. Other promotions are expected to exceed previous monthly promotions.

Uniformed personnel eligible for Agriculture Department food stamps will find that these cannot be used in the military commissaries.

The Reserve Officers Association says a new directive of the Department of Defense on the acceptance of gifts will strengthen the position of the ROA in relationship to the military services. Leaders of the ROA see in the Code of Conduct directive an encouragement to active duty officers to participate in ROA meetings that may be sponsored by the organization. The Pentagon has no comment on this interpretation.

Informal word from Pentagon sources is that the Defense Department may ask Congress to extend provisions of the Dependent Medical Care Program to include retirees and their families.

The Pentagon will put up stiff resistance to any move to eliminate the present requirement of eight years of active duty for retired Reservists before they become eligible for hospital and medical care. The majority of Army orders on retirement of Reserve officers indicate that only a few such retirements show that the individual has as much as eight years of active duty out of 30 years in the Reserve.

Informed Washington sources see in a statement made by Paul Nitze, Secretary of the Navy, the theme song for the 1965 pay measure. The Secretary said that "it is ironic that the fundamental reason for our difficulties in retaining qualified personnel is one which we have brought about ourselves by doing our job so well."

"The economic side effects of the growth and outstanding performance of our military establishments have contributed in no small way to the prospering civilian economy which is so attractive to our servicemen. Further, the skills which a man acquires during his military service are in great demand in the civilian market."

"I am hopeful that studies currently going forward will result in the conclusion that there should be a major upward revision of military pay structures so that remuneration more nearly matches responsibility," Nitze concluded.

This is in line with Washington talk that 1965 will see a pay raise in the basic pay and the elimination of proficiency pay with major changes in subsistence pay.

There may be some major suggestions considered by the next Congress. One would greatly limit the 20 year retirement policy; no increase of retired pay for those with less than 20 years of active duty; and the adoption of the Civil Service Retirement method of computing retired pay.

This would mean taking the highest five year pay level average and compute retired pay on this. If the latter is suggested there will be plenty of fireworks from the Air Force Association and the association of the army.

Four Ducklings Get Special Attention

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Four ducklings got special attention from the police and human society here. Eight ducklings and their mother waddled across a busy rightaway in the rush hour. An unidentified woman motorist stopped her car and waved others down until the procession went by. Across the highway, the mother and four of her babies managed to jump the curb and continue on the way. Four fell through a sewer grating at the curb and plunged to a water-filled basin where they swam out of sight into a 12-inch lateral. Nearly two hours later, when they reappeared, a policeman managed to block the lateral and scoop the ducks out with a fish net. Since the mother had disappeared, the orphans were taken to a private farm.

Thompson, an Air Force Academy "1 o'clock scholar," receives an education award for completing 30 hours off-duty at his previous station, Hamilton AFB, Calif., from Academy director of Education and Training, Mr. William Bailey. A NEW REMEDY FOR HIDEBOUND SKIN

A NEW remedy for scleroderma is welcome news as, up to now, no satisfactory treatment has been available. According to Dr. Chris Zarafonatis of the university of Michigan, potassium paminobenzoate (KPAB) softens the hardened skin that is typical of this condition. Treatment lasts three or more months.

In scleroderma, the skin thickens, giving the impression of being stretched or hidebound. The deeper layers harden because fibrous tissue replaces the normal cells and more pliable tissue. We do not know why this occurs.

The malady begins over a small area and spreads gradually. One or two fingers may be affected at first and then the hand and elbow. Now and hen the face or upper chest is involved. In some instances, fibrosis remains localized to one area whereas others develop a more generalized form of the disease.

The skin looks smooth, shiny, and slightly gray. The normal grain is obliterated and wrinkles vanish. The face may become so taut, smiling is impossible and a masklike expression becomes the rule. The head cannot be turned when the neck is afflicted. The knees, hands, and fingers become stiff as tho the parts were bound with adhesive tape or encased in a cast. Occasionally the esophagus, heart, lungs, and kidneys are affected.

In the past, attempts to reverse the process with cortisone, hormones, or anti-malarial drugs have been disappointing. KPAB softens the excessive fibrous tissue, making the skin softer and more pliable. But some users encounter loss of appetite, nausea, and a rash. These symptoms usually subside promptly when treatment is interrupted for a few days.

We may hear more about KPAB, especially if it proves of value in disease such as Dupuytren's contracture, Peyronie's disease, and chronic fibrotic ulcers. These conditions are related to scleroderma in that they all stem from too much fibrous tissue.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

INFLAMED HEART LINING

L. E. writes: Does an attack of pericarditis damage the heart permanently?

REPLY

Inflammation of the thin sac that surrounds the heart (pericardium) seldom damages the heart unless massive scar tissues develops. This may be so extensive the heart cannot expand with each beat. The thickened pericardium must be peeled away from the heart, aorta, and pulmonary vessels.

CLOSE PREGNANCIES

Mrs. S. O. Z. writes: I am a young mother with a 5-month-old baby and am expecting another in March. Could any harm come to me or my expected child because of the short period of time betwen my pregnancies?

REPLY

PALPITATION AND EXTRA BEAT

T. W. G. writes: Are palpitation and skipped beat signs of heart disease?

REPLY

Not necessarily, but have these symptoms investigated and send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on heart symptoms.

SINUS AND ALLERGY

L. B. writes: Could sinus trouble over a long period lead to asthma?

REPLY

A relationship exists between the two in that a neglected allergic sinus condition may develop into asthma.

Kremlin Chiefs Remain Firm Toward Peking

By HENRY S. BRADSHER

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin's new leaders are going ahead with Nikita Khrushchev's plan for an international Communist meeting next month, but instead of setting the stage for a showdown with Red China the emphasis apparently will be on unity.

There have been hints Red China might send representatives to try to find out if there have been any Soviet policy changes since Khrushchev's ouster. Peking had said it would boycott the meeting Khrushchev had called to lay the groundwork for a conference of the world's 90 Communist parties.

A Danish Communist leader who returned home from Moscow Monday told Newsmen in Copenhagen Soviet leaders intend to stand firm toward Peking but would try to get back on "speaking terms" with the Chinese.

The Kremlin decision to hold the December meeting was disclosed in a communique after talks with Austrian Communist leaders. It said the discussion "emphasized the necessity of attaining solidarity of the ranks of the international Communist movement and continuing preparations for a few conference of Communist and workers parties and the meeting of the Editorial Commission."

Khrushchev had called for a meeting Dec. 15 of Editorial Commission members — representatives of 26 parties who framed the 1960 Moscow blueprint for world Communist strategy.

There had been predictions the December meeting might be postponed until the Soviet-Chinese dispute had a chance to simmer down.

The Soviet Communist party organ Pravda came out Saturday with a declaration supporting Khrushchev's position in the feud with Peking. For the first time since his ouster, the paper denounced "chauvinism" and petty bourgeois adventurism . . . opportunism and dogmatic or revisionist distortion of theory." All were charges made against Peking at the height of the dispute.

Izvestia, the government paper, carried a front-page editorial on foreign policy Monday which ignored the dispute.

Peking in turn has issued a guarded statement that although Khrushchev has been dumped there are "still many difficulties and obstacles" in the way of unity.

The association has about 5,000 members who are fond of the unusual.

Deputy With Gun Ordered From Area

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Sheriff T. L. Lang said Monday night the Secret Service told one of his deputies who was wearing a badge to leave the area of President Johnson's appearance because the deputy was wearing a gun.

The sheriff said the investigator from his department had proper identification and was there to help protect the President.

After the incident, the sheriff said, he withdrew his deputies and did not plan special details for the rest of the President's visit in Travis County unless coordination between his office and the Secret Service improved.

SITE SELECTED

BOULDER (UPI)— The Denver area was selected as the site for a new de-watering pump device for the salvage and diving division of the Navy's Bureau of Ships, Rep. Don Brotzman, R-Colo., said Monday. The Colorado official said a representative of the bureau would be in Denver today to make final arrangements for the gas-turbine driven salvage pump.

ONE MUSICAL DIRECTOR

STRATFORD, Ont. (AP)—In a policy switch, the Stratford Festival will have Oscar Shumsky as the sole supervising director of musical events next summer.

During the past four years Shumsky formed a directorial triumvirate with Glenn Gould and Leonard Rose. The latter two recently resigned because of activities elsewhere.

Michael Langham, festival artistic director, said that another musical development next season would be the starting of a five-year program to develop a permanent opera company.

Dowling Named New Carson Sergeant Major

New sergeant major of the 4th Squadron, 12th Cavalry at Ft. Carson, is Francis E. Dowling, former first sergeant of headquarters company and band, Support Command. Maj. Gen. Autrey J. Maroun, 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) and Carson commander, promoted Dowling to the sergeant major rank recently.

Dowling's 17 years of service includes attending Leadership School at Ft. Knox immediately after basic training. He served as cadre in a basic training unit for 16 months, then was selected for the Honor Guard, 3d Armored Division.

He was with the 1st Cavalry Division in the Korean War where he earned the Combat Infantryman's Badge. In Germany he served with the 2d Reconnaissance Squadron, 14th Armored Cavalry.

He holds the Army Commendation Medal with Cluster, indicating two awards.

Succeeding Dowling as topkick in headquarters company and band is James C. Brock, former logistics noncommissioned officer in the supply section of Support Command. He came to Carson from the Pacific Command where he was administrative noncommissioned officer in the Inventory Control Point.

Brock is a graduate of basic training and leadership school at Ft. Chaffee, Ark.

SAY IT LIKE THIS — Father Titas Astrauskas, left, Roman Catholic priest from Colombia, gives his friend Tony Venetucci, sweetcorn king of the Pikes Peak Region, a lesson in Italian. Venetucci, a native of Colorado Springs, expects soon to pay a visit to relatives in Italy and is getting ready to talk their language. He has planted experimental fields of his famous sweetcorn in Colombia. The seed seemed to like the Pikes Peak Region better.

Ramah News

By MRS. HAROLD CLIFFORD

Mr. and Mrs. Balthar Brown, Linda and Lawrence were in Ellis, Kan., over the weekend for a family reunion. There were six brothers and three sisters of Mrs. Brown's present, including a brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Webber, of Astoria, Ore., whom they had not seen for several years. Mr. and Mrs. Webber will be in Ramah Wednesday to visit the Browns.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Rebeck, of the Fondis community, were visiting Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Cox.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Clifford were Tuesday evening coffee guests of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Isgar.

Mrs. Emmabelle Hartwell, of Simla, and Mrs. Delphine Isgar were in Colorado Springs Tuesday. They attended the Arts and Crafts show at the City Auditorium, as did several others of Ramah.

Pollsters Say Predictions Were Right

By DOUW FONDA

NEW YORK (AP) — Political pollsters grinned broadly today as they compared their forecasts with President Johnson's smashing defeat of Republican Barry Goldwater.

With 83 per cent of the nation's voting units reporting, Johnson had obtained more than 62 per cent of the popular vote, biggest popular vote margin in a presidential election since 1900 and approaching the poll forecasts.

Both the Gallup and Harris nationwide polls had predicted that Johnson would get 64 per cent; Goldwater 36 per cent.

Johnson beat the records set by Warren G. Harding in 1920 and Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1936. Harding won 60.4 per cent of the popular vote and Roosevelt 60.8 per cent.

The pollsters' success was a far cry from 1948 when President Harry S. Truman defeated Gov. Thomas E. Dewey with 50 per cent of the vote against Dewey's 45.6 per cent.

That year Gallup forecast that Dewey would get 49.6 per cent and Truman would get 44.6; the Crossley Poll gave Dewey 49.9 and Truman 44.9; and the Roper Poll gave Dewey 52.2 and Truman 37.3.

The Gallup and Harris polls were not the only nationwide ones to predict Johnson's victory.

Time magazine said "Lyndon Johnson will beat Barry Goldwater by 495 electoral votes to 43."

U.S. News and World Report said "all major indicators now point to a Johnson win."

BURDEN OF FRANKENSTEIN

LONDON—Mrs. Fraenz Frankenstein - Oppenheimer doesn't think her name is anything to laugh at any more. Since the first Frankenstein film was released 30 years ago the joke has worn thinner and thinner.

Now the 90-year-old widow is so tired of practical jokers telephoning her London home in Florence Court, Maida Vale, that she is haying the number unlisted.

Sweet Corn King Studies With Visiting Priest

Father Titas Astrauskas, Roman Catholic Church medical missionary of Ibague, Colombia, South America, is back in Colorado Springs for a three weeks' visit and Tony Venetucci, the sweetcorn king of the Pikes Peak Region, is again taking lessons from him in Italian, in preparation for a visit with relatives. Venetucci had intended taking off for a trip to Italy this week, but learning that his friend Father Astraukas was here has postponed his departure.

Father Astrauskas speaks eight languages, English, Greek, Latin, Italian, Lithuanian, Spanish and Aramao. He is here visiting his sister, Mrs. Jadvija Tetschner and her husband, Floyd Tetschner, of 8 W. St. Elmo Ave.

Venetucci is a native of Colorado Springs, but when he went to Italy six years ago to visit relatives there he found that his knowledge of the Italian language was far from perfect. In 1959 he made the acquaintance of Father Astrauskas here and the priest undertook to help him brush up on Italian. Since then he has visited Father Astrauskas in Columbia three times and even planted some experimental fields of his famous Venetucci sweetcorn there.

Father Astrauskas is now a naturalized citizen of Columbia. The part of South America in which he lives and carries on his missionary work is very mountainous and heavily wooded. It is also tropical and the natives wear very little clothing. Father Astrauskas goes amoung them much on horseback. He greatly prizes his opportunities occasionally to visit Colorado Springs. The lessons in Italian are carried on as Venetucci shows him the sights of the Pikes Peak Region.

Mrs. Humphrey Started Beef Soup at Home

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last time Mrs. Hubert H. Humphrey was at her home here it was between campaign trips. Telephones were ringing, typewriters were clacking and workers were scurrying through her house.

She simply went into the kitchen and started making beef soup for everybody.

Muriel Humphrey is that kind of person — genuine and informal, a friend said.

The wife of the vice president-elect helped him climb up the political ladder. She once said she had been a door-bell pusher and precinct phoner since 1943, when her husband ran for mayor of Minneapolis.

In this past campaign she went to 32 states for the Democratic ticket. Her husband said she was such a good campaigner she was the one selected to go to Alaska and Hawaii to represent the top two men on the ticket.

She says she isn't a politician — "I just try to get out and meet people and let them get to know me and, of course, tell them about Hubert."

As for campaigning, she said she liked it — "It's nice to be useful."

In the speeches she made, she said often that, "As a wife and mother — and now a grandmother — I feel very strongly that election of the Johnson-Humphrey ticket is crucial to the welfare of our children."

She doesn't look grandmotherly at 52. Her silver hair is cut in a short bob, with bangs, and she's a petite size.

The Humphrey home in suburban Chevy Chase, Md., is obviously one where children grew up — a basketball net over the garage door, a concrete shuffleboard on the back lawn. The children's juke box has been removed from the paneled recreation porch, for they're older and away now.

Daughter Nancy, 25, is now Mrs. C. Bruce Solomonson of Burnsville, Minn., with two young daughters. Hubert Jr. (called Skip), 22, and his wife are students at American University here. Robert, 20, is a sophomore at Mankato State College in Minnesota. And Douglas, 16, is a junior at Shattuck Preparatory School in Faribault, Minn.

Mrs. Humphrey was born and grew up in Huron, S.D., and met her husband there. She is an accomplished pianist and takes great pride in her sewing. She is also one of those wives who helped her husband through school in Depression days by working.

For a while, she made sandwiches for Humphrey to sell to fellow students at a dime apiece.

Divide News

By NAOMA POPE — 277J

Eva Hammer and daughter Margaret had supper Sunday with Ben and Marie Barr Jr. and family at Tarryall.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Hamlet, of Boulder, spent the weekend with the Dave Davisons and enjoyed some hunting.

The Hi Neighbor Club met at the home of Leoma Kelly, south of Divide, Oct. 21. Sixteen were present. Plans were made to send Christmas boxes overseas. They also started a fund raising project.

Mrs. Roy Hammer and Sharon spent the weekend at their cabin while Roy was hunting.

Mrs. Mazie Ricker and Linny Davison have been on the sick list, but are feeling better.

Sympathy is extended to Mary McCutchen and Evelyn in the loss of husband and father. Bert was well liked by all and Divide has lost a good friend and neighbor.

Grandma McCumber was in the hospital for a checkup.

ASTOUNDING DISCOVERY

HAMBURG — An astounding discovery was recently made by Professor Theo Spreter von Kreudenstein, the head of the Kiel University Clinic for Dentistry and Allied Surgery: The very same bacteria which are held to be the causes of cavities due to their avid production prevent further deterioration of teeth after their death.

The scientist arrived at these results in the course of examinations of what is known as the "skin of teeth," a layer only a few microns thick, covering teeth everywhere they are exposed in the mouth cavity. This layer consists of calcium salts, and will form again and again, whenever it is damaged.

Doolittle Raider To Work for Space

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force Brig. Gen. David M. Jones, a participant in the famous World War II Doolittle raid on Japan, has been selected to help iron out problems in the Gemini and Apollo space programs and to work on plans for advanced manned missions in space.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Jones would take office Dec. 15 as a deputy associate administrator for manned space flight. He is now deputy chief of staff for systems, of the Air Force Systems Command at Andrews Air Force Base, Md.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Beth doth protest too much! Most of you violent critics of the facts expressed daily in this clinical column are "whistling in the dark." You are scared because you know subconsciously that the shoe fits, so you protest violently to try to sell yourself on your own mistaken diagnosis. Scrapbook this case!

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph. D., M. D.

CASE U-421: Beth B., aged 38, is an indignant wife.

"Dr. Crane," she protested during the forum at her Women's Club, "I don't read your column much of the time.

"For I don't need your advice!

"My husband is devoted to me and I'd have you know that our marriage is based on spiritual values, not on sex!

"In fact, sex is a sordid aspect of marriage, anyway, for real marriage can exist on an ethereal plane of poetry and music and art and other spiritual values.

"So why do you place so much emphasis on sex?"

The most indignant critics of this clinical column in practical psychology, are usually the ones who need it most.

Beth's remark that she doesn't require the advice herein, is thus "whistling in the dark."

She just HOPES she doesn't need it!

And she is trying to sell herself on the idea that idealism, poetry and art can safeguard her home.

Subconsciously, however, she knows she is wrong but she is afraid to face the facts.

So the reason he can sit placidly at home and enjoy Beth's sorties in the realm of poetry, music and art, is the fact the paramour has already satiated his erotic hungers.

Beth has suspected his unfaithfulness but she is panicky lest her suspicions be correct.

Scared almost to death, she figuratively imitates the little boy who whistles bravely as he passes a cemetery at night.

For Beth's loud protest about the ethereal basis of marriage is sales talk to try to convince herself.

Actually, you wives have little to fear if you will simply face the facts and then wage an earthy or mundane attack.

Fight fire with fire! Change your hair style; adopt new perfume; invest in diaphanous nighties. And become seductively more aggressive in your boudoir.

For wayward husbands generally admit they prefer to have an affair with their own wife!

But when they try to resurrect some of the thrilling emotions that have been in cold storage for 10 to 20 years, what does the average wife say:

"Oh, Henry, act your age!" Or, she may murmur, "I'm too tired!"

Rebuffed in this manner a few times, such a husband may develop a platonic attitude toward his wife.

Even though he realizes he really loves her more than any other woman, and he admits her virtues as a mother and a superlative cook, he still wants some erotic excitement out of life.

For men retain a strong hunger both for gastric calories and the erotic variety.

Admiration for his wife's maternal virtues still will not let him forego his meals or his desire for ardent episodes. Wives, get hep!

So send for my booklet "How to Prevent Platonic Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

NEW LOOK IN OILFIELDS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The old image of an oilfield abristle with tall, ugly and noisy equipment is not accurate any more, the American Petroleum Institute (API) reports — especially in city oilfields.

One field a few miles from downtown Los Angeles produces 6,200 barrels of oil daily in such a way that few people realize it is there, the API said. A concrete wall screens the field from passersby, crude oil is piped away to eliminate the need for storage tanks, and pumping noises are muffled with sound-deadening materials.

Local CAP Join Search For Plane

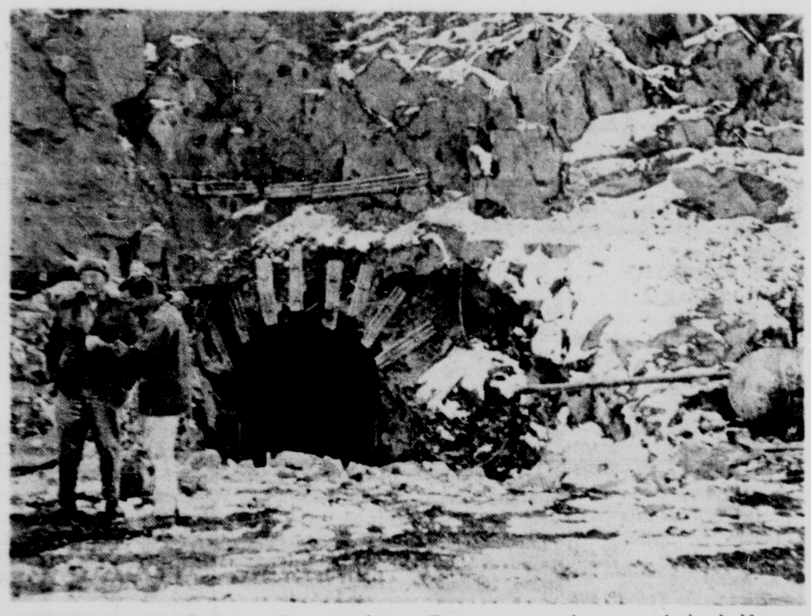
Local members of the Civil Air Patrol have joined in a search for a twin Beach aircraft missing since Tuesday morning in the Pueblo area with five persons aboard.

Officials said the plane left Denver at 10:05 a.m. Tuesday and was last heard from at 10:33 a.m. when it checked in with the Pueblo Airport. The plane was enroute to Lubbock, Tex.

Pilot of the plane was J. A. Willess of Dallas. There were four passengers aboard.

The CAP emergency services group and three vehicles from the Ft. Carson squadron are aiding in the search. Headquarters for the search will be in La Junta. Lt. Don Peck is mission coordinator.

WINTRY TOUCH — Crews working on the Western Slope side of the multi-million dollar Homestake water program got a touch of winter recently. Light snowfall covers route of East Homestake Creek conduit. Crews will work through the winter, if possible, in order to bring first water from the project to Colorado Springs and Aurora in the spring of 1966. (Utilities Dept. Photo)



UPSTREAM PORTAL — This is the Western Slope, or upstream, portal of the Homestake Tunnel which is being bored 5.5 miles through the Continental Divide as part of the huge Colorado Springs Aurora water Development program. Only a few hundred feet of the tunnel will be bored from the Western Slope side. Smith-Quad Construction Company crew has passed the half-way mark in the tunnel project, boring from the Eastern Slope side from a point 10 miles northwest of Leadville. At left in foreground is Fred H. Wiley, chief engineer for the Colorado Springs Utilities Department, with Robert Graff, engineer-manager for the two cities on the project. (Utilities Dept. Photo)

Jury Trials Slated for City Court

Jury trials were set for Dec. 15, Dec. 16 and Dec. 17 for four persons in Municipal Court Tuesday. Jury selection will take place on Dec. 15.

A three-man jury will be selected for Lewis Calvert, 24, 418 N. 28th St., who is charged with failure to yield the right of way. Calvert's trial will take place on Dec. 15 and he will be represented by E. O. Bird.

Warren Frank, 35, USAF, will be tried by a six-man jury on Dec. 16 on a charge of drunkenness and resisting police. He will be represented by Thomas Gresham.

Brian Mullett will represent Michael Metz, 34, 929 E. Cimarron, who is charged with speeding. The six-man jury trial will take place on Dec. 16.

Berry's World Subject for Time Article

Jim Berry, who draws Berry's World for the Gazete Telegraph and Newspaper Enterprises Association, is the subject of an article in Time Magazine this week.

"Berry's forte is good-natured whimsey and a talent for deft deflation that is particularly effective when he sights in on his folksy image of Lyndon Johnson," Time sadi.

Three of Berry's recent panels are reproduced with the article.

Berry, 32, is the opposite of the angry young man.

"I'm not mad at anybody," Tim quotes him as saying. "Satire comes naturally to me and I prefer to take pot shots at anybody and anything."

"A Berry panel never shouts," Time said. "None of the characters is ever directly identified and the point is sometimes kept deliberately small as the cartoon itself, which runs two columns to the typical editorial cartoon's three columns."

Berry's World, less than two years old, now appears in more than 400 daily newspapers.

Paving Companies Plan Filters for Dust Control

Two local asphalt paving companies are making plans to install filters on their plants during the winter months to eliminate the dust now blown into the air near the city.

The modifications, which will cost between $10,000 and $16,000, have been decided upon at the suggestion of the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce.

"We had quite a number of complaints," reported Clayton Banta, secretary manager of the chamber, "from individuals as well as industry. It might be that there are other offenders, but the two asphalt paving companies were the most pressing, possibly because those plants are built on high ground where they were easily visible."

Spokesmen for the plants, realizing the problems of persons who had complained, said that they were willing to see what could be done about the problem.

"We have filters on the plants already," B. C. Andrews, manager of Broderick and Gibbons Inc., said. "But the dust is just too fine to be contained. Also we are doing more work with quarried materials this year. Another problem is that industry is moving out here closer to us. But there's no point in fighting the complaints. It would only create hard feeling."

"We had gotten a few complaints here at the plant but the first time I realized it was getting serious was when I read a letter to the editor early in October complaining. Then, about the 15th, we got a call from the Chamber of Commerce."

"Of course, I realized they had a point. When the wind is right, the dust sifts down on my own lawn. I was thinking of filing a complaint myself." (with that Andrews laughed).

"We've been looking at some of this filter equipment and are going to advertise for bids. But, as far as I can tell, the equipment itself is going to run us about $10,000. It will take $5,000 or $6,000 more to modify our present plant and to install the new equipment. Also, we are going to have to figure out a way to get the water up here to run it. The advertisements say that it will use about 100 gallons a minute."

"This is a kind of a sprinkler system. The dust will be blown through this system under pressure most of it will combine with the water and fall. We still won't be able to alleviate the whole problem, but this will help."

Harry Zaring, speaking for Rocky Mountain Paving, explained that atmospheric conditions this fall have created more of a dust problem than usual.

"The humidity has been very low," Zaring said, "and the dust hasn't combined and fallen as it usually does — now it remains suspended. Another part of the problem is when we opened this plant in 1947, we were quite a distance from town. Now the town is getting bigger and people are building closer."

"Also, this year we have been required to use more limestone aggregate in the work we were doing. It has to be heated to 300 degrees in order to combine it with the asphalt for paving materials. We try to get all of the moisture out of the materials before they are combined; therefore, the dust comes out very dry. This dust is just like face powder. If you threw a box of face powder all over a room, the particles of dust would stay suspended for hours."

"This dust is so fine that it will pass right through a 200-mesh screen (200 wires per inch). You can't even pour water through those."

"We are fabricating a wet dust collector — making it from drawings we have access to. It will cost around $10,000 including labor and material. We will have to get the water from the city. I have no idea of the exact quantity of water this operation will require. We have a 30,000 gallon tank which we probably will utilize for water storage. We will fill it at times when the water is available without curtailing the supply to the city."

"I doubt if more than 10 percent of the dust over Colorado Springs is caused by the two paving companies combined. All the dirt and gravel roads in this area have the same effect. It's just that people can look out and see a concentrated area of dust over our plants and think that's where the entire problems lies."

"I had a call from a lady the other day asking me what I was going to do about 'that awful dust.' The wind was blowing from the south and from the address she gave, I couldn't see how it could be effecting her. So I drove down into her area and found the problem. They were sandblasting a church at 21st and Colorado. The cloud of dust from their work was being swept directly onto her porch."

"Both plants, however, I am sure realize that we are a part of the problem and regret that we have caused anyone trouble. We will do all we can to alleviate it."

Sponsors Visit Cadets at Air Academy

5,000 Men Attend Carson Religious Training Day

Five thousand men of the 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) and Ft. Carson attended the opening of Ft. Carson's third Religious Training Day despite a rising north wind snapping flags on Pershing Field Tuesday.

Maj. Gen. Charles E. Brown, Army chief of chaplains, trimmed his keynote sermon to the essentials.

"You are the salt of the earth," Chaplain Brown complimented his wind-blasted congregation outlining the three things of primary importance that religion should do for men.

He drew analogies between the healing, toughening and flavoring qualities of salt.

"You have the responsibility of healing the troubles of the world. . .of keeping trouble from engulfing the world. . .you are the healers," he explained.

He continued saying that "religion will toughen us to the place where we can stand more . . ." adding his third point that as salt improves the flavor of food, religion should add zest and flavor to life.

"As Jesus said: 'You are the salt of the earth' and I want the 5th Division to be a salty outfit," the Chief of Chaplains concluded.

Col. William Reiss, Continental Army Command chaplain, addressing the Protestant morning worship service in the Palace Theatre took as his theme Christ's Youth Program using the text from I Nehemiah, v. 10.

He challenged his youthful listeners to destroy the widespread threat to the Christian Church contained in godless philosophies and the widespread immoral and amoral influences in daily life.

"We need under God a transfusion of red-blooded courage that comes with youth consecrated to Christ. . .Christ's youth is the strengthening foundation on which all national blessings must rest," he continued.

". . .we look to faith in Christ and to the power of His love in the lives of Christian citizens. . .for the righteousness that 'exalteth a nation'," Chaplain Reiss concluded.

The Ft. Carson fieldhouse was the scene of the sessions for Catholic personnel with Col. Charles J. Murphy, Fifth U.S. Army chaplain, opening with the theme for Religious Training Day at the morning solemn mass.

His topic was Lay Ecumenism, the preparation of laymen for greater responsibilities in church affairs and the greater knowledge and preparation required in their personal lives.

Col. Harold F. Donovan, Ft. Carson chaplain, explained at an afternoon session how this preparation should be developed and gave reasons for the many changes in Catholic services resulting from the Ecumenical Council.

Jewish personnel gathered for informal discussions throughout the day with Rabbi Lewis Jakob of Colorado Springs covering the Jewish Way of Worship. Air Force Cahplain (Capt.) Henry D. Arrow explaining the Jewish Way of Life and Rabbi Bernard Frankel speaking on Judaism, Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow.

Afternoon services for Episcopalians were held by Chaplain (Capt.) Hugh Barnes and for Latter Day Saints by Col. Hampton Price of Ent Air Force Base and St. Jajor W W. Gillman of Fort Carson.

Attendance at the Religious Training Day activities was voluntary.

Mrs. Mary Weber Died Tuesday at Hospital

Mrs. Mary E. Weber, 2825 Jon St., died Tuesday at a local hospital. She was 81.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. Thursday in the Swan Funeral Home with the Rev. Lamar Hocker officiating. Burial will be in Evergreen Cemetery.

Mrs. Weber, a resident here for 40 years, was born on April 25, 1883, in Hollenberg, Kan.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Millie E. Black and Mrs. Ruby Northup, both of Colorado Springs; a son, Melvin O. Weber of Peyton, and 11 grandchildren.

Miss Mueller Appointed to Denver Hospital

Miss Shirley Ann Mueller of Colorado Springs, Colorado has been appointed a Red Cross social workers at Fitzsimons General Hospital in Denver. She assumed her duties on October 5

As a social worker, Miss Mueller joins a hospital medical team — doctors, nurses, social workers, recreation workers, volunteers, and others — in planning for the recovery of the patient by assisting him through medically approved social work services.

Red Cross social services in military hospitals are part of the responsibility given to the American Red Cross by Congressional Charter to help military personnel and their families solve problems they cannot handle alone. The social worker strives to establish a common bond of understanding between separated family members and to coordinate the resources of his family, the Red Cross, and the military and civilian communities.

A native of Lakin, Kansas, Miss Mueller attended elementary schools in Kendall, Kansas. She completed her high school work in Colorado Springs, and later attended Central Pilgrim Junior College in Bartlesville, Oklahoma.

Miss Kendall received her bachelor's degree in sociology at Northwestern State College in Alva, Oklahoma, and continued her social work studies at Michigan State University in Lansing, Michigan.

Before joining Red Cross, Miss Mueller was a caseworker with Colorado Springs Child Welfare. She also served as youth director with the YWCA in Atlantic City, New Jersey.

New York State Gives Johnson Big Victory

By ROBERT T. GRAY

NEW YORK (AP) — President Johnson surged to victory in New York State in a record landslide Teusday night that swept Robert F. Kennedy into the U.S. Senate and toppled the top two Republicans from the state legislature.

Johnson led Sen. Barry Goldwater by more than 1-1, pointing to a record plurality of 2.5 million or more votes.

With returns from 9,923 of the state's 12,439 districts, Johnson led Goldwater by 3,652,822 votes to 1,739,737.

Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney and Assembly Speaker Joseph F. Carlino were defeated in the Johnson tidal wave.

Kennedy, 38, brother of the late president and a former U.S. attorney general, opened a new phase of his own political career by wresting a U.S. Senate seat from Kenneth B. Keating, the 64-year-old Republican incumbent.

Lincoln County Voters Give LBJ 220 Vote Margin

HUGO — By a margin of 220 votes, Pres. Lyndon B. Johnso and Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey led in the presidential race in Lincoln County. The Democratic candidates received 1322 votes to 1102 for Sen. Barry M. Goldwater and Rep. William E. Miller.

Voters in the largely rural county decisively rejected the second proposed amendment to the Colorado constitution, permitting abolition of the office of the county superintendent of schools, by a vote of 1330 to 683 in the general election Tuesday.

The contest for justice of the Colorado Supreme Court was a close one, with Ranger Rogers (R), 1205 votes, barely surpassing Leonard V. B. Sutton (D), 1180 votes.

Rep. J. Edgar Chenoweth (R) led by an even smaller margin, with 1305 votes, as compared to 1160 for Frank E. Evans (D), in the contest for representative in the Congress for the Third Congressional District.

In the contest for regents of the University of Colorado, Fred M. Betz Sr. (D) led with 1202 votes, but Paul Bradley, (R) 1145 votes, was nearly tied with Frank A. Kemp, (R) 1123 votes, for second place. Daniel F. Lynch (D) polled only 975 votes.

John F. Gallagher (D) took a definite lead in the race for district judge, Fourth Judicial District, Eastern Division, with 1055 votes. Next was Charles J. Simon, (R) with 907 votes, and far behind was James F. Quine Jr., Non-Partisan judicial with 390 votes.

Three candidates were unopposed. Robert Schafer (R) received 1948 votes for state representative in the 65th Representative District. Patrick M. Hinton (R) received 1645 votes for district judge, Fourth Judicial District, Western Division. Robert L. Russel (R) won 1687 votes for district attorney, Fourth Judicial District.

In the race for county judge, G. E. Foster (R), 1300 votes, led R. A. Hanselman (D), 1108 votes.

A. S. Covington Sr. (D), 1345 votes, led by a similar margin over Lloyd Kimble (R), 1115 votes, in the contest for county commissioner, Second District.

Warren Leonard (D) won a decisive victory in the race for county commissioner, Third District, receiving 1463 votes to the 954 of his opponent, Jack R. Owen (R).

The first proposed amendment to the Constitution of the State of Colorado, providing for a state auditor under the legislaive department to replace the auditor of state under the executive department, was also rejected, but by a closer margin than the first proposed amendment, with 984 votes no to 809 votes yes, in Lincoln County.

There were 2940 voters registered in the county.

Minnesota Delivers Vote To Demo Slate

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota delivered its 10 electoral votes Tuesday night to President Johnson and his running mate, Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, the first Minnesotan on a national ticket.

Johnson and Humphrey jumped into the lead as the first returns rolled in and never relinquished it as returns mounted from the heavy voter turnout across the state.

With returns tallied from 1,746 of Minnesota's 3,800 precincts, Johnson and Humphrey po'led 579,991, Sen. Barry Goldwater and Rep. William E. Miller 309,492.

The Democratic tide also carried Sen. Eugene McCarthy to a second-term victory over Republican Wheelock Whitney.

In both races the incomplete returns were showing a vote split close to the pre-election forecasts. Whitney was running ahead of the Goldwater-Miller vote.

In the congressional races, Democrats Joseph Karth in the 4th District, Donald Fraser in the 5th and John Hlatnik in the 8th were re-elected with heavy majorities.

In the other five races, returns showed the four Republican incumbents and the fourth Democratic congressman leading in battles for re-election.

Family Affair Seen in Mental Rehabilitation

BRENTWOOD, N.Y. (AP) — It's a family affair at Pilgrim State Hospital here, where Mrs. Theora Edna Specht, four of her sons, four daughters-in-law, a niece and nephew, are engaged in mental rehabilitation work.

Mrs. Specht, 58 and a widow, is a dormitory housemother at Pilgrim's School of Nursing. John H. Specht is a senior security guard; Theodore, an RN, is a supervisor; twins Allan and Arthur, both RN's, are evening and day supervisors, respectively. The sons' wives are Eileen Specht, RN, attached to the school of Nursing; Mrs. Patricia E. Specht, RN, a ward head nurse; Mrs. Barbara Specht a dental assistant; and Mrs. Margaret Specht, a ward attendant.

The nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Ary Peetoom, recently graduated as registered nurses and joined the others at Pil-

FIRST FAMILY VOTES — Gov. and Mrs. John A. Love returned to Colorado Springs Tuesday to vote in the election. The Loves are shown outside the voting booth after casting their ballot at Cheyenne Mountain Broadmoor elementary school.

President's Fremont Lead Apace With State Trend

CANON CITY — President Johnson's lead in Fremon County was apace with the Colorado trend.

With all but one precinct with 123 votes counted, the Johnson-Humphrey ticket collected 5,124 votes in the general election, and the Goldwater-Miller slate received 3,824.

Local attention centered on two county commissioners' races.

In the 1st Commissioner's District, Republican Charlie McDaniel received 5,001 votes to 3,974 for Democrat William T. Berry.

In the 3rd Commissioner's District, Democrat Denzel Goodwin had 5,221 votes to 3,818 for Republican Finis Parks.

Incumbent U. S. Rep. J. Edgar Chenoweth, a Republican, had 4,953 votes to 4,197 for Democrat Frank E. Evans.

Republican Ranger Rogers trailed Democrat Leonard B. Sutton, incumbent, in the race for Justice of the State Supreme Court, 4,159 to 4,705.

Two Democrat candidates for regents of the University of Colorado received the high vote: Fred M. Betz Sr., 4,716; and Daniel F. Lynch, 4,327. Republican Paul Bradley collected 3,965; and Frank A. Kemp, also a Republican, had 3,817.

Republican Harold R. Harward was unopposed with 5,831 votes for district attorney, 11th Judicial District.

A Democrat received the high vote for district judge, 11th Judicial District, Northern Division. Howard E. Purdy, the Democrat, received 4,982 votes to 3,951 for Republican Robert W. Nevens.

For county judge, Frances Schalow, Republican, had 4,025 votes to 4,941 for Democrat Bryan L. Whitehead.

For state representative, 52nd Representative District, T. Everett Cook, Democrat, had 4,610 votes to 4,470 for Harold L. McCormick, Republican.

Amendment One, to place the state auditor under the state legislature, and Amendment Two, to permit electors to abolish the office of county superintendent of schools, did not have the vote counted by press-time.

Bolivia Chief Tries to Save Government

LAPAZ, Bolivia (AP) —The chief of Bolivia's armed forces negotiated with rebellious army and air force factions today in an attempt to save the hard-pressed government of President Victor Paz Estenssoro.

Gen. Alfredo Obando Candia said all troop activity had been suspended while he tried to "clear up any misunderstanding among the military" who revolted in the interior Tuesday.

The government announced Tuesday night that a truce had been reached with insurgent forces ,but Vice President Rene Barrientos, the leader of the uprising, demanded anew that Paz Estenssoro resign.

Barrientos , the former air force chief of staff, said he would step down too if the president would turn over power to a military junta.

Political circles considered the situation grave for Paz Estenssoro, whose regime has been plagued by student demonstrations and a tin miner's revolt for nearly two weeks.

The president in a broadcast accused Communist plotters and amitious army officers of sparking the revolt.

Rebel broadcasts claimed all troops in Cochabamba, Oruro, Sucre, Camiri, Viacha, Santa Cru zand Robere had joined the revolt.

The government said only units in Oruro, Cochabamba and Santa Cruz had defected.

Barrientos was in Cochabamba, 350 miles southeast of La Paz.

In La Paz, the Ingavi Regiment and the Air Force Technical School revolted and seized Gen. Obando but surrendered after two hours.

Paz Estenssoro has been under fire since he had the constitution amended so he could run for a second successive term last May. Other political parties boycotted the election and his own National Revolutionary Movement was divided.

Mass Advertising Gains Are Reported

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y. (AP) —More and more people these days are learning the advantages of mass advertising.

Salinger Loses; Murphy Goes To U. S. Senate

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Californians dumped Democratic Sen. Pierre Salinger on Tuesday night, sending Republican George Murphy to the U.S. Senate in his first bid at political office.

Murphy, a former Hollywood actor long active in GOP state politics, held a steadily mounting lead over Salinger, a native Californian also making his first run at elective politics. Salinger was appointed in August to serve out the unexpired term of the late Democratic Sen. Clair Engle.

Salinger, 39, was the victim of ticket-splitting, as many Democrats deserted him for the 62-year-old Murphy.

Salinger, who served Presidents John F. Kennedy and Johnson as press secretary, couldn't match Johnson's big margin in California.

In 15,597 of 31,498 precincts it was Murphy 1,698,422; Salinger 1,520,683.

Murphy surged ahead at the start on a wave of Los Angeles and Southern California votes. Salinger, former San Francisco newsman, couldn't recoup in Northern California, his strong area.

Missing Plane Is Sought in La Junta Area

LA JUNTA, Colo. (UPI)— A four-state search was launched today for five Dallas, Tex., men missing since Tuesday on a flight from Denver to Lubbock, Tex.

The private plane was to have landed at the Lubbock Airport at 12:30 p.m. MST Tuesday.

The pilot of the missing plane was identified as J. A. Willess. Passengers were Ernest Marmom, executive vice president of the Dr. Pepper Bottling Co. at Dallas, and two other executives of the firm, Max McNeil and Mac Green, and Gregg Sherry, account executive with the Grant Advertising Agency, also of Dallas.

Today's search was being directed out of La Junta.

Colorado Civil Air Patrol officials said the five last were heard from at 10:33 a.m. when the pilot radioed the Pueblo, Colo., airport for weather information. The weather was reported as extremely turbulent at the time.

56 Red Cong Troops Killed By Rangers

By PETER ARNETT

CA MAU, South Viet Nam (AP) — Fighting their way from foxhole to foxhole, 80 Vietnamese Rangers overpowered a force of Communist guerrillas Tuesday and killed 56.

"This is an election day present for LBJ," said one U.S. adviser.

Ranger casualties were only one killed and 16 wounded in the three-hour assault, which apparently caught the entrenched guerrillas off guard in the hamlet of Khai Quang, 15 miles north of Ca Mau.

"Our boys wiped out 15 foxholes one by one and there were Viet Cong in all of them," said Lt. Robert F. Herrick of Alton, Ill.

The Communists attacked Khai Quang outpost Monday night and appeared to be waiting Tuesday to ambush government reinforcements. But the reinforcements arrived by helicopter and not by road as the guerrillas were expecting.

On the political front in Saigon, Chief of State Phan Khac Suu designated ex-Premier Nguyen Khanh to continue as commander of South Viet Nam's armed forces. The High National Council which is setting up the country's new civilian government had been reported opposed to Khanh's continuing as commander.

Germans Still Germans Even in East Germany

EDITOR'S NOTE — Germans are still Germans, even in East Germany, and after the Soviet Union the country looks good. Preston GRover, writer of the following article, recently completed five years as chief of The Associated Press bureau in Moscow.

EAST BERLIN (AP) — East Germany's evidence of improving conditions comes as something of a surprise.

For years reports have come out of this ofttimes secret part of Germany that the factories have remained in semi-ruin since the war, that farms were running to weeds after the final collectivization of 1960, and that store shelves were bare.

Many of those reports undoubtedly were once true.

I have just completed a very busy ten-day tour of the country, driving in a rented West German car, visiting manufacturing plants, shipyards, schools old and new, country and city stores, churches old and new, apartments, farms and farm houses.

Things are getting better, economically.

This country suffers by comparison with West Germany, or any part of West Europe. It looks better when compared to cities and towns in the Soviet Union. East Germans themselves do not try to conceal their envy of West German economic progress. But they don't try to conceal their belief that they are better off than the pioneers of communism in the Soviet Union.

Beginning with 1948 I have visited East Berlin about every two years. It was, and still is, a forlorn place compared with West Berlin.

What is more impressive is the steady buildup in the other part of East Germany. What should be remembered is that Germans are Germans, wherever found. They are hardworking, and handy with tools and brooms. They also like to live well, and they are beginning to do so in East Germany, after a long pause following the war.

It was almost a pity that my tour had to begin with the big Leipzig International Fair, for Leipzig is one of the grayest cities I have ever seen. There is little that is attractive.

After Leipzig, things looked up. With an East German editor as a guide, I headed 175 miles north. Through good-looking villages and past fine farm land we drove, nearly always on good roads. I had asked to stop off at a collective farm to see what had happened in the big collectivization drive of 1960.

The farm we stopped at was northwest of Berlin, around a village named Fahrbidde. It was, of course, a model and the manager, Friedrich Rickmann, conceded with an amiable grin that a fair number of correspondents were directed to it.

When the goverrment in 1960 forced every farmer into these supervised farm groups, there were many cruel scenes. Today, strictly private farming is ended in East Germany.

Yet it is unlike the massive collectivization in the Soviet Union. Rickmann said German farmers never would accept that.

Rickmann united his group before the big drive in 1960. It allows a certain amount of private farming. Thirty families pooled 1,400 acres. Of this, 200 acres are in forest, 500 acres in pasture, and the balance not very good farm land.

Before they pooled their land and labor, the bigger farmers, with 100 to 150 acres and little machinery, couldn't do all their own work. Smaller farmers, with only 10 or 12 acres, couldn't earn a living. So, pushed a little, they came together.

The farmers still hold title to their land and get rent from it from the cooperative, but Rickmann worked it out shrewdly so everybody has to work. No one lives on land rentals. First off, the bigger farmers had to sell much of their land to the smaller farmers or to farm workers invited in on the deal. Each worker in a family could keep about 35 acres of farm land. In addition, 19 of the 30 families have some private pasture land on which they raise pigs and cattle. Most of the livestock belongs to the individual farmers.

Every farmer must work 210 days a year or he gets no rental payment for his land. For his wages, he is paid 16 marks or $4 a work-day unit and a good worker can easily do one and a half units in eight hours. Some do three units in a long day.

Women must work 60 days, but a man can work all 270 days and save his wife from doing farm work. Unlike in the Soviet Union the women do only light farm work at Rickmann's.

Both little and big farmers now work full time for the cooperative, and Rickmann said there was no grumbling.

Rickmann said they were all doing better and the collective was building up reserves for more buildings and livestock purchases. Five families were on vacation in the southern mountains during a lull in the harvesting.

When the collective was formed, Rickmann was the only one in the group with an automobile. Now 11 members own automobiles.

This is a farm collective which is working. I ran into another which technically was a success but there was also considerable unhappiness.

"They grumble about losing their independence," said the manager, "but they have less to worry about. We do the worrying."

I heard of still other cases where hardships were real, and production fell off when the land was collectivized, because good farmers lost interest in land they didn't own. It is hard to get solid information about present conditions. You don't get to see the suffering farmers in these Communist countries.

Yet wherever we drove — and we crisscrossed the country north and south, east and west — the land looked well farmed and the villages comfortably prospering.

After the five years I have just spent in the Soviet Union, where villages are pretty somber affairs, I found East German villages looking strangely prosperous and solid, although not rich.

East Germany is getting away from its agricultural background and becoming more industrialized. I visited two impressive new shipyards in the north, one at Wismar and another at Stralsund, and a new and expanding harbor at Rostock, all on the Baltic.

I toured the new oil city of Schwedt and the new iron city of Eisenhuttenstadt. These are brand new projects.

Jointly with the shipyards, they showed how greatly East Germany depends on the Soviet Union. About 75 per cent of the ships built at the two yards are sold to the Soviet Union — passenger ships, river boats, and deep-sea trawlers that range the seven seas.

Schwedt, on the Oder River just across from Poland, gets all its oil from the Soviet "Friendship" pipeline. Only one unit of the oil refinery has been built, by German engineers using Soviet plans. It handles 2.4 million tons of oil a year. Two more units are in the making, for a total processing of 7.2 million tons a year. Another pipeline and more refineries are being talked about.

Eisenhuttenstadt gets all its iron ore from the Soviet Union's Krivoy Rog and, according to the plant economist, processes 1.4 million tons of pig iron a year.

These new projects represent a big industrial change in East Germany. They also show how tightly the country is being tied to the Soviet Union.

Hunters Urged Not To Be Litterbugs

NEW YORK (AP) — The 15 million hunters who will take to America's forests this fall are urged "not to exchange rubbish for game."

C. R. Gutermuth, vice president of the Wildlife Management Institute and chairman of Keep America Beautiful's national advisory council steering committee, estimates that "if all these hunters were litterbugs each one of them would leave at least a pound of trash—or a total of 7,000 tons — in the nation's woods."

Gutermuth's advice to hunters is simply this: "Take out of the wilderness all the trash you carry in—except what you can safely burn."

INVOLVEMENT

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Rev. Dr. Leonard J. Kramer, of the Department of International Affairs of the National Council of Churches, returned recently from a trip covering about 9,000 miles and almost every state and reported growing interest and concern among church people in international affairs and world peace.

"Everywhere I went I found genuine Christian concern for studying what the churches can do across denominational lines to work for world peace by pooling their interests and resources," Rev. Dr. Kramer said. He conferred on his trip with church council officers, members of United Church Women and local ministers of the department's Nationwide Program of Education and Action for Peace.

Rifle Competitors Decide to Combine

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The bullseye was heart - shaped for Janet Sue Fridell and Florencio Lugo Rodriguez, who have announced their engagement. The couple met three years ago at the National Rifle and Pistol Matches at Camp Perry, Ohio. Miss Fridell's specialty is rifle-ry and Rodriguez' is pistolry. In 1961 she won the National Women's Open & Metallic Sign championships and was the first woman chosen to fire with the U.S. Pershing International trophy Team. Rodriguez, a police sergeant in Mayaguez, Puerto Rico, is a member of the 1963 Puerto Rican Pan American team which participated in Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Injured Barber Gets Mechanical Aid

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (AP) — Dick Gordon, injured in a car-motorcycle accident, won't be able to walk for many months, but he is back at his barber shop cutting hair, thanks to an ingenious mechanical contraption.

His brother Don, a body and fender worker, designed a swinging stool attached to the barber chair and a swinging leg rest for Gordon, whose left leg was broken and right hip fractured. With it he is able to give a haircut, answer the telephone, reach his tools and tonics and punch the cash register.

Minister Can Help With Crop Dusting

ROBY, Tex. (AP)—Residents here can call their minister for an unusual need. He can lend a helping hand with the crop-dusting—if a pilot has to be away or is ill.

Rev. O. Abbott Jr., pastor of the First Methodist Church, was always interested in flying, but chose to become a minister instead. He picked up flying lessons when he could, however, and finally acquired both a private and a commercial license.

"A minister's salary doesn't lend itself readily to the purchase of planes," the young preacher reports, "And this idea of a flying preacher isn't too attractive to some, particularly my wife."

But he's glad to use his hobby to help out when it's needed. He volunteers his service free of charge.

NO DEAL

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Alice Haugh, who deals in antiques, advertised a Victorian love seat for sale. A woman called and expressed interest.

She asked the price, but Mrs. Haugh suggested that the woman come see the love seat, and then they could decide how much it is worth.

Replied the caller: "Well, I have a couple of cemetery lots I'd like to trade in on it."

That ended the prospective deal.

Creamed Potatoes and Celery

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
¼ teaspoon paprika
Salt and pepper to taste
2½ cups diced (½ inch) cooked potatoes
½ cup finely diced celery
1 cup fresh bread crumbs mixed with 1 cup grated cheddar cheese

Make a white sauce of the butter, flour, milk, paprika and salt and pepper; mix with potatoes and celery. Turn into a baking dish (10 by 6 by 1¾ inches). Sprinkle with crumb-cheese mixture; dust with paprika. Bake in a hot (400 degrees) oven 20 to 30 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

Thin mayonnaise with pineapple juice and blend in some yellow mustard. This combination is excellent with a fruit salad.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

I love granny gowns and I want them down around my feet when I sleep, but if they're really long, they get soiled so easily.

When I made my last gown, I made it just as long as I wanted it. Instead of stitching in a hem I just stitched over the edge so it wouldn't ravel. Then I pressed in a deep hem and held it in place with snaps all around.

It took six snaps to hold up the hem. Now it stays clean while I'm up and lets down quickly so that my feet stay warm when I go to bed. —Ginny Lee

Another idea which would save you snapping and unsnapping the hem of your gown is to buy an extra yard of the cotton flannel and make an extra-wide pillow slip to match the gown.

Keep this under the pillow during the day.

At night when you sit down on the edge of the bed, slip your feet into this warm, cozy foot-pillow slip, pull it up to your knees, and cuddle up for a good night's sleep with warm feet and no shocking cold sheets.

If your feet get too warm, this foot-slip can be kicked off. I made one out of corduroy, turning the pile on the inside.

This is especially good for older people and people with cold feet like ours. They make lovely gifts for oldsters and precious gifts for babies.

For baby . . . make the slip 18 inches-wide and 24-inches-long with a drawstring at the top. Tie drawstring loosely around the darling's waist. No matter how much he kicks or scoots, he still has covered feet. —Heloise

Letter Of Thought

One should take the time they waste criticizing others and apply the criticism to themselves. It usually fits . . .

Use the energy you waste in hating others to get something done. When angry, you can accomplish more. Don't waste anger. It's so valuable!

Dear Heloise:

If you aren't supposed to eat a lot of butter or margarine . . . don't put it in your refrigerator.

When spreading your bread or rolls, you will use less butter or margarine if it is soft instead of hard! —Carol Brady

Dear Heloise:

As aquarists, we would like to submit the following suggestions on cleaning fish bowls:

Goldfish, like tropicals, need a certain water temperature in order to remain healthy . . . from 69 to 70 degrees.

The water supply in most cities and towns contains chlorine which can be fatal to fish. We suggest cleaning two or three one-gallon jars with rock salt and warm water. Rinse well. Fill jars from the tap and let sit for "24 hours" prior to cleaning bowl. The chlorine will then be gone and the temperature right.

Place the fish in a separate jar with some of the "old" water while cleaning and changing bowl, then replace them.

If fish are not overfed, this job does not have to be done too often. —Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. MacDonald

Dear Heloise:

Here's a hint for mothers of small children:

Round up three outdated telephone books (more if the books are thin) and buy about one-half yard of adhesive-backed paper to harmonize with your your kitchen decor.

Tape the books together to prevent slipping, then cover them with the paper.

This makes a perfect booster-seat for the little one. It is easily wiped off, is not conspicuous and costs less than 50 cents. —Roni Snelling

Dear Roni:

A Beauty Hint

Margaret Merril advises that it is quite simple for every woman to promote an English countryside complexion. Her hint to gain a peaches-and-cream loveliness is to damp a cloth with cold water from your refrigerator and press it over your face for a few minutes once or twice a day. Then, to hold the good of the complexion-beautifying cold water smooth on a little tropical oil of olay. This oil is rather scarce and expensive but your drug store should be able to get you a small supply.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Be Tactful, Mom!

DEAR ABBY: There is a teacher who should have been retired years ago, but she is still teaching. She seems to get pleasure out of making her pupils miserable. She has been at the same school ever since I can remember, and I have yet to hear a good word about her. She has picked on my son, and has ridiculed and humiliated him more than once. Now he looks for excuses (sore throat, stomach upset) so he can stay home. I am afraid to report her to the principal because she might find out who made the complaint and take it out on my son. What can be done? — CONCERNED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Ask the principal if others have complained about the veteran teacher, and state your problem as you know it—without indicting the teacher. An understanding principal will help your son.

DEAR ABBY: What is a good curfew time for a boy 17 years of age? In your opinion, should a boy that age be permitted to go "out" every evening until midnight and on the weekends much later still? He tells me that other mothers don't even know what time their sons get in because they are asleep. Unfortunately (for him) I am the kind of mothr who can't sleep until he is in the house. Your answer, if printed, might help many mothers because I know this is a common problem. Thank you. —CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: A 17-year-old boy is either in high school (summers excepted) or in college. In either case, he has no business gadding about "every evening until midnight." If he is out of school not to return, well—he'll consider himself "on his own" whether you like it or not. By 17 a boy's character is fairly well formed. And you can only hope that you did all you could to form it well.

DEAR ABBY: We have recently moved from the midwest to Paterson, New Jersey, and the way these Easterners strike up a conversation is rather amazing to me. It is, "What line are you in?"

I have always thought it was rude to ask a qustion like that, but it seems so common here that maybe I am wrong. Will you please set this Kansas cornball straight? —TOPEKA

DEAR TOPEKA: It IS rude. But rudeness knows no state lines and it has been known to jump national boundaries and oceans as well.

Firm Helps Make Dreams Come True!

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —For the family that has everything, how about a villa in Spain?

Or a castle on the Rhine?

Procuring such accommodations is the specialty of a new travel organization here, World Wide Living Inc., which deals in luxury housing abroad for discriminating American travelers.

The firm can procure, for example, a 16th century, seven-bedroom castle in Tangier, built by Moorish invaders; a 14th century farmhouse near Paris that once was the pleasure abode of Louis VIII; or a three-story terraced villa in Majorca, overlooking the yachts of Europe's pleasure set.

It admittedly caters to a limited market.

"We are in business for the man who travels to vacation, rather than the person who vacations to travel," said James McLaughlin, executive secretary.

"We put these people in neighborhoods where they can meet their sophisticated counterparts around the world, or just relax with the nobility."

The major lament of World Wide is the "luxury housing shortage" in Europe — luxury housing on the European standard roughly compares to middle class housing in America, said McLaughlin.

European economic programs, it seems, have forced more and more rural workers into the cities, dwindling the housing supply, while at the same time enriching more persons who then want to spend their wealth on better housing.

This shortage, said Michael Paulin, a second member of the organization, was a reason the organization started.

"Thousands of Americans leave to live in foreign countries each year," Paulin said. "In Southern Europe — that is, Greece, Italy, France and Spain — more than 75,000 Americans have taken residence, not counting government workers."

Paulin and McLaughlin, together with overseas representative Kenneth Katz, arrange for these expatriates to be surrounded with gardens, yachts and scenic views during their stay abroad instead of tourist-clogged downtown hotels and apartments.

Katz travels the spa and resort areas of the Continent from his overseas headquarters in Majorca, Spain — itself an established pleasure center.

"We have provided anything from fully appointed yachts and villas to deluxe condominium apartments along the Mediterranean coast," Paulin said.

Gains Ahead in Higher Education

By PATRICIA PLATT
United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Some 1,000 educators, meeting recently in San Francisco, agreed that higher education is recovering from a slump that began in the late 1950's.

That sounded like good news. But what they meant was that in this decade, post-secondary education has begun to catch up with the times. And they said that acknowledgment that catching up constitutes a comeback carries a serious indictment of colleges and universities.

There is hope that the schools are learning to anticipate day-by-day developments that can out-date a textbook before a student finishes reading it.

The subject came up at the annual meeting of the American Council on Education, called as a forum on changing patterns of organization in higher education.

Joseph Axelrod, dean of the school of humanities at California State College, Palos Verdes, said that higher education by the end of the last decade was "a general failure."

He said that four-year colleges and universities — core of the post-secondary program — were offering students "a huge cafeteria of specialized courses" with a frenzy that was destroying the identity of each school. He added that the schools were becoming more and more alike — a "crushing fact."

Axelrod said the graduate programs were even worse.

He characterized them as "a mishmash of sense and nonsense which provided for doctoral candidates. . .the common experience of humiliation."

And the two-year junior college "had done less than was minimally required to meet its major objectives."

"But," Axelrod said, "a period of reorganization" among the schools became apparent at the beginning of the 1960's.

The four-year college began concentrating on "freeing programs of study from the yoke of number, rediscovering the central and common goals of researcher and teacher, and humanizing faculty - administration relations."

Experimental programs such as honors courses, independent study, advance placement, and increased academic freedom for the creative student started springing up.

"At the graduate schools," Axelrod said, "traditional discipline boundaries are being ignored; in research there is cross-departmental communication for degree programs."

He said the states have begun establishing master plans to assist the development of the junior colleges.

As Axelrod sees it, higher education now is on the threshold of learning to bring about social change — a question that "during the years following promises to be exciting, systematic, energetic, organized and eventful."

What's New

United Press International

A new high fashion coffee mug made with a built - in handle and pedestal base comes in a two-tone plastic that is break resistant and dishwasher-safe.

A new clothes pin bag with a stay - open top saves fumbling for pins when hanging out the wash. This heavy vinyl plastic bag, with deep bellows sides, as a magnetic feature in its hanger hook to hold the flap top open in use. The it closes to keep pins dry and clean.

(Gustin Kramer, 1715 Hyde Park Ave., Boston, Mass.).

No need to group for the dust pan if it is one designed to fit on the broom handle for storage. This new plastic "broom-mate" has a ridged surface to catch and hold the dust.

A homemaker who wants instant slipcovers should consider foam - back furniture throws trimmed with matching fringe. There are four sizes to accommodate chairs, sectionals and sofas. These decorative throws are also easy to keep clean, since they can be both machine-washed and machine-dried.

Now even wastepaper baskets come with tailor-made slipcovers which can be changed to suit new room decor and laundered repeatedly. These burlap or vinyl covers are held snugly over a plastic basket by a removable rim at the base.

(Max Kleis Inc., 8915 North End Ave., Ferndale, Mich.).

Add decorator interest to windows with screen-printed, vinyl-coated fabric window shade. These come is a selection of sizes and in seven patterns, ranging from formal to tailored, on a white or neutral background.

Fashionettes

The college set cottons to rain in cotton. Rain-worthy coats include cottons ranging from corduroy, velveteen, poplin, twill and ottoman, to the newest cotton of all — a leather look-alike that's a dead ringer for the real thing.

Ski parkas continue the trend to lightweight, bulkless shapes and are warmer than ever. Fabrics include wool, cotton, nylon and fur. Welted seams, tunnel belts and hand stitching about as accents. Top color news is in brown, beige and blue cranberry. Indian cotton madras jackets, water-proofed and lined, also are headed for the slopes.

Dress and demeanor always go hand in hand, notes Ron Postal, of the National Council of Men's Fashions. Sunday manners go with Sunday-best clothes. Postal says you'll rarely see a well-dressed juvenile delinquent or an honor student in dirty jeans and T-Shirt.

Sandals, styled to be almost barefooted, run as strong number one in the spring and summer shoe parade for infants, children and teen-agers, the National Shoe Retailers Association reports. For the older girls, thong and Italian-type open sandals are advanced. Newer sneakers, meanwhile, are featuring longer-wearing uppers.

Opening lead: Four of ◇

The foresight displayed by East at the opening gun paid a handsome dividend when it provided the roadmap of a successful defense against South's four spade contract.

West opened the four of diamonds and East put in the jack. Tho the normal procedure for third hand is to play high, East felt reasonably certain that his partner was not underleading the ace against a suit contract. His play of the jack could hardly cost, therefore, and it might uncover information vital to the defensive campaign.

South won the first trick with the queen of diamonds and decided to postpone taking any club discards until trumps were drawn. A spade was led, the queen was played from dummy and East was in with the ace. It had seemed likely to him from the outset that dummy's clubs might provide a convenient parking place for some of declarer's losers. Now that the ace of trumps was dislodged, the moment had arrived for the defenders to cash whatever tricks were available to them, and the purpose behind East's play to the first trick was now revealed.

Had the jack of diamonds driven out the ace, West becomes marked with the queen, and East can profitably continue the attack in that suit. When declarer turned up with the diamond queen, however, the futility of a diamond continuation became obvious, and a heart shift was clearly indicated.

In selecting the card to lead, East was careful to play the ten of hearts. Declarer put up the king and West promptly cashed three tricks in the suit.

If East plays the king of diamonds at trick one to force the ace, his future course may be shrouded in uncertainty. If he succumbs to the temptation to return the jack of diamonds when he is in with the high spade, declarer can run for cover with 10 tricks — four spades, four clubs, and two diamonds.

City Permits Average $3 Million a Month

Building permits issued by the City of Colorado Springs have averaged about $3 million a month so far this year as the construction total continues to soar.

For the first 10 months of this year, a $29,868,239 permit total has been amassed. This compares with previous all-time high of $24,455,795 for all of 1962. The total in 1963 was $23,751,816.

Building permits issued for the past 34 months total $77,506,479. Since Jan. 1, 1952, the permit total in Colorado Springs has been $219,078,094, with $193,210,397 of that for new construction.

During that same span of nearly 13 years, permits have been issued for 9,094 new homes valued at $121,470,979, according to Perry C. Tyree, city superintendent of inspections.

This year's October building permit total of $2,487,494 was less than the $2,729,375 reported for October 1963, when the 10-month total was $20,059,616. This October's total included the following:

A total of 136 new homes, $1,625,792; 15 private garages, $16,300; one 16-unit apartment house, $100,000; two duplexes, $28,000; one church, $184,473; one service station, $32,000; four public buildings, $330,900; two warehouses, $1,000; and 67 permits for additions, alterations and repairs, $157,999.

Ice Water Missing On European Trip

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Two Floridians, Champ Williams and Bob Langford, are just home from a tour of European restaurants. They report the item missed most while sampling rich menus is "ice water."

"You'd have to beg the waiter to bring you a plain glass of water when you ordered. To get ice in it you almost had to get down on your knees," Williams reported.

Rural Mail Carrier Accumulates Miles

RULETON, Kan. (AP)—Travel has speeded up since Seth Duell, 70-year-old retiring rural mail carrier, started his route 51 years ago. The 41-mile route which used to take him up to two days to cover now takes approximately an hour and a half.

In more than half a century of delivering the mail Duell has traveled by horseback, buggy, sled, motorcycle and 22 different automobiles.

New Car Agency Owner Arrives in Colorado Springs

William D. Breck, new owner of the former Marksheffel Motor Co., now the Bill Breck Dodge Co., of Colorado Springs, arrived in the city Tuesday night from Tucson, Ariz.

Breck has been the leading Dodge dealer in the Southwest for the past five years and for the last two years has been the nation's number one Dodge dealer based on market penetration and sale of cars per capita.

Breck previously stated that he feels it a privilege to enter the Pikes Peak Area business world and has great faith in the future of this growing community.

The announcement of the Breck purchase of the Marksheffel agency from Homer Jones its owner was made Saturday.

Breck, a native of Montana, has had many years experience in the automotive sales field.

Previous to World War II he was a food salesman with the Heinz Co. During the war he was a flight instructor in the American War Theater.

After his military discharge he entered the moving and storage business in Montana and later was connected with the Hudson-GMC dealership in Bozeman, Mont.

In Tucson, Ariz., he was general manager of the Buick agency from 1952 to 1959. In 1959 he opened the Breck Dodge Co. Inc. in Tucscon.

Breck is married and he and his wife Alice plan to spend approximately 50 per cent of their time in Colorado Springs.

The couple has three children, a son who is a graduate of Arizona University, another son who is now a student at Yale University, and a daughter who studied interior decoration, in Los Angeles.

Hays is a native of Arkansas and a veteran of World War II, serving in the Eastern War Theater. Subsequent to the war he was engaged in the car business in California.

READY FOR BUSINESS—William D. Breck (left) owner of the Bill Breck Dodge Co. of Colorado Springs arrived in the city Tuesday night and was greeted by James Hays, general manager of the business. Breck has purchased the Marksheffel Motor Co. and will operate the agency here in conjunction with the original Breck agency in Tucson, Ariz. Breck plans to devote approximately 50 per cent of his time to the operation of the local agency.

LINDA TAKES OVER

INDEPENDENCE, Kan. (AP) —"Ask Linda" seems to be a pretty good slogan at Independence Community College. With eight co-eds named Linda serving as class officers, the Lindas seem to have things under control. Their surnames are Rollo, Friends, Hybarger, Brandenburg, Brainerd, Kirchoff, Watts and Tucker.

Joe B. Toole Named Realtor Board President

Joe B. Toole was elected president of the Colorado Springs Board of Realtors at the Alamo Hotel today. Toole was born in Alton, Ill., March 30, 1917. He lived for five years in Limon, and in Goodland, Kan. for 15 years, where he graduated from the Goodland High School.

After working as an electrician and radio technician for three years, he moved to Santa Monica, Calif., where he worked as a flight service mechanic for Douglas Aircraft Co., and attended Santa Monica Technical School. He became a licensed aircraft and engine mechanic by the Federal Aeronatucs Administration and holds a private pilot's license. He was honorably discharged from the U.S. Army Air Corps in 1945. Toole owned and operated a farm machinery business, an appliance shop and a coin operated phonograph business in Atwood, Kan. from 1946 to 1954. He then moved to Colorado Springs where he worked as a real estate salesman for the Stanton Realty Co. for three years.

Toole became president and and broker for the Colorado Springs Realty Co., in 1958, where he still presides. He has served on many committees as a chairman including the membership committee for the local Board in 1960, 1961 and 1962. He was also state membership chairman for CAREB in 1963. He has been a director of the local board for two years, a second vice president in 1963 and first vice president in 1964. In addition he has served as instructor for some of the University of Colorado extension classes during the past five years. He received a certificate of educational achievement in real estate from the University of Colorado in 1961.

He has been active with the American Legion both here and in Kansas, has been a member of the Kansas and Colorado Chamber of Commerce, the Forty and Eight, and the Colorado Springs Board of Realtors of the U. S. Army.

Toole is married to the former Delores Anderson of Atwood, Kan. They have a son, Terrance, 19-years-old, who is now a sophomore at the University of Colorado, studying architecture. They live at 3947 Mariposa St. Toole still pursues his hobbies of flying, boating and electronics.

New Caribbean Federation Planned

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (AP) — Seven British Caribbean islands that were members of the West Indies Federation have decided to join in a new federation to be known as The West Indies.

A conference will be held in London next spring to make final plans.

The seven members will be Antigua, Barbados, Dominica, Montserrat, St. Lucia, St. Kitts and St. Vincent. Barbados will be the capital.

FIRST ALARM CLOCK GAVE YOU HOT FOOT

NEW YORK (AP) — The world's first alarm clock was a candle that alarmed the sleeper by giving him a hot foot, according to researchers at the Bulova Watch Company. It was probably invented in a medieval monastery by a monk who was a practical joker.

Medieval monks had the job of ringing church bells for "matins" at dawn. The sound of the bell signaled the start of the day for community. Sometimes, however, the monk who was to ring the bell for matins overslept and so somebody thought of arranging a candle to wake him up at the desired time—with a hot

The best shape grapefruit's ever been in.

You're looking at the neatest, handiest, tastiest grapefruit ever. Only it's not just grapefruit juice. It's Canada Dry Grapefruit Drink. We kept the true-fruit goodness of grapefruit, took away the sharpness, and added Special Sparkle (our blend of natural ingredients and pinpoint carbonation). The happy result is a bright, lively refresher that cuts a thirst down in a single swig. From then on it's pure enjoyment. Just try Canada Dry Grapefruit when you're hot and tired. When you're thirsty. When you're not thirsty. It's sensational!

You can always eat the ordinary kind in the morning.

CC Hockey Team Sets Scrimmages

Ice hockey fans will have the chance to see the new Colorado College team in action this week. Two full intra-squad games have been scheduled on the practice rink at the college. Game times have been set at 4 p.m. Friday and 1 p.m. Saturday.

The 25-man squad has been divided into two evenly balanced teams. The Blacks will pit team captain Warren Fordyce and Jim Amidon as centers of the two lines against Jeff Sauer and John Wells as centers for the opposing Gold lines.

The games will be the highlight of weeks of hockey practice before launching into the playing season. Next week, on Nov. 13 and 14, the varsity will play their annual games with the freshman team at the Broadmoor World Arena, with the Alumni game on Nov. 21.

Mike Carter will be the goalie for the Blacks and Dick Englestad for the Gold jerseys.

Fordyce last year tied Colorado College's All-American John Simus in scoring with a total of 38 points. Sauer racked up 33 points last season and is ranked one of the outstanding skaters in the nation. Amidon, a sophomore this year, was ranked All-American high school center. This will be his first year in varsity collegiate play.

Also open to the public are the regular practice sessions of the Tigers. The freshman team takes the ice every weekday at 3 p.m., and the varsity at 5 p.m. at the Colorado College practice rink on Cache la Poudre Street. Practice discontinues at 7 p.m.

BETWEEN THE LINES

by Loy Holman

Matter of Attitude

One of the problems professed by Air Force coach Ben Martin this year has been changing the attitude of lineman toward the forward pass. It may be a trend throughout the country if the rate of tossing the ball each Saturday is any indication.

"We've tried to get our linemen to think of the pass as an offensive weapon rather than a resort," Martin said recently. "We want them to be just as effective in pass protection as they are in blocking for a running play coming their way.

"There's not this problem with the passer or receivers," Martin continued. "They have practiced their skills enough to have full confidence in what they're doing. But this isn't necessarily so with the linemen."

Too often, especially in the past, the pass has been used only after everthing else has failed. It has usually come on third down with long yardage needed, and the defense is ready for it before the play is called in the huddle.

Under Martin's philosophy, and also a growing number of other coaches around the country, the pass should be used as an offensive weapon as much as an off-tackle slant by the fullback or trap play by the halfback.

It takes positive thinking from everyone on the team to make it work," Martin explained. "And the linemen must have as much confidence in the pass as the quarterback and receivers."

The pass has become more of an weapon for the Air Force Academy this fall for a couple of reasons. They happen to have an accurate passer in Tim Murphy at quarterback and several fine receivers, including some of the best offensive ends in the country. The other reason is the line.

"We just don't have the muscles to stand in with some of the opponents on our schedule this season," Martin said. "And that's what it comes down to in the line — a personal dual of strength with the guy opposite you."

It wasn't intended to be an excuse for any of his players, missed the play of its top candi- although the Air Force has dates at the all-important offensive tackle position all through the season. Their top lineman, George Hanseth, was knocked out of play by injury before the schedule got underway, and Gary Fausti has been at half speed since the opener because of an ankle injury that hasn't had time to heal.

A lack of depth has hurt. They have tried to cover with sophomores, but mistakes cropped up. This was especially telling when poor field position forced the Falcons to make long sustained drives.

Last weekend against the University of Arizona the Air Force pulled a strategy switch and it paid off in the second half as the Falcons dominated the game with their offense. It was unquestionably the best offensive showing of the season. . . .at least for the final two periods.

"Arizona had shown a definite pattern with their defense in previous games," one of the AFA coaches commented. "They were stacking the line on first and second down and then dropping back on third down when the pass was expected."

The AFA went along with this during the first half of play, hitting into the line but making little progress. But after the intermission, they started mixing up the calls and caught the Wildcats off stride.

Seven times during the second half the Falcons passed on second down and all but once these were completed. It was a strategy that set up the winning touchdown in the fourth period in the 7-0 victory. That came on a third down with short yardage needed, and instead of running as Arizona must have expected, they sent fleet Fritz Greenlee to the sideline, Murphy hit him with a short pass, and Greenlee legged it 49 yards to paydirt.

Air Force, of course, isn't the only team in the country that's become dependent on Knute Rockne's invention of some 40 years ago. Even such teams as Ohio State, which heretofore counted it a sin let the ball fly for anything but a punt, have adopted the pass as a means of winning. And in the case of the Buckeyes it's paid off with an undefeated season—although getting a thorough scare last weekend from another pass-minded team, Iowa.

Most experts agree on three main reasons for the added emphasis on the air, especially this season.

There has been more specialization on defense which has made it more difficult to run with the ball. Secondly, the liberalization of the substitution rules by the NCAA gives the coaching staffs more time to work on pass patterns and all the intricacies of this type of offense. And more and more kids are developing a technique of throwing the ball accurately even before reaching high schools.

You can even see it in the pros recently that the defense is catching up with offense. Although dangerous and liable to injury, quarterbacks are having to roll out and scramble before throwing the ball — and this is in a league with an unwritten rule of protecting the enemy quarterback.

It's put a premium on such products as California's Craig Morton, who at 6-4 and 215 pounds can not only see over on-rushing linemen but can also get up and move out of their way. The trend is also toward quarterbacks who can do the obvious in pitching strikes, but can also run and block such as Oregon's Bob Berry.

This weekend the Falcons will be running into one of the nation's best all around performers in UCLA's Larry Zeno, who does just about everything but open the gates to the LA Coliseum before the Bruins games.

Just last Saturday, Zeno outdueled the heralded Mr. Morton in a 25-21 upset of California as he was in on three of the four touchdowns by either passing or running, including the 30-yard aerial to end Kurt Altenberg for the winning TD with but 1:10 remaining in the game.

To boot, and perhaps even more important for the Air Force, is the fact the Uclans overcome a great passing performance by Morton as he hit on 25 of 44 attempts for 293 yards. It's evident from that that UCLA will allow a few passes to be complete, but you've still got to keep up with them on the scoreboard — and the AFA has still scored more than once in only one game this year.

Western State Ranks 10th in Poll

NEW YORK (UPI)—Unbeaten Western State of Colorado was ranked 10th in this week's United Press International small college football poll.

Wittenberg remained Number One.

The Colorado team is undefeated in seven games and beat Weber State 7-0 last Saturday.

North Dakota State is ranked 18. The Dakotans, 7-1 for the season, tangle with Idaho State Saturday in Pocatello. Idaho State received points in the balloting but failed to make the top 20.

Liston Would Send Pilgrims Sailing

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

PLYMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — If the Pilgrims had discovered Sonny Liston training here, you'd be reading the London Times today, duck.

Remember the Mayflower? She might have been the first atomic powered sailboat on the return trip to England.

No offense, guv'nor. The ancestors weren't cowards, y'know.

But all the tall hat, knickers and buckle shoe set wanted was freedom from persecution. This Liston person looks like he's bent on annihilation. Some chap named Muhammad Ali, alias Cassius Clay, I hear.

Even the training camp faces East.

Just happened across this Liston fellow in a smashing show, disposing of a 10th sparring partner.

Sonny, the smiling chef, wants to regain the heavyweight honors he held before Muhammad and the Miami Mombo. Folks here say he's so determined he's serving up more barbecued ribs than at the LBJ ranch for Democrats' pow wow.

Just under 344 years ago the Mayflower piled on a rock just filled with 102 souls, including the crew. It was a typically cool New England reception. Fact is, nobody ever satisfactorily explained how they kept those ridiculous looking hats on their heads, in the strong, bitter breezes.

It was quite a few years before John Bunyan could thaw out enough to write "The Pilgrim's Progress." Besides, with what little they had it took 'em that long to make any.

Austerity was the watchword.

Compare that, if you will, with the plush Liston camp on the cliffs 150 feet above the sea. Imagine John Cotton, a paragon of the pulpit, catching sight of Sonny bashing his sparmates about in a ring, set on a dance floor, surrounded by wall to wall carpeting.

Why Liston would have been condemned to a day's display at the nearest public square as lover of the Dolce Vita, something that bird Chris Columbus kept yaking to the Spanish throne about.

Besides the Liston camp seemed to have a crew of about 100 of its own, though only one would step forward and admit to being a sparring partner. Among the followers on the day I visited was a crew of U.S. Marines.

It was never explained who the Marines were protecting, but it was more help than the Pilgrims ever got.

Cotton once wrote an opus entitled: "The Bloudy Tenement, washed and made white in the bloud of the Lambe."

Liston has composed a little something too. It goes:

"Fee, fie, foe, fum, I smell the blood of that Cassius bum."

If nature seemed a bit cool to the Pilgrims, it was not more so than Liston in his preparations. This is fast becoming a two missile base — Liston's left and right.

Sonny was a little upset when he discovered John Alden, a Mayflower passenger of some note, married Priscilla Mullins without ever pleading the cause for Miles Standish as the story goes.

"See, you writers get to be like those investigating committees in Washington," with an aside mutter to Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. "You ask all kinds of questions but you don't That's why I dont talk much. I get all your facts straight, like to be sure of the subject before I talk about it."

And so the sun set slowly on the brilliant crimsons, russets and golds of a New England autumn . . . and the rivulets of blood trickling down the faces of Liston's sparmates.

Yes sir, this historic old town may never be the same.

Birds Hope for Title Celebration To Shorten Trip Back From Trinidad

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

It's always a long ride to Trinidad for a Colorado Springs football team, but Wasson's Thunderbirds will be heading that way Friday with definite ideas about shortening the trip home.

If Gib Funk's T-Birds, who will be heading into the contest following their top performance of the season last Saturday, can handle the Miners, the ride back will be in the form of a title celebration. A win or tie at Trinidad will clinch the Thunderbirds' second South Central League football championship.

Such a feat would add yet another page to the T-Birds' outstanding record among SCL opposition. In 1961 Wasson finished second in the conference to a Central team that went on to capture the state championship. A year later the Birds delivered their first title and last fall they were again runner-up, this time to Centennial. The Bulldogs then finished as runner-up in the AAA playoffs.

To give further insight into the performance of Wasson teams in the SCL, Gib Funk's Thunderbirds have compiled a 36-10 record in the six years of competition. In the past four seasons they are 22-4 and in the last three years the mark is 17-2, with those two losses coming at the hands of Centennial.

Trinidad has been among the more troublesome clubs for Wasson. The Miners are 2-3 overall against the T-Birds and the three defeats were by a combined margin of three points. Trinidad's 1959 SCL champions downed Wasson 14-10 in Colorado Springs and the '60 Miners posted a 33-19 triumph in a wild offensive show in the southern city. Since that time Wasson has extracted victories by 7-6, 13-12, and 13-12.

As is obvious by the majority of the scores, Trinidad-Wasson games have characteristically been torrid defensive duels. Both clubs usually feature lines that are among the hardest-hitting in the state and the conflict between the two frequently produces more bruises than points.

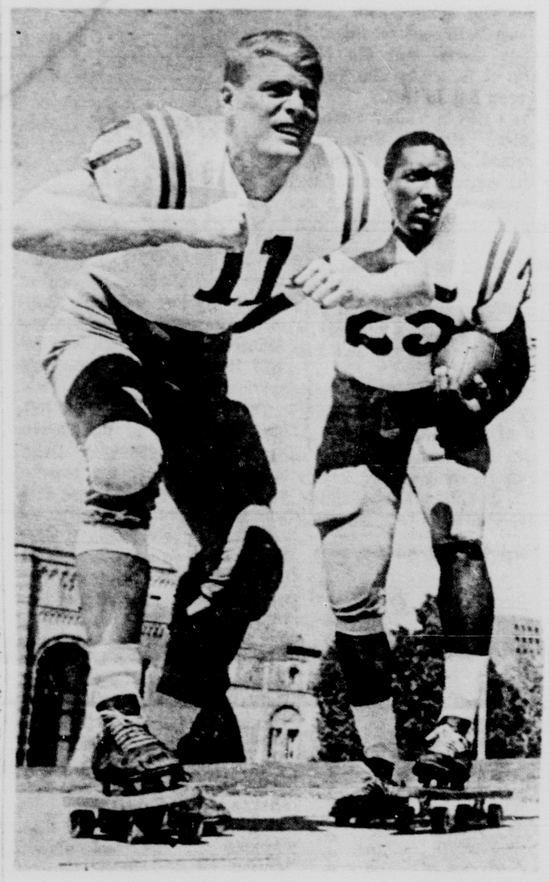
Friday's tempo will probably be determined by the Trinidad line, which has not been as consistently strong this fall as in previous seasons. There is little doubt that the Miners will need one of their top efforts if they hope to contain the Thunderbirds, sometimes known as "Smith's Mauradera." Led by heralded quarterback, Jim Smith, the T-Birds have one of the more explosive offenses in the school's history. Although Funk still leans toward the punishing ball control game for which his teams are noted, the Bird have shown recently that they can strike from anywhere on the field.

Smith, who may be the finest all-around grid star to ever attend the northside institution, has combined with fullback Bob Toof to provide the team with a solid one-two punch most of the campaign. Last Saturday, the striking force became one-two-three with junior speedster, Bruce Meade joining the devastation crew. Meade's contributions were explosions of 75 and 29 yards for touchdowns and 130 yards rushing in just five carries.

Nevertheless, it is still Smith who dominates the Wasson statistics. The brilliant 150-pound star has rushed for 588 yards in 123 carries, a 4.8 average, has passed for 286 yards with 22 completions in 47 attempts, has caught six passes for 80 yards, has punted 21 times for a 30.0 average, and leads the scoring with 44 points.

The effectiveness of Wasson's ground game is evident from the sparkling averages sported by the top players. Besides Smith's 4.8 yard mean, exceptional for a quarterback who must eat the ball occasionally, Toof has an identical 4.8 average on 475 yards and Meade an 8.8 average on 272 yards. Bob Oyler, Rod Wells, and Rick Donalson, the others who frequently occupy starting roles, are 4.2, 3.0, and 4.0 respectively.

Smith, who hit on six of 12 pass attempts against Palmer for 115 yards, is beoming a more dangerous aerial threat with each game. Two of his throws Saturday went for touchdowns. He is also blessed ith fine receivers, headed by Mike Martin, captain Charlie Steel, and Wells.



BRUINS FAST ENOUGH—These two UCLA halfbacks are fast enough in their own right, without the help of skateboards to improve their speed. However, they went along with the gag, rushing to the practice field for workouts in preparation for the game with the Air Force Academy this Saturday in Los Angeles. They are right half Mike Haffner (11) and left halfback Cornell Champion (52) who will both be running against the Falcons this weekend. Haffner is from Baldwin Park, Calif., and in 1961 led the West in rushing, while Champion is a junior transfer from Evanston, Ill., via Trinidad (Colo.) Junior College.

Palmer in Thick of SCL Race Despite Elimination

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

The season is over as far as the Palmer Terrors' chances of winning the South Central League championship. But the Terrors are very much in the flag chase as the season ends this weekend.

Palmer had its chance to get a share of the SCL title wiped off by Wasson, 33-7, Saturday. But the Terrors still play Pueblo East this Saturday afternoon, and East is bidding to gain a tie with Wasson's Thunderbirds.

East must beat Palmer and Trinidad must defeat the T-Birds Friday night for the championship to rest, even partially, in the Steel City. Wasson will have a hard match against the Miners but Palmer has shown no intentions of letting East finish the season with a win.

The Terrors, always a powerful rushign team, found its roadways blocked by Wasson and its passing attack could not overcome a 21-point first half. Strangely, Coach Bill Westbay feels it might have been Palmer's hard-charging defensive line that brought such a large scoring effort against Palmer.

"We stopped what they did best," Westbay said. "They couldn't gain on the off-tackle play, which has been one of their best. We held them so well on rushing, they were forced to go to the air.

"Maybe we should have let some of their backs come through a few times," he grinned.

Quarterback Jim Smith riddled Palmer's never-outstanding pass defense for 115 yards, including a pair of touchdown passes to end Charlie Steel and Rod Wells. Although the T-Birds had 247 yards rushing, 104 of that was on two long scoring sprints by Bruce Meade.

Palmer gained a total of 97 yards, 57 on the ground and 40 passing. Ben Bryant, who had over 700 yards gained going into the game, came out with a net 36 yards, by far his lowest output of the year. Bob Wake, 180-pound halfback who was playing only his second game in two years, gained 25 yards and impressed sideline buffs with his efforts.

Westbay was not complaining about the outcome. "We would have had to play our best to win that one. Most of our boys played well, according to the game films. A few were slow in reacting, in getting to the play, and it cost us. Wasson has a tough defensive team, no doubt about that."

The Terrors lost center Lee Moore for the last week with an injury. Ron Smith, who started at center in September and moved to tackle when a rash of injuries struck that position, will move back over the ball against East. Westbay had praise for his No. 3 center, 137-pound Bill Espander.

"Bill is small, but he played well for us," said Westbay.

Gary Stockdale, one of the tackles hurt early in the year, came back for the Terrors and should see some more action this week. In fact, most of the Terrors, excepting of course Moore, will be in good physical shape for the final game of 1964.

Parker Holds Session To Improve Passing

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Coach Buddy Parker of the Pittsburgh Steelers held a special practice session Tuesday for five players to try to strengthen the team's passing attack.

The team normally doesn't practice on Mondays or Tuesdays this late in the National Football League season.

Hawks' Rookie Paces NHL Win Over Rangers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three goals and two assists in 27 National Hockey League games may not seem like much. But the Chicago Black Hawks weren't overly disappointed with the output of rookie center Phil Esposito last season.

Esposito did show promise, however, and Coach Billy Reay never lost faith in the 22-year-old youngster.

The 6-foot-1, 187-pounder hasn't exactly set the league afire so far this season either, but his value to the club has improved.

Esposito, pivoting for the Hawks' third line, triggered the winning goal Tuesday night as Chicago edged the New York Rangers 2-1 before a Chicago crowd of 9,722 in the only game played. The victory moved Chicago into a fourth-place tie with the Rangers.

Esposito fired what proved to be the margin of victory 15 seconds after Bobby Hull's eighth goal of the season broke a scoreless duel at 12:31 of the second period. Vic Hadfield scored for the Rangers in the third.

Hull blasted a 20-foot shot through a screen of players to beat Marcel Paille and Esposito quickly followed up, taking the puck with his back to the net and sending Chicago ahead 2-0 with a quick backhander.

Hawks' goalie Glenn Hall, who made 32 saves as New York outshot Chicago 33-27, lost his bid for a shutout at 13:14 of the final period when Hadfield fired his third goal of the year.

Esposito now has four points on two goals and two assists, just one point short of his production last season.

Rhome Building Records At Tulsa in Passes, Runs

NEW YORK (AP) — Oh, give me a Rhome from the Buffalo's home . . .

Almost any football coach could be forgiven for humming those plaintive words after looking over the passing and total offense statistics for Tulsa's Jerry Rhome, who plays most of his football on the plains of Oklahoma.

The records listed for Rhome or threatened by him, as listed in the weekly individual statistics released today by the NCAA Service Bureau are hard to comprehend. Perhaps it should be enough to say that he's No. 1 in passing and total offense by huge margins.

In six games this season Rhome, a Texan who transferred from Southern Methodist to Tulsa after his sophomore season, has completed 143 of 204 passes for 1,798 yards. His completion percentage of .701 is the best ever for a passer who has thrown as many as 135 in a season.

Rhome is a running threat, too. He has had the ball on 287 plays for 1,956 yards, a plus of 158 yards on 83 plays. By contrast, the No. 2 passer, California's Craig Morton has gained 1,465 yards in the air but only 1,332 over-all.

BACK OF WEEK—Tulsa University quarterback Jerry Rhome was named back of the week by the Associated Press after he led the 61-14 blitz of Oklahoma State Saturday. Rhome completed 35 passes for 488 yards and a total offense of 504 yards. He also was selected back of the week two weeks ago after throwing seven touchdown passes in one game. Rhome is only two away from the NCAA career completion record of 386.

(AP Wirephoto)

Against Oklahoma State last Saturday, Rhome personally accounted for a 61-14 victory by completing 35 of 43 passes — an unprecedented percentage — gained 488 yards in the air and 5-4 total, passed for four touchdowns and accounted for 38 of Tulsa's points.

Among the one-game records he broke were 34 completions, Dick Norman, Stanford, 1959; air yards, 407, Larry Rakestraw, Georgia, 1963; total yards, 490, Reds Bagnell, Penn, 1950.

Against Memphis State this week, he'll be aiming at two seasonal records — Vito Parilli's 23 touchdown passes for Kentucky in 1950 and Johnny Bright's 180 points-responsible-for Drake in 1950. Rhome has passed for 21 touchdowns scored five himself and completed five two-point conversion passes, accounting for 172 points.

The other leaders listed in the offense statistics are Brian Piccolo of Wake Forest, leader in rushing for the second week with a total of 722 yards, and Frank Lambert of Mississippi with a punting average of 45.6 yards.

AFL Will Not Expand Before 1966, Says Foss

NEW YORK (AP) — There won't be any expansion in the American Football League until the 1966 season at least, Commissioner Joe Foss said today.

Club owners in the league met here last week but details on expansion were not worked out until today.

Foss' statement follows by two days one in which the AFL increased the player limit from 34 to 36 with two additional players on the injured deferred list. The Increase becomes effective next season. The NFL has a 40-player limit.

"When the American Football League was founded, its goal was parity with the long established National Football League,' said Foss in explaining the nonexpansion decision.

"Because we have only eight clubs as opposed to 14 in the NFL, parity has been more quickly obtained and now, with the increase in player limit, we should be the stronger league in 1966. Then we will again consider the question of expansion."

Foss said he had received inquiries from 28 groups in 10 cities regarding a franchise in

Moore One TD From NFL Scoring Record

NFL INDIVUDUAL STAX

NEW YORK (AP) — Baltimore's Lenny Moore isn't the strongest or the swiftest runner in the National Football League. He averages an unspectacular four yards each time he carries the ball. He's not among the leading pass receivers, either.

But show him the end one just ahead and he's a hard man to stop.

"His legs are always pumping," says teammate Bob Boyd. "The deception he shows you is why so many tacklers miss him."

That's why Moore, leading the NFL in scoring this season, already has set one league record and is within reach of two others.

So far he has scored 113 touchdowns for 78 points, 10 more than Jim Bakken of St. Louis. He has made touchdowns by running in each of the last 10 games he has played. That's the record he set. One more by any means against the Chicago Bears Sunday will equal the record of scoring in 11 consecutive games held by Elroy Hirsch of Los Angeles and Buddy Dial of Pittsburgh, both star pass catchers.

And just a few more touchdowns will bring Moore up to his own Baltimore record of 15 in one season and the NFL record of 19, set by Jim Taylor of Green Bay in 1962.

The NFL's other record breaker, Jimmy Brown of Cleveland, is the other standout in the weekly individual statistics released by the league today. Brown became the first NFL player to gain more than 10,000 yards by rushing when he made 149 last Sunday against Pittsburgh. He has run 813 yards on 161 carries this year, a five-yard average, and 10,135 in his career.

Johnny Unitas of Baltimore continues as the No. 1 passer with 87 completions on 169 attempts for 51.5 per cent and a 9.16-yard average gain. Johnny Morris and Mike Ditka of Chicago are one-two in pass receiving with 58 catches for Morris and 53 for Ditka.

The only change among the individual leaders this week gave Paul Krause of Washington the top spot in pass interceptions with six. Yale Lary of Detroit is No. 1 punter with an average of 46.9 yards; Brady Keys of Pittsburgh is first in punt returns, averaging 15.4 yards, and Walt Roberts of Cleveland is first in kickoff returns with a 30.8 yard average.

Cramblit Top WRL Scorer

After going on a five-touchdown scoring barrage against Canon City last weekend, Cheyenne Mountain's bone-crushing fullback Greg Cramblit won the Will Rogers League individual scoring race.

The 198-pound Cheyenne fullback registered 11 touchdowns in four WRL games to finish six TDs ahead of the runner-up, Dennis Meese of Canon City who posted five touchdowns.

Widefield's big fullback Tom Nigbur and Canon City's Dave Eslick tied for the third slot via four touchdowns apiece. Bill Wood of Academy High and Eldon Lee of Widefield were next with 18 points, followed by the Gladiators' quarterback Dave Theiss, who compiled 13 points.

There were three deadlocked with 12 points each, including Doug Heyliger, Cheyenne; Rudy Hallenbeck, Academy Hihg; and Mickey Gann, Canon City.

BACKS

Greg Cramblit of Cheyenne Mountain and Jim Smith of Wasson, two players who have been outstanding all season, have been selected by the Gazette Telegraph Sports Department to share Back of the Week honors for their clutch performances in key football games last Saturday. It is the first time that two players have been chosen in the same week and it is the third time for both Cramblit and Smith this fall.

Cramblit, the bullish senior fullback for the Indians, scored all five touchdowns in Cheyenne's 34-13 win over Canon City to wrap up the Will Rogers League scoring crown at the same time his team was clinching the WRL title. Cramblit gained 85 yards during the afternoon and provided the key thrusts that kept drives going time and again. Two of his touchdown plunges were simply the result of extraordinary effort.

Smith, the dazzling quarterback of the Thunderbirds, found Palmer's defenses stacked to stop his keepers around the ends Saturday, so he took to the air instead, completing six of the first eight passes he attempted for 115 yards and two touchdowns. Smith's 46 yard return of the opening kickoff set Wasson's first scoring drive in motion and he scored that one from the one yard line before passing for the next two and providing the 'Birds with a 21-0 lead at halftime. Smith also had another fine defensive effort.

Others considered for the honor this week were Jerry Knauf of St. Mary's, Bill Wood of Academy High, Tom Nigbur of Widefield, Ted Garcia of Cheyenne Mountain, and Bruce Meade of Wasson.

LINEMAN

Charlie Steel, 170 pound senior end from Wasson has been named Lineman of the Week by the Gazette-Telegraph Sports Department for his outstanding play in the Thunderbirds' 33-7 victory over Palmer last Saturday.

Steel, who has been a consistently strong performer all fall, had an exceptional game Saturday. In addition to a fine defensive performance, the Wasson captain caught two key passes, one for 31 yards and a touchdown, blocked well offensively, kicked two extra points, and scored a third on a 17 yard pass play after the 'Birds had suffered a holding penalty.

Steel is also an outstanding member of the Wasson basketball team during the winter months and is on the baseball squad in the spring.

Others considered for the honor this week were Dave Smith, St. Mary's; Curtis Kraushaar, Wasson; Rudy Hallenbeck, Academy High; Ron Petty, Widefield; and John Van Druff and Glenn Stockdale, Palmer.

Academy Teams on Road After Victorious Weekend

The Air Force Academy's fall schedule, which calls for alternating weeks of home and away games on all fronts, finds the Falcons flying from home this Friday and Saturday.

Besides the varsity football team's trip to Los Angeles and a date with UCLA on Saturday afternoon, other squads to see action will be the Junior Varsity playing West Texas State at Canyon, Tex.; AFA Freshmen gridders at Brigham Young U. in Provo, Utah; cross country at UCLA; and soccer team at Colorado U. in Boulder.

Last weekend the Jay-Vees, Frosh and soccer teams all posted victories along with the varsity footballers, while the cross country team had to cancel out of a scheduled match.

JUNIOR VARSITY FOOTBALL — Coach Bernie Raetz' powerful junior varsity squad shut-out nationally-ranked McCook Junior College 19-0 Friday night to post their fourth straight win of the season, and their 11th consecutive victory in a string that dates back to the 1962 campaign.

McCook, boasting a 6-1 record before the game, and ranked fifth among small colleges in the nation, was so well contained by the Jay-Vee defense that the Indians did not get past the Falcon 24-yard stripe.

Falcon halfback Milt Spiegelhauer opened the scoring in the first quarter by galloping 32 yards for a touchdown on a well-executed screen pass from Howard Burkart. The other Air Force tallies came in the third quarter on a one-yard plunge by Rich Wolfe, and a 17-yard keeper play by Howard Burkart. Wolfe, one of the stars of the game, gained 96-yards in 23 carries.

Now carrying a 4-0 record, the Jay-Vee's will seek their fifth win this Saturday when they meet West Texas State at Canyon, Texas.

FRESHMAN FOOTBALL — Coach Jim Bowman and his freshman squad hit the road this weekend, and will play Brigham Young's freshman Friday night in Provo, Utah.

Last Friday the Falcon frosh turned back a determined group from the AFA Prep School, downing the Huskies 15-12 to chalk up their second win of the season.

The frosh, now 2-1 for the season, spotted the Prepsters a touchdown in the first quarter before going ahead in the second frame on a 58-yard punt return by Falcon halfback Ed Stealey, to make the score 7-6. The Falcons scored again in the fourth quarter on a 7-yard run by halfback Dick Starkey, and followed up with a two-point pass from Sonny Litz to George Gearhart. The touchdown followed a fumble recovery by Stealey on the Prep School's 22-yard line.

Joining Stealey in taking honors was halfback Larry Cook, a Seattle, Wash., native, who picked up 144 yards in 19 carries.

CROSS COUNTRY — The cross country squad will beat the other Falcon teams to the barn this year by closing out their 1964 campaign this Saturday in a season capper with UCLA in Los Angeles.

In addition, the Falcon harriers have a chance to tie the Academy's best-ever record of 8-1, set by the 1960 squad. Coach Arne Arnesen's team, now 7-1 for the year, might possibly have bettered the mark; but, an Arizona squad scheduled to play last Saturday was forced to cancel, leaving only UCLA on the 1964 schedule.

SOCCER — With only three games left on their schedule, the Air Force soccer team heads into the home stretch on Sunday when they engage the Buffaloes of Colorado in a game scheduled for Boulder.

Last Saturday, the Falcon kickers posted their fifth win of the season by defeating the Rams of Colorado State University 10-2 at the Cadet field. Playing an outstanding game for the Air Force was Jim Thames, a native of Athens, Ala., who scored four goals for the Falcons.

The Air Force, already boasting a 5-1-1 record, has a good chance of tying the all-time mark for the most wins in one season — eight — set during the 1957 campaign.

Following their game with Colorado, the Falcon kickers meet Royal Roads at the Academy, Nov. 14, and close out the year in a meeting in Colorado Springs in Nov. 18 with Colorado College.

Griego Ties For Scoring Lead in SCL

Ed Griego of Pueblo East ran across three touchdowns in the Eagles' 26-7 triumph over Trinidad last Saturday night and, as a result, climbed into a tie for the South Central League scoring lead heading into the final weekend of the schedule.

Griego's five touchdowns and 30 points for the league season tie with Jim Brummett of Centennial, who has led the scoring for the past three weeks. Brummett, however, has completed his league schedule.

Also in a strong position to capture the scoring title in the final week are Charlie Steel and Jim Smith of Wasson and Mike Bosso of Trinidad. Steel, who moved into third place with 26 points, is a rarity at such a height since he is an end instead of a backfield performer. Smith and Bosso, both quarterbacks, have 25 points.

Wasson's league leaders have four men among the top 10 scorers. In addition to Steel and Smith, fullback Bob Toof and halfback Bruce Meade both have 18 points. Centennial has two players in the top group while East, Trinidad, Palmer, and South have one each.

32 Race Horses Perish in Fire

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — An estimated 32 horses were destroyed Tuesday night when fire swept a barn at Laurel Race Course, scene of next week's Washington, D.C. International.

A Laurel spokesman said all of the International entries, including American horses Kelso and Gun Bow, were reported safe.

The spokesman said some 50 to 55 horses were quartered in barn No. 21, where the fire started about 9:20 p.m.

MR. EUGENE GUNNERSON, Topeka, Kans., a car owner who tried a sample of Skelly's additive, Keotane, reports: "With Skelly Keotane, I improved my mileage from 1 to 3 miles to a gallon, and the power was stepped up considerably." (from Keotane Report #2)

Shadwell Maintains Lead In PPL Scoring Race

Dick Shadwell scored only one touchdown over the weekend but the Florence halfback easily maintained his Pikes Peak League scoring heading into the final week of regular season play.

Shadwell has 67 points for six games. Salida's Keith Baker held onto second place with two touchdowns and a 54-point total. Joe Martinez of Fountain has 42 points for third place. Fowler's Joe Kirgan is fourth with 31 points.

Florence has four players among the top ten scorers. Besides Shadwell, Ray Moore has 30 points, Dave Cristelli has 27 and Virgil Lawson has 21.

Cristelli kicked six extra points for the second straight week against Buena Vista and raised his league-leading conversion total to 15. Martinez is second with six.

As a team Florence has scored 194 points, a 32.3 points per game average. Salida jumped ahead of Fountain into second place with 125 points. Fountain has 115.

Fall Bulb Forcing Brings Spring Closer

By starting now, you can force amaryllis, hyacinth, daffodil, Easter lily and tulip bulbs into bloom as early as January.

Ask your florist, garden center, or supermarket about bulb varieties recommended for forcing, then get a supply of red clay bulb pans for planting.

Cover the drainage hole of each clay pot with a flat or concave piece of broken flower pot, and fill in a half inch of pebbles. Over this, add a mixture of equal parts of loam, leafmold, and sand. Press this down firmly, leaving about three inches of space to the rim of the pot, and place the bulbs on the mixture, one-half inch apart. Use the same variety of bulbs in a single pot so all will flower at once.

After bulbs are in place, fill in soil so the noses of the bulbs barely show, and press the soil down firmly. Leave about an inch of space so it will be easy to water the bulbs after they have sprouted.

Identify each pot's variety name by tying a label on a slim bamboo stake at least a foot long.

Place each pot in a pan of water to soak all the way through the porous clay pot walls and the soil within.

Then, cover each pot with an empty inverted clay pot of the same size. This protects new shoots as they grow. Next place each pot in a deep trench or coldframe for an 8 to 10-week rooting period. Fill in six inches of soil over the tops of the pots and cover this with a thick layer of leaves.

About the first week in January, dig up one of the pots, and gently knock the soil ball from the pot. If there is a network of roots you can slip the earth-ball back into the pot and put the pot into a 50 degree to 55 degree F. north window until shoots turn green. Then move it to a sunny 60 degree spot and keep the soil well watered. You can bring in several pots at one for a ala display, or one by one in succession to spread the blooming period over several weeks.

Buds will pop open quickly.

Beef Slaughter Betters Outlook, Says Leader

DENVER — Continuing heavy cattle slaughter, although accompanied by depressed prices, may be a favorable indicator of future beef industry stability and prosperity, a leading livestockman said here recently.

C. W. McMillan, executive vice president of the American National Cattlemen's Association, noted that cattle slaughter under federal inspection is continuing at a rate well over 500,000 head a week.

"This record-breaking level may be rapidly cutting into our so-called oversupply of cattle, and we may easily end the year with no increase in inventory," McMillan siad. "In fact, many observers are now predicting a reduction in total cattle numbers."

McMillan said that the lighter average slaughter weights indicate that feeders also have been shipping their cattle to market on a faster turnover basis than earlier.

"The increase in cow slaughter shows that ranchers are culling closer and that most cows are going to slaughter rather back to the country for feeding or another calf," he said. However, he cautioned ranchers to continue to cull cows and feeders to market animals at lighter, more desirable weights so that "we can insure that supply will be better balanced with demand in the future."

Continuing dry weather is creating problems in some areas of the country, McMillan observed. "But the overall picture for the months ahead looks much brighter now."

Farmers Should Ready Records For Census

All farmers and ranchers in the county will need this year's business records to help answer questions on a form scheduled for mailing in early November to start the nationwide Census of Agriculture, Forest T. McWilliams, El Paso County Extension Agent, has reported.

Crew leaders for each county's census are being trained. They will recruit and train enumerators. Each enumerator will visit about 150 farms during three weeks of temporary employment.

Early in November, questionnaires will be mailed from the Census Bureau to all rural boxholders in the county. Farm operators will then have a period of time to consult their records (or best estimates for the year) and answer the questions on the forms.

In the final stage, beginning Nov. 9 in Colorado, enumerators will visit each farm in the county to collect the questionaires. Enumerators will help farmers complete answers to questions they were unable to answer.

Farm Census Enumerators in County Named

Horton A. Johnson and Mrs. Mary M. Thornton, both of Colorado Springs, are two of seven enumerators named in El Paso County for the 1964 Census of Agriculture, Crew Leader O. Llewellyn Willits has reported.

John C. Carner, Ramah; Mrs. Conna Book, Rush; Mrs. Mary Sue Collicutt, Black Forest; Mrs. Tressie V.Johnson, Calhan; and Mrs. Verda L. Johnson, Fountain, have also been named enumerators in El Paso County for the Census, he said.

The enumerators will be trained in a special 4-day home study course designed to prepare them for the farm census their crew leader siad.

Easy Test Checks Need For Humidifier

FORT COLLINS — A simple moisture test that commercial distributors use may help you determine if you need a humidifier in your home this winter.

O. J. Trenary, extension agricultural engineer at Colorado State University, explains how the test is conducted.

Put three ice cubes in a glass of water and let stand for three minutes. If the glass begins to "sweat" in about that length of time, you probably have sufficient humidity in your home.

The simple physical fact is that warm air can hold more moisture than cold air. Air at 70 degrees, for example, holds about 16 times as much moisture as air at zero.

In summer, because outside air is warmer, excess humidity may sometimes be a problem. In winter the reverse is often true, Trenary explains.

No matter how tightly a normal home is sealed against cold outside air, it does continue to move inside. Engineers estimate there is a complete air exchange one and a half times each hour. This exchange provides the oxygen we breathe, the engineer states.

However, this air movement may create problems as the outside air is warmed and the relative humidity is reduced.

Other indications that humidity may be low in your home after the furnace is on for fall include: — creaky, loose-jointed furniture; — family members who wake up with dry noses and throats each morning; — house plants that droop and require unusual amounts of water; and — family members who complain of feeling cold, even though the house temperature is kept near 75 degrees.

What's Up In Four-H

CHEERIETS

Demonstrations were given by two members at the Oct. 20 meeting of the Cheeriets 4-H Club, held at the home of Cathy Magninie, 3130, La Salle St. They were "Setting a TV Tray and a Menu I Chose," by Sharon Burgess; and "Choosing Material, Belts and Coats for Different Figure Types," by Linda Drommond.

The calendar committee was to meet Oct. 31. The date of the monthly meeting was changed to the third Monday of each month. The club voted to have an awards night this year, and to have a paper drive. Announcements were made about the candy sale, and the sale of the leathercraft, sew-sale of the leathercraft, sew-

FCA Leaders Explain Capital, Loan Operations

By ANN TYNER BROOKS
Ranch, Farm and Garden Editor

"The amount of (farm) credit tends to be less in years of adversity. The drought and low cattle prices have resulted in some slowing down in requests for new money from the Production Credit Associations," said Farm Credit Administration Gov. Robert B. Tootell, Washington, D.C., in an interview Oct. 27.

Amount in 1962 was between $3.1 and $3.2 billion; in 1963, $3.6 billion, and anticipated figure for 1964 is slightly under $4 billion, he said.

Increase in 1963 was thus 10 or 11 per cent above 1962, while growth this year is only 4½ per cent above 1963, he said.

The objective of the program, Tootell said, is for farmers to gradually acquire ownership. He traced its beginning to the Federal Farm Loan Act of 1916. The federal government, he said, provided the initial capital.

Of the remaining net worth of nearly $1.6 billion, he said, only 12 per cent is government capital. Only three of the 483 PCA's in the nation have any government capital now, he said. According to Tootell, farmers' direct investment amounts to 36 per cent. Fifty-two per cent, he said, is earned net worth, accumulated by the borrowing farmers, because each must buy capital stock equivalent to five per cent of his loan.

Loan funds, however, as distinguished from ownership capital, come from sale of bonds to primarily urban sources, he said. The Cooperative Farm Credit System provides 20 per ers and their cooperatives in the country, he said.

F. Vernon Wright, deputy governor and director of Short-Term Credit Service for the Farm Credit Administration, said that the number of farmers served increased 3½ per cent this year, which was greater than last year's increase. The increase in amount is smaller, however, he said, because (in hard times) borrowing shifts from capital expenses to annual recurring expenditures.

Kenneth M. Lyon, president of the Intermediate Credit Bank of Wichita, said that the value of currently outstanding loans from the eight PCA's in Colorado, $77 million, was greater than that in any one of the other states in the Wichita bank's district, Kansas, Oklahoma, and New Mexico. Total outstanding loans in the four states are $205 million, he said.

Lyon said that the average size of the loans had been increasing for a number of years, and Tootell said that he felt that the greater capital needs to operate would continue.

Farmer Gets Whittled Share Of Food Dollar

Only 38 cents of the consumer's food dollar now goes to the farmer, reports the National Live Stock Producer.

The food price spread is the difference between the money farmers receive for their raw goods and the cost to the consumer at the supermarket. From the farm to the kitchen, a lot happens to the food that the consumer buys, the magazine points out.

Here is a rough rundown on where today's grocery store food dollar goes: farmer, 38 cents; labor costs, 28 cents; transportation, 6.2 cents; profits to manufacturers and distributors, 3.5 cents; business income taxes, 4 cent; and other charges, such as fringe labor, taxes, rent, machinery, etc., 20 cents.

The farmer's share of the food dollar has declined from a high ent level of 38cents.Yet,farmdollar has declined from a high of 52 cents in 1946 to the present level of 38 cents.

Winners Named In District 8 Wool Contest

Winners in the District 8 Make it Yourself with Wool Contest, held Oct. 31 at the Agate gym, are: Division B, Laurel Covington of Genoa with a blue wool dress and Gay Igou of Karval with a tan flecked two piece wool suit. They will go to the state meeting Dec. 3-4 at the Cosmopolitan Hotel in Denver.

In Division C, Jananne Beuck of Denver also placed with a blue two piece dress.

District 8 is made up of Elbert, Lincoln, Kit Carson, Kiowa and Cheyenne Counties. Mrs. August Beuck, Agate, was chairman, and Mrs. Albert McKim, Simla, was mistress of ceremonies and reviewer. Pianist was Mrs. Betty Butler, Agate. Judges were: Miss Donna Larson, Sterling; Mrs. Audrey Pease, Limon; Mrs. James Jolly, Agate; and Mrs. Cloyce Miller, chairman of judges, Simla.

Contestants entered were: Adult Division: Mrs. Henry Boetger Jr., Hugo; Mrs. Huldah Sellon, Hugo; and Mrs. Nymo Jo Doak, Rush. Division A: Candace Doak, Rush; Patricia Liles, Arriba; and Grace Higgins, Yoder. Division B: Dorothy Pfannenstiel, Cheyenne Wells; Loretta Hansen, Genoa; Erika Draht, Arriba; Linda Sittin, Genoa; Carolyn Ames, Elbert; Laurel Covington, Genoa; and Gay Igou, Karval. Division C: Jananne Beuck, formerly of Agate, now of Denver.

About 60 people attended the style review held at 2 p.m.

All garments were made of 100 per cent wool loomed in the United States.

Stage display materials were furnished by Gaskill's Store, Limon. Wool skirt lengths were donated by Clements Store and Gaskill's store, Limon. Costume jewelry was donated by Houtz Drug Store, Limon. The lamb luncheon was served by the Agate Friendship Club. Favors were lint chasers, rain hats and thimbles.

Buying Specials Can Reduce Grocery Bills

FORT COLLINS — Buying "specials" can mean a saving of six per cent or more on your grocery bill, says Jeannette Lynch, extension marketing specialist from Colorado State University.

A survey of 30 stores, conducted by U.S. Department of Agriculture's Economic Research Service, showed that meat, including poultry, and fish, was the food item most frequently on sale. More "specials" were offered on weekends than at other times.

After meats, the items most often sale-priced were vegetables. Other products featured at sale prices included dairy products, fats and oils, fruit and vegetable juices, fresh and canned fruits, coffee and soft drinks.

The store usually takes little or no profit on the "specials" and, Mrs. Lynch says, they sometimes sell at a loss to make the item particularly attractive. Profits made on increased sales of other items shoppers buy while in the store help to offset the loss.

To take full advantage of specials, the CSU marketing specialist suggests you study the newspaper advertisements before shopping.

Your Freedom Newspaper

Ever striving for the Pikes Peak Region to be an even better place to live

This newspaper is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license nor anarchy. It is self-control, no more, no less. It must be consistent with the truths expressed in such great moral guides as the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Liberty Helps the Poor

Those who have been advocating liberty and individualism have failed to get across the idea that freedom is for poor people.

Leonard E. Read, president of the Foundation for Economic Education, in his September "Notes from FEE" discusses the failure of those advocating a free market, private property and reduced government intervention to communicate with those who honestly are interested in helping the poor folks.

"So firmly embedded in our own minds is the fact that liberty is the poor man's best ally tha we mistakenly assume a like awareness on the part of everyone else. Failing to identify the free market and related institutions with kindly sentiments and noble objectives — as a better life for the poor — we fumble the ball, so to speak, allowing the opposition to run with it — and play to the grandstand!"

He continues:

"The era of free and willing exchange extends, roughly, over the past 175 years. In no other period of history have so many raised themselves out of poverty. Why, then, are those of us who champion free and willing exchange — the only anti-poverty device in man's possession — so seldom credited with relieving the poor man of his burden? Quite frankly, it is because such relief is not the major end we have in view. Freedom and wide open opportunity for all is the prime objective. But — and this is the point — the fastest possible elimination of poverty is one of the inescapable by-products of this liberty; it is one of the admirable effects that flow from the successful pursuit of a higher cause. And this effect cannot be achieved in any other way."

Mr. Read points out that politicians can do nothing to end poverty, since government has nothing to dispense except what it forcibly takes from the people, either in direct taxation or in inflation — itself a tax on all existing capital and fixed assets — "a cruel, unfair and deceptive tax."

The overlooked fact of which Mr. Read reminds us is: "The unprecedented practice of freedom in our country has. . .catapulted many millions of 'the masses' — including you and me — into a state of affluence previously unknown to history. Hundreds of today's American millionaires and millions of our upper middle class, had they lived in 'the old country' at or before the time of Adam Smith — less than 200 years ago — would have had the status of serfs. . ."

"The alleviation of poverty is a by-product — a life - saving benefit — along man's way toward the higher ideal of liberty. The benefit springs from no other source than liberty. If one's ideal is no higher than the benefit, that ideal, paradoxically, will bring no benefit. A by-product does not have its origin in itself but in something superior to it. . ."

"Doubtless, we have been negligent about declaring this important dividend of liberty: it is a boon to the poor. However, if we set the alleviation of poverty as our highest goal, we shall, by thus lowering our sights, not only spread poverty but lose our freedom — the penalty for ignoring the principle . . ."

Mr. Read is encouraged, as are we, by the fact that a great many of those who qualify as poor in worldly goods are among those who are making personal sacrifice to defend the free market and the right to private property. "And, encouragingly, their long look is at liberty, not their poverty. From where I sit, these poor are the hard core of the coming renaissance. They'll regain our liberty and, as a by-product, alleviate poverty."

Ultimate Triumph

Truth is a little like the elements, constantly wearing away the most stubborn rock and emerging triumphant in the end.

Praxeology

When dealing with general problems of vital significance, the nature of man is always of prime importance. If we are to arrive at answers to great questions, it is not enough to spell out what might be satisfactory solutions were human nature to be disregarded. For an answer to be useful, it must take human nature into consideration; indeed, it must rely on the true nature of acting man, for questions which puzzle the will and confound generations are invariably questions dealing with acting man. Too often, scholars and researchers have sought solutions into which "men must be put" whether they "like it or not."

Such an approach won't suffice. But to find an approach that will, praxeology is the science that calls our attention.

Praxeology is a word which appears in the development of free market ideas as set forth by Ludwig von Mises. Its meaning connotes the science of human action. All of the humanities fall beneath it's general heading.

Take history as an example. History does not explain human action. But it does provide a record of what human beings have done in the past. History, in the main, deals with two major questions: the who and the when. It tells us who did what, and it tells us further, when it was done. History has often been called the "queen" of all studies because so much is gathered from so many sources into history's pages.

To understand where human beings have acted, geography is the specialty. To explore the reasons why human beings have done as they have, psychology is employed.

Economics gives us the how . . .the method.

But all of these areas of inquiry come under praxeology, which is something in the nature of a cosmology, knitting these various themes into a science of acting man.

Once we learn that praxeology deals with acting man, then we must approach all subordinate areas of inquiry with acting man as the center of our probe. History, for instance, is frequently marred because it omits full study of this subject. It tends — the likelihood is inescapable — to recite military and political records to the exclusion of all else. Actually, nothing else should be omitted and many historians have sought to fill in all gaps with great diligence. But military and political actions tell us relatively little about man as man. They reveal man as mass man as he is acted upon by certain specialists, and not as man is, himself. Thus, fundamentally history is a distortion of the record, not through deliberate efforts to distort, but through inadvertency related to a failure to see man as he is, an individual.

Most early historians were persons paid by a ruling monarch. Records available to them were the records of the king, his politics and his battles.

Additionally, by its nature history can only be a record of what has happened; it can never serve to predict the future.

Examine geography in this same light. If geography is presented in such a way that man is largely omitted, or only included when group action is considered, then geography, also, neglects the central theme. Geography is not merely an extension of geology, confining itself to natural resources, climates and rainfall. It must explain acting man within his natural environment. A praxeological approach is indicated.

The primary key to the study of acting man is found in economics. This study undertakes to explain the "how" of man's living. It does not concern itself with ethical or with psychological questions. It confines itself to explaining how men get what they must have in order to survive and to satisfy their various desires. Once the methodology is understood, other pieces begin to fall into place.

All of the major problems of our time, or of any time, relate to man. When we understand enough about men, we are ready to outline a system of behavior which is predicated upon the nature of man and the nature of the world in which he lives. The human reality cannot be avoided or evaded. But understood, the constructive elements of human nature can be emphasized and the elements which lead to destruction, disaster and ultimate failure can be avoided.

This is the task of praxeology. It is to prove a cosmology for acting man, by means of which man can understand himself and multiply the factors that will lead to human success.

MORE ON PROGRESS

To the Editor:

I cannot refrain from commending you for printing adverse letters submitted to the Open Parliament. Presumably John Mill's thesis on the liberty of thought and discussion is yet fresh in your mind. As Mill said, by permitting the expression of opinion, people benefit whether the opinion is right or wrong. For "if the opinion is right, . . .the opportunity of exchanging error for truth (exists); if wrong, . . .the clearer perception and livelier impression of truth (results), produced by its collision with error."

Semantics, progress and ugliness: thanks for your careful explanation of your thoughts on progress in recent weeks on the editorial page. Very rational and cogent discussion has been offered for our elucidation. Of course it's naive to believe that you or anyone else will agree with all of my cherished thoughts, and I'm sure you realize the reciprocal situation holds.

It does surprise me to learn that since I think the rock-crushing plants merit a filter if feasible, that I must now decry fireplaces, chimneys, and perhaps even incinerators. All right, why not ban fireplaces, since almost all homes have converted "to gas because of private enterprise"? Tremendous idea! And incinerators are second only to diesel engines in fouling the pure, sweet ozone we breathe and occasionally taste. So no to them, too! And no to onions and garlic and green cheese and smoking.

No, sir. Your logic is overwhelming. I must not, I could not, in good conscience, ask a congressman or a president to stop these activities, because I believe in lessening the creep of socialism, and a request to ban smoke by force or law is advocating something I too deplore.

Excuse me for the tangent, but I couldn't help wondering how we got so far apart when we both support progress as well as a lessening rather than increase of government force and power. Ah yes, progress. The dictionary really wasn't too helpful, was it? Maybe the thesaurus would provide aid. Enhancement, refinement, purification (aha!), restoration (as of the Trianon?), cultivation, and even promotion toward perfection. Further definitions you may prefer include "profit by, reap the benefit of, make the most of, fatten." Apparently progress is occurring in Colorado Springs as both you and I define it. The new university in Cragmor represents progress to me; larger billboards and more smokestacks seems your cup of tea.

My prejudice toward profits is not so strong as you seem to feel. I did miss an economics course, so many thanks for informing me that profits were so important in creating our higher standard of living over the "quaint charm of the 19th century." However, I did accidentally read a book or two on such heroes as John Rockefeller, Andrew Mellon, and J. P. Morgan. And frankly, I do not share your feelings on profits when you consider men honorable who think profit is motive enough to warrant running roughshod over others whether or not they are active opposition. This applies to smokestack operators and newspaper editors (and complainers) as well as the Rockefellers and Hoffas. As I recall, Alexander Hamilton and even Thomas Jefferson supported free enterprise and the profit system attendant thereto, yet somehow they felt that beauty and tradition and progress and free enterprise were compatible.

At any rate, thank you, for heightening my awareness of 20th century America and its powerful strides in the name of progress. Did you get a glimpse of "this Is the American Earth" yet? I feel somewhat as Thoreau must have when he told his journal: "We are more of the earth, farther from heaven these days. We live in a grosser element. We are a little saddened, because we begin to see the interval between our hopes and their fulfillment."

CHARLES HOUSE

Editor's note: Charles House has made a distinct contribution to further understanding of the apparent dichotomy between progress and beauty. Additionally, he offers us an opportunity to observe that we are not opposed to beauty, to an uncontaminated sky-line, to endless vistas of nature's loveliness.

The real point is this: Everything that comes into the world at the hand of man requires that a cost be paid. If a man digs into the earth for minerals, oils or metals, it is not possible for the earth at the site of the digging to remain the same. A mine adit, a gravel pit, a smoke stack, an oil derrick....these are man-made, utilitarian objects, and if they disrupt the view you have had before they appeared, this is a part of the cost that must be paid to get at the treasures lying beneath the surface.

Our own view is that these items, too, are a kind of beauty. We love the forests of virgin wilderness. And we love the roads cut through them, the trees that are harvested and turned into dwellings and thousands of products. We love an unspoiled hillside. But we also love the gravel pit that finds wealth in those pieces of rock and shale; that provides men with livelihood, that puts in roads, that erects our giant factories and our tall and gleaming buildings.

If we will but submit to the rules of the market place, we will have both the pastoral vistas and the empty spaces, and we will also have the other things we want and can use. These will be supplied by letting the market decide the merits of each along the lines of the inescapable rule of supply and demand.

Our objection to those who favor the untrammeled wilderness is that they wish to invoke the force of government against others, in order to get what they want. If they would, instead, purchase the land they wish to remain in its natural state, then we could not possibly object to their holding it that way. And if others came and sought to invade their rights by using the state to compel them to open their land for development, we would be as strong in our defense of their rights to keep their land undeveloped as we are at present in support of those who wish to develop what they own.

BENNETT'S REPLY

To the Editor:

The letter of Mr. John Ferguson Bennett, chairman, El Paso County Democratic Central Committee, in the Gazette Telegraph of Sunday, November 1, quoting verbatim a letter Mr. Bennett wrote to Sgt. R. A. Sandberg, deserves considerable comment.

First, I would like to ask Mr. Bennett why the Democrats are not honest enough to call their party Socialist, which under Lyndon Johnson it has completely become. The British Labor Party at first denied it was socialist. Now it talks about "our socialist program." In that respect it is more honest than our so-called Democrats who are as far from the party of Jefferson as night is from day.

Mr. Bennett tells the sergeant that it is the United States government which pays the sergeant's salary. I would like Mr. Bennett to tell all of us — not just the sergeant — where and how "the United States government" gets that money. Whose money is it? Mr. Bennett knows, but he is hoping many of your readers will not. The United States government has no money of its own. The United States government doesn't have one dime that it doesn't first take away from its citizens, poor as well as rich, in the form of taxes.

Mr. Bennett would have his readers believe that it's not pie in the sky, but pie from the sky; that all the government has to do to have "government money" is open some mythical pipeline and an inexhaustible supply of gold from just nowhere is supplied to the millions on the federal payrolls and is the personal property of the patronage dispensers headed by the President. Mr. Bennett has been to college and to law school, and he knows better than this, but it is the same old demagogic approach of the Democratic (please pronounce Socialist) Party to try to make the unlearned and the unthinking believe that "government money" comes from just nowhere at all — that it is just there for the taking. To be sure, one particular politician seems to have obtained it that way. How else could a man who has spent his entire adult life at the political pie trough have accumulated 14½ million dollars except by "the taking"?

John Ferguson Bennett, and those like him, want the unthinking public to believe that unlike Cinderella's fairy grandmother with her wand, it doesn't require even the pumpkin to create the coach. The Fairy Prince in the White House will just wave the wand without any pumpkins, open the spigot, and presto, gold gushes from nowhere! Where did the gold come from, John? From Laura Alta's (alias Lady Bird's) TV monopoly in Austin? No, actually from every one of us, rich or poor, who pay income taxes, and that's most of us.

The delight of these socialistic demagogues are the people who call in on some of the daily radio programs, in which the listeners furnish the dialogue. Many of these same people talk about the aforesaid "government money" as though the government owns gold, silver, platinum, and diamond mines which spew forth their riches without end or without being worked. It isn't taken away from some of them, so they don't realize that it has to be taken from someone else. That there is really any such thing as government money is as far from the truth as black is from white — and Mr. B. knows it.

And one more question for the chairman of the El Paso County Democratic Central Committee: what is his answer to the advertisement in the same issue of the Gazette Telegraph which contained his letter, which advertisement quoted The Worker, the official publication of the American Communist Party? The advertisement quoted The Worker as stating that under Johnson the United States (Lyndon Johnson's United States, formerly our United States) would remain a fertile field of "socialistic ideals leading to a communist take-over in America, while conversely the election of Goldwater and Miller would eradicate the advances communism has made in this country. Mr. Bennett is familiar with the libel laws. If the advertisement is not true why doesn't he, and the other Democrats, sue somebody for libel and get rich? Why, John?

UNITED FUND

To the Editor:

Now that the publicity peak in our Pikes Peak United Fund Drive has passed, I would like to take this opportunity to thank the Gazette Telegraph for its generous allotment of space to news and features concerning the campaign, and the agencies which will benefit.

The drive has now passed the 90 per cent mark and will almost certainly reach the goal when all outstanding cards are in and contacts made. Your help in keeping the campaign before the public is gratefully appreciated by the entire campaign organization staff and the Board of Trustees.

We are also most aware that representatives from our United Fund and our agencies call on you for assistance many times throughout the year and are always met with this same spirit of cooperation which exists during the campaign period.

Occupation Tax — WOW!

By RUFUS L. PORTER

I hope my readers will forgive my constant harping on taxes, for taxes are a most vital issue in this area at this time. The city fathers of Colorado Springs are bound and determined to foist upon us a two per cent sales tax, or its equivalent, in spite of the objections of taxpayers in the region.

The sales tax ordinance was passed again on second reading. But where were the councilmen while the bill was being read? They were out to lunch. Listening to a 53-page ordinance being read can become very boresome, even though they did not listen to it the first time. What is the sense of reading a thing like that to an empty council chamber? If the city clerk had read the first and last sentences only, the councilmen wouldn't have known the difference.

Isn't it the duty of the members to be present at such readings? Aren't the readings held to acquaint the council with the contents of the proposed ordinance so they will have a better understanding of what they are voting on? Did the worthy members send a scout in to see if the reading was about over so they could come in and vote for it? Is this the judicious and calmly considered way in which all laws are passed?

In an effort to frighten off the business men who are sponsoring a public vote on the sales tax, council has threatened to sock "every business in the city" with an occupation tax comparable to the similar tax now imposed upon liquor stores within the city limits. This tax is a flat $300, but it is believed that the proposed tax on businesses would not be a flat charge, but rather a graduated one, depending upon the size of the business. I understand that this proposition had been advanced by others earlier and the mayor simply brought it up as a possible alternative in case the sales tax is defeated by vote of the taxpayers.

But, in the final analysis, any tax on business is a sales tax because it must be passed on to the customers. It is the ultimate consumer who pays all taxes. Taxes are a part (a very large part, sometimes even the biggest part) of the price of each and every item we buy.

City Manager John Biery had three alternatives to offer to Councilman William Becker, the only member who voted against the sales tax both times it was read. The alternatives, according to the news report, were 1.) "reducing expenditures drastically" — said, I imagine, sarcastically; 2.) borrowing the money until the property mill levy could be hiked again, or 3.) slapping on a different kind of tax. Councilman Becker should be given a medal for his stand against the sales tax.

Well, Biery came up with the right answer the first time. Why not reduce expenses drastically? Why let expenses get out of hand in the first place? The government is supposed to protect the citizens. Therefore, its first duty is to protect them from the overspending of government. That is the best protection any government could render the people. To stay within the proper realm of government and hold expenses to a bare minimum should be the aim of any government. The citizens will do the rest in advancing the interests of the community, if the tax collectors leave them anything to carry on with.

We do not live in the Springs and we have sold the property we once owned there. But we do live in El Paso County and we do most of our trading in the Springs. Therefore, we are vitally interested in what goes on there, especially since the city is out to grab the whole county into the city limits — a thing which will be made possible, if Governor Love has his way, during the next session of the state legislature.

Government, in all its categories, is fast becoming a luxury the people cannot afford.

Adam Lyre was telling me about a terrible nightmare he had the other night.

"I dreamt I was prospecting away back in an old tunnel way up in the hills when the atomic war broke out," said Adam. "By the time I got out of there and back to civilization, there wasn't any left. We had won the war, all right. But the only survivors were the government people, politicians and bureaucrats and military men numbering about a million altogether, who had had the foresight to go deep underground on the taxpayers' money before the war commenced.

"I soon learned that I was the only taxpayer left alive in the whole 50 states. After the danger of fallout had passed, I was discovered by some minor functionary who reported to his superiors that he had found a live taxpayer. They pinned a medal of honor on him and took out after me. They were going to tax me enough to keep them in the manner to which they had been accustomed before the war broke out. Being the only taxpayer alive, they looked upon it as my bounden duty.

"Well, I gave them a merry chase, but they about had me surrounded when I woke up in a cold sweat. I laid awake the rest of the night for fear I would go back to that dream and they would catch me next time."

Question Box

QUESTION No. 606: "Which of the two constitute the greater act of immorality? The debased desire of sexual contact; or that one's thoughts, sayings and acts can be hid from God Almighty?"

Answer: The greatest act of immorality is to violate the rights of any other individual — his right to take action to defend his life, his liberty and his property, which is defined as his life and all of its products.

We are not qualified to judge whether an individual has a 'debased desire of sexual contact," or that he may think "one's thoughts, sayings and acts can be hid from God Almighty."

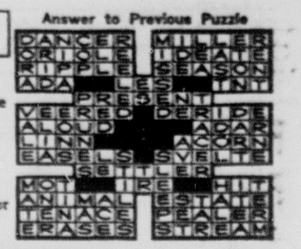
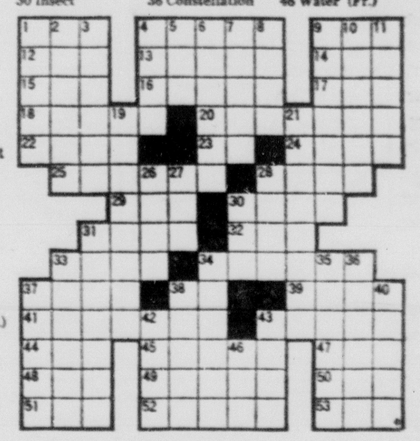
Answer to Previous Puzzle





These Days

Nothing Comes Clear

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

This is a strange year in which nothing comes clear. Not in England, not in Russia, and not in America.

The British election has settled nothing. It has produced a Labor government that rules in Parliament by a margin of four — which means that two deaths and two subsequent upsets in by-elections could produce total paralysis.

Harold Wilson, the new British prime minister, is himself an equivocal man; he has veered from being a left-Bevanite to a rightist, and has cultivated a trick of hiding his own personal position behind an incontestable profundity, as when he says that anyone professing to have a clear idea of what membership in the European Common Market would bring to England is either a charlatan or a simpleton. True enough, but where does that leave us when we want to know where Wilson himself stands?

The Cabinet that Wilson has chosen is also equivocal. The surprise in it is Frank Cousins, boss of the Transport and General Workers Union, who has been made minister of technology. Cousins is a militant Socialist, and he has been pretty much of an isolationist. During one quarrel over British membership in NATO, Cousins asked, "Is Britain really going to tie itself to an organization where the complete control of policy is in the hands of General Norstad?"

A DEAL WITH REDS

Wilson himself has said he believes in the western alliance, but he once scared the West Germans by coming out for a deal with the Soviets. But what foreign policy will emerge from Labor party Cabinet deliberations is impossible to foresee.

Wilson wants to get England moving. To do this, he will have to improve the country's export position which is the only way to save the British pound. Yet the Laborites take office on a platform that calls for nationalizing the steel industry. If it should go through, the impact on British manufacturing efficiency will be enough to queer all hope for improving the export position of the country.

James Callaghan, the new chancellor of the Exchequer, once suggested a "wealth tax" on anybody possessing over $20 000 in property. He's probably forgotten the idea. But if he hasn't, the threat of a "wealth tax" would be just the thing to discourage any British enterpriser who hopes to make his company more competitive in world markets. The question is, what does Callaghan propose now?

The future of Soviet Russia is just as much of a riddle as the future of Britain. During Khrushchev's last years more and more Russians were daring to suggest what can only be described as capitalist heresies. The idea of permitting more individualistic freedom in farming was openly debated. And Khrushchev himself showed that he had been ideologically infected during his trips to the United States and western Europe. He told the Hungarians that Iowa could teach them something about agriculture. With Khrushchev's permission, the Soviet minister of power for plant construction, I. T. Novikov, insisted that western experience had proved that steam generation of electricity was more economical than building new hydroelectric facilities.

ECONOMY PROD

This sort of left-handed acknowledgment that capitalism had better ideas than communism seems to have scared the Communist Central Committee. But if Russia is to be fed and housed, something has to be done to get the Soviet economy moving. The new bureaucrats—Brezhnev, Kosygin — will have either to pick up where Khrushchev left off in this encouragement of the individual, or revert to the Stalinist big stick.

We know that the latter won't produce plenty, and that the former will anger the Red Chinese and cause a dangerous yeast of hope to rise in the East European satellites. Yet the U.S. has not evolved any foreign policy capable of dealing with either eventuality.

Nothing comes clear in America in these last days of the political campaign for the simple reason that both Johnson and Goldwater think the electorate is a bunch of 'fraidycats. Johnson plays the heavy father role, assuring the children that everything will be fine as long as they trust him. And Goldwater, knowing this is an infallible pitch if we are indeed a 'fraidy cat nation, tries desperately to prove he would make a safe father, too. Does anyone feel insulted? I'm listening.

Cara Williams Says She Is Not Ambitious

By JOAN CROSBY

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Cara Williams apologized for her appearance, and well she should.

No female has a right to look quite so lovely when she thinks she looks awful.

Colorful Cara, her red hair covered by a long yellow chiffon scarf, and her face sunburned on the tip of her nose and across her cheeks, stretched her legs, clad in yellow slacks, pulled at her yellow, coral and lavender sweater and said she got her uneven sunburn while fishing.

"Did you catch anything?" her press agent asked.

"I hope not," she laughed.

The deft comedienne has returned to television this season on CBS-TV's The Cara Williams Show. She is happy to be back at work, but if she weren't, she would be just as happy.

She says she is not ambitious [illegible] ambitious mother and maybe that's why I'm not as ambitious as actresses are supposed to be"—and is very content to putter around the house, buy antiques, contemplate opening a dress and-or antique shop, wash dishes, visit with her girl friends and cook.

Cara has a lot of female friends. "I love girl friends," she says. "Women are marvelous. Boy, if a woman doesn't have female friends, she had better start worrying. It's not anything wrong with other women, it's her.

"I grew up a a boys' girl, and the other girls detested me. So I changed myself so I could also be a girl's girl. I was more terrified of being rejected by a girl when I was in school, than I was by a boy. Boys were always around. But I was poor, and I was in a rich school with a lot of snobby kids."

Cara began her career as a child actress, and the voice of several characters in animated "Porky Pig" cartoons. She is one of Hollywood's more flamboyant characters, never at a loss to express herself.

Not only is drive lacking, but ego also. She is more than content to remain in film work, saying, "I'm not out to prove anything. I'm not about to give it all up to do a play on Broadway. You have to have a tremendous ego on Broadway, to want to hear that applause every night.

Cascade News

By MRS. JENNIE WYATT
684-9612

The Property Owners Association and the Fire Department of Cascade gave a Halloween Party for the children of the area Saturday evening at the Fire House. About 150 children and adults enjoyed the gala affair, with costumes, games, and prizes. Prizes were given to two groups, under six and over six.

Jim Jacobs, student director for the junior class play of Manitou High School, announces that play practice has started on the play entitled "The Mouse that Roared". It will be given Nov. 20 in Manitou. Members of the cast from this area are: Wayne Van Arnsdale, Bob Brooks, Roxanne Hunt, Portia Owen, and Steve Weisman.

The Brownie Troup enjoyed a trip to the Blinky Show instead of their regular meeting Thursday. Mrs. VanArnsdale and Mrs. Phyllis Giles took the girls. Carol Giles was picked to "Spin the Wind" and won a pair of Keds and a Halloween costume. Candy Sumner won a Prize of a manicure set and Lee Ann Rossi also won a gift.

Among the new students visiting the Cascade Sunday School Sunday were: Donald Powers, Barbara Carter, Roberta Bennett, Rickie Whiteside, Kennie Gail Buchiester and Robin Foresythe. Children who ride their bicycles to the Sunday School have a new parking place at the entrance.

The Cascade Fire Department will commence a state aided Fire Training class, which will meet every second and fourth Wednesday of the month, at 7:30, at the Firehouse. This program will be conducted by the Colorado Springs Fire Department.

The Cascade Women's Club will meet at the home of Mrs. Herbert Esgar Monday morning, Nov. 12, for their monthly coffee. Mrs. Vivian Allmendinger will be co-hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Heisch and family, Mrs. Vernon Christian and children and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bost and family attended a Halloween party at the Church of God in Woodland Park, Friday evening. Mr. and Mrs. Ben Gralaap, who spent the summer in their summer home, left Monday to spend the winter at their home in Winfield, Ks.

The Cub Scouts met Tuesday at the Firehouse, with their leader, Mrs. Joyce Woolston. Paul Willie conducted the flag ceremony for the group and Kent Kohl was the flag bearer. Most of the meeting was spent learning Cub Scout songs. The theme for November is "Cub Scout Geniuses". Refreshments were served by Kent Kohl. The meeting closed with the living circle.

The Art class "Art for Fun" is held every Thursday morning at the home of Mrs. Joyce Woolston, the instructor. Mrs. Mary Lou Maytag and Mrs. Mary Linda Mills have been working on an oil painting. Mrs. Nonnie Phelps is working on a charcoal painting.

The Friday evening bowling reports Empire Tire team in 3rd place with 19 wins, 9 losses and 12164 total pins; KRDO team is in 4th place with 18 wins, 10 losses and 12207 total pins. Ray Adamscheck had a scratch series of 528. Frank Weber had a scratch series of 558.

Col. and Mrs. Arthur Krauss, of Denver, spent Sunday even- Col. and Mrs. Neil Hein.

Virgil Smith and Mel Carlson went to Buena Vista and the surrounding area Saturday hunting for an elk.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Sumner, of Denver, spent Sunday evening visiting the Garfield Sumner family.

Remember the rummage sale to be held on November 14, sponsored by the Manitou Parents Teachers Association. The committee urges you to contribute to this most worthy cause.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Smith Sunday drove to Canon City, where they attended church and took a drive along the Arkansas River, with dinner in Salida. They returned by way of Cottonwood Lake and South Park.

CHEAPER ELECTRICITY

LONDON — Atomic scientists have scored a breakthrough in a bid to produce cheaper nuclear electricity.

The Atomic Energy Authority said recently that British and European scientists have successfully tested a high-temperature gas-cooled reactor at Winfrith Heath, Dorset.

The reactor is cooled by helium and employs a new type of uranium fuel slug which boosts the temperature higher than before.

Lyndon Romps Off With Vote In California

By HAROLD V. STREETER

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — President Johnson romped off with California's 40 electoral votes Tuesday but his fellow Democrat, former White House press secretary Pierre Salinger, fell steadily behind in a bid to keep his U.S. Senate seat.

Johnson's voting sweep over Sen. Barry Goldwater for the presidency contrasted with an early and growing lead by Republican George Murphy, former Hollywood actor, over Salinger, holder of the Senate post by appointment.

In 12,879 of 31,498 precincts the vote for president was: Johnson 1,653,157; Goldwater 1,156,855.

In the Senate race, 6,142 precincts gave Murphy 736,178, Salinger 683,671.

The record turnout of upwards of seven million California voters was keyed to the presidential and Senate races and to an initiative proposition to wipe out a state law banning racial discrimination in housing.

Opposed by most state political leaders, church groups and labor unions, Proposition 14 to nullify the housing law, led in 736 precincts, 76,458 to 50,345.

Another proposition for setting up a statewide lottery appeared headed for defeat.

The voting turnout from a registered list of 8.18 million was huge — a record 92.8 per cent of Los Angeles' more than three million; a record 91 per cent in Sacramento.

84-Year-Old to Vote First Time

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Joseph F. Davis, 84, expects to vote today for the first time in any election.

Until two years ago Davis lived in Washington, D.C., where residents received the right to vote in 1961. There are no municipal or congressional elections because the city is run by Congress.

Davis, a retired printing pressman, lives with his daughter and son-in-law.

How does he feel about his first vote?

"I like it fine," he said.

District of Columbia Gives Johnson Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — It took Washington voters 164 years to get a chance to back a winner in a presidential election and they did so with a bang, giving Lyndon B. Johnson the District's three electoral votes by a better than 5-1 margin.

The President carried every one of the city's 91 precincts, besting Barry Goldwater by an unofficial tally of 163,746 to 27,627.

District Republican Chairman Carl Shipley said: "We were not only defeated, we were also slaughtered by as much as 300 to 1 in some precincts."

The last time residents of Washington voted in a presidential election was in 1800 when there was no District of Columbia and the city was part of Maryland. Washington's vote then went to John Adams who lost to Thomas Jefferson.

The 23rd Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, ratified in 1961, gave the presidential vote to District residents.

Californians Wipe Out Fair Housing Law

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Californians erased a law against housing discrimination in the hottest issue among hundreds of election proposals in 40 states Tuesday.

"I am disappointed," said Gov. Edmund G. Brown, "but I do not regard the election as the end of California's fight against discrimination and segregation in housing."

The state constitutional amendment that wipes out California's present fair housing law and forbids any further legislation on the subject held a firm 3-2 margin in mounting returns.

It gives property owners the absolute right to accept or reject any buyers or renters.

In another vote involving the racial issue, Maryland extended a pubic accommodations law to require equal service for Negroes in motels, hotels and restaurants throughout the state. It previously applied only to the city of Baltimore and half of the state's 23 counties.

Proposals to legalize gambling were slapped down by voters in three states — California, Arkansas and Washington.

Californians rejected a state franchised lottery, Arkansas refused to legalize gambling houses in the resort city of Hot Springs, and Washington voters said no to licensing bingo, card games, punch boards and pinball machines.

California voters in a busy day also turned down a pay-television proposal, and repealed a state law requiring railroads to fill certain jobs on trains.

The railroad train crew issue in California and other states is the center of a bitter dispute between management, seeking to slash manpower, and unions trying to preserve jobs.

Louisiana voters established the nation's first code of ethics for state officials. It was one of 41 state constitutional amendments crowding the state ballot.

New Hampshire voters apparently approved amendments to reapportion the state legislature, giving more weight to votes of urban residents.

Walton League Seeks New Members Here

The Izaak Walton League of America is now accepting applications for membership in its Pikes Peak Chapter.

Organized in Chicago in January 1922 by a group of fifty-four inspired men, who for some time had deplored the decline of wild life resources, it has grown to such an extent that there are now Chapters in almost every state.

The "Original 54" sought out and studied the reasons for the decline in wild life resources and found that a pretty big job lay ahead. Not all the fish were being caught, nor the wild life killed or trapped. They found the fundamental reason for the decline was the rapid depletion of our natural resources.

From this early study came the main purpose of the league — conservation of soil, game, fish and wild life. The local Chapter is an action organization. Working closely with local, state and national organizations, members and staff of the Pikes Peak Chapter determine what jobs need to be done, then go to work and persevere until concrete results have been obtained.

The local Chapter meetings are presently held on the fourth Tuesday of every month in Carpenters Hall, Costilla and South Cascade Avenues, at 6:30 p.m. The Chapter owns a 50 acre ranch northeast of the city. Facilities at the ranch now include an up-to-date Skeet and Trap Range and a 500 yard Rifle Range. Planning is now underway to construct a Club House on the property to permit all facilities of the Chapter to be located in one area.

There is also a sister Chapter — the Garden of the Gods Chapter, composed of wives of members of the Pikes Peak Chapter and other women who share the aims and purposes of the Izaak Walton League. Application for membership in the Ladies Chapter may be made to Mrs. Helen Stammen, 406 N. 31st St, City.

Any sportsman interested in joining the Pikes Peak Chapter may apply for membership to Charles H. Pierce, 2816 North Hancock, Colorado Springs, membership chairman, or by attending the Chapter meeting on 24 November 1964.

STOCKHOLM — Swedish restaurants will be allowed to discriminate against Gypsy customers.

City Park Unit To Hold Third Annual Workshop

The City Park and Recreation Department will hold its third annual Christmas Workshop Nov. 9-11 in Memorial Park.

Sessions on making Christmas decorations and gifts will be conducted in the Recreation Center, Pikes Peak and Hancock Avenues.

This year the workshop was moved up a week to allow more time for preparing for the holidays.

Hours will be 1:30 - 3:30 p.m. Nov. 9; 7 - 9 p.m. Nov. 10; and 9:30 - 11:30 a.m. Wednesday.

There will be examples of many kinds of decorations: Christmas cards, small gifts suitable for children to make, wall hangings, and three ornaments.

Mimeographed instructions have been prepared showing step - by - step procedures for making gifts and decorations. In booklet form, they will be sold for 50 cents. Proceeds of the sale will be used to help pay the cost of the workshop.

Some instructions left from last year will be sold for five cents for two sheets.

Though no commercial sales of materials will be made at the workshop, several exhibitors will display materials available at their businesses.

Moe Rollert, superintendent of the Recreation Division of the Park and Recreation Departments, is in charge of planning for the workshop. Mrs. Mae Williams will supervise details of the project.

Further information is available at Park and Recreation Headquarters, 1400 N. Glen Ave.

Speed of Impala Antelope Estimated

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) —The top speed of an impala, a type of antelope found in South Africa, has been established at 35 m.p.h., says this country's Transvaal Provincial Division of Nature Conservation.

According to the division's latest newsletter, a nature conservation officer in a car recently followed an impala along a road. The impala was going full speed. For half a mile the impala was timed doing exactly 35 m.p.h.

PICKING THE SITE FOR A TELEPHONE MICROWAVE TOWER TAKES KNOWLEDGE, PATIENCE, AND A LOT OF OLD-FASHIONED MUSCLE

The atmosphere and the earth's surface can do strange things to the microwave signals that carry Long Distance calls or TV programs. Consequently, picking hilltop locations for the towers must be as painstaking as a new scientific discovery in the laboratory.

The first step is the study of every available map of the country the towers will cross. From this, our engineers draw cross-sections of the terrain, then, with surveying instruments, set out to check the route they've chosen.

This journey can be full of surprises, because maps don't show some of the obstacles in the line of sight so vital to voice transmission — such as trees on a nearby ridge or a rock out-cropping barely visible on the horizon.

Yet, even when the line of sight looks perfect, we're still wary. So, we erect temporary towers, up to 300 feet high, to test each path with actual microwave signals. This we believe is the only way to guarantee high-quality voice transmission.

Construction is the last step in what is frequently a 24-month process. Tower by tower — each location costing up to $500,000 — the crews move from one hilltop to the next. Block houses are built, and the telephone equipment installed.

When the new circuits are operative, they give you fast, trouble-free Long Distance service that grows more useful each time you make a call. We design them that way.

STOCKHOLM — On a hill near Kaitum, in the Lapp country of Sweden, a new church has been erected as a memorial to Dag Hammarskjold, the secretary-general of the United Nations who lost his life while on a mission to the Congo.

Uses for Steel Are Steadily Growing in U.S.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Automobile tires with steel claws embedded in the rubber for a "cat's paw grip" on slippery roads are now criss - crossing the nation's highways.

Steel foil no thicker than a sheet of paper is now used in disposable pie tins and for packaging.

Steel mesh woven into carpeting lengthens the wear of some new rugs.

These are a few of the new products that have emerged from the research laboratories as the steel industry embarks on its second century of commercial production.

A survey of industry sources shows that more than 10,000 shapes, sizes and varieties of steel are on the market and the search for new ones is being pursued intensively.

It all began September, 1864, when the first commercial heat of steel made in the United States by the Bessemer process was produced in a small experimental plant of the Kelly Pneumatic Process Company at Wyandotte, Mich.

It was the first step in the creation of what is now described as America's basic industry, consisting of more than 275 companies and directly providing jobs for more than 6 million Americans.

PURCHASE REVEALED

NEW YORK (UPI) — Realty Equities Corp. of New York announced the purchase of 11 properties from Barrington Industries, Inc. for approximaeely $9 million in stock and cash.

The properties are being held for resale, rather than for investment. They include two hotels and an apartment building in Charlotte, N.C., a garden apartment development in Baltimore, Md., a shopping center and two new apartment buildings in New York City, and four office buildings in Albany, N.Y.

Ontario Launches Youth Program Study

TORONTO (AP)—"I feel like a mosquito in a nudist colony," says Walter Koerber, director of the new youth branch of the Ontario department of education.

Koerber has spent the last six months surveying all agencies, organizations and services related to youth in Ontario. He will submit specific proposals based on his findings to the department of education.

"This is a massive field," he said. "We want to know what youth thinks, what education he has, what his problems are and what his future might be."

If and when this total picture is achieved, the branch will be able to give educationists a balanced sense of direction, he said. It will insure, for example, that technical schools are not training youths for jobs that do not exist.

PRESS DUTY AS CRITICS

BERLIN — Press, radio and television have the right, and sometimes the duty, to criticize. This, at any rate, is the view of the president of the Federal Labor Court, Dr. Gerhard Mueller, expressed at a press conference on the occasion of the tenth anniversary of the establishment of the Federal Labor Court in Kassel.

Instructions of Dad Followed at College

BOWLING GREEN, Ky. (AP) —Cindy Hartley of Louisville carried out instructions to the letter when she enrolled as a freshman at Western Kentucky State College.

Her father told her to (a) send her receipts home promptly when she paid her enrollment fees; (b) go see President Kelly Thompson if she had a serious problem.

Cindy complied. Then she learned that the receipt would stand for her ticket to Western's first football game. Off to see the president, she obtained a personal letter that got her by the gatekeeper.

Looking at Hollywood

'MY FAIR LADY' PREMIERE A GALA STAR-FILLED NIGHT

HOLLYWOOD, The premiere of "My Fair Lady" was a night never to be forgotten. There were more stars in the theatre than in the heavens, enough talent for half a dozen "My Fair Ladys" or "South Pacifics."... The fairest of all was Audrey Hepburn. Kurt Frings, who has been her agent since she came to this country, told her she should be resting for the big event when she asked him to come to luncheon Wednesday, but she insisted so she could present him with sapphire and diamond shirt studs. He said, "How can I thank you?" Some of the stars he's gotten one million dollar contracts haven't remembered. Audrey also sent Cathleen Nesbitt a pair of tickets to be her guest at the opening.

EVERYONE WHO HAD ANYTHING to do with "M. F. L." is a pro, beginning with George Bernard Shaw (who must have been smiling from beyond the grave) on to Lerner and Loewe — all talented people at the peak of creative inspiration. No one could have excelled Rex Harrison as Professor Higgins — he was even better than in the play. Charming Wilfrid Hyde-White broke his own record, which is a tough thing to do. . . .Instead of taking clothes off, as so many producers are doing today, Cecil Beaton proved what glorious costumes and settings can do for stars. Incidentally, he kept a diary of every word spoken on the set while making the film; it's out in book form, titled "Cecil Beaton's Fair Lady," and makes wonderful reading.

IF A PICTURE EVER PROVED producers don't have to go abroad to make 'em "My Fair Lady" — purely a Hollywood product—did that for Jack Warner. They re-created Covent Garden to the last pillar, and the film opened with the most beautiful flowers ever seen on screen. . .Our beauties came in their best— this was a couturier's dream—with more chinchillas around than you'd see at a Met opening. The crowd outside proved if you give the public what they want they'll be there . . . When I congratulated Max Bercutt on the publicity job he's done saying, "Jack Warner will be pleased," he said, "He will until he gets the bills tomorrow." But it was Jack's night of triumph and he's not too much of a showman to quibble.

JOAN COHN CAME WITH Frederick Loewe, who's retired from show business, spends his winters in Palm Springs (which he loves as much as Harpo Marx did and Red Skelton does), and summers aboard his yacht off the Riviera. Viennese born, his father was the original Danilo in "The Merry Widow" and starred in "The Chocolate Soldier." . . .Audrey's hair-do was the conversation piece of the evening. She brought Alexandre from Paris for the New York City, Chicago, and Hollywood premieres. It set Warners back $2,000. Her gown was divine, a wonderful shade of violet.

GEORGE CUKOR DID THE JOB of his lifetime—this type thing is really his dish. I hear he wasn't the first director contacted. Warner talked with Vincente Minnelli who wanted a cut of the picture, too; then Warner saw "The Four Horsemen" and decided on Cukor . . . Sybil Brand did a colossal job which will net the Motion Picture Country home $130,000. We've done benefits for practically everyone; this is the first time we're taking care of our own. The plan is to have a benefit premiere for the home each year. I think "The Greatest Story" will be the one worthy of it in 1965, and I'm sure George Stevens will want to be in on it.

EXCHANGE TEACHERS

BELFAST — Two Ulster schoolteachers have left for America under a teacher - exchange plan. Their places will be taken by teachers from the United States.

They are Miss Edith Angus, of Carolan Grammar School, Ormeau Road, Belfast, who goes to Connecticut, and Miss Nora Harvey, of Portadown College, who is going to Detroit.

The plan is sponsored by the British Committee for the interchange of teachers between the United Kingdom and America.

Bob Kohler Will Head Local TB Fund Drive

The Christmas Seal Campaign chairman for this year is Bob Kohler, prominent citizen whose determination is to put the TB drive over the top.

Kohler said Monday that both the need for medical research and the willingness of the citizens have increased this year. "I feel it," he said, "because I hear others talk about the rise in the tuberculosis rate and I see for myself the increase in emphysema among those I know in this very region. Emphysema — the disease which removes the lungs bit by bit — is no longer rare. Too many of us have seen it at work."

The smiling Kohler is a goer. His name is listed on the roles of many civic organizations, and he is there when it's time to do the work.

Kohler sees the Christmas Seal as an American tradition which is far from being a thing of the past. "The seals serve a need which has continued to get bigger. . .and. . .the fondness we used to feel in using them on envelopes persists today as it did in the early part of the century."

This, he pointed out, is one of the reasons why the Christmas Seal drive has respectfully declined to join the United Fund. Another reason is that the fight angainst emphysema and other respiratory disease represents a war on death which should not be mixed in with other projects, no matter how important they are.

Kohler said that working on a fixed budget would mean fighting disease within prescribed limits. "We cannot allow ourselves to prescribe only a part of what is needed."

The Christmas Seal campaign this year will, as always, be conducted by mail only, "with no solicitation from house to house or any direct contact with residents of the region."

But the personal contact with people to detect the presence of TB, emphysema or other respiratory disease is proceeding under a full head of steam, Kohler said. The breathing machine, or "Huff-anduff" machine as it is colorfully called, continues to tell tales of health and illness in the private industrial companies and public departments.

The machine is taken wherever there is a group of people. The entire fire department, county office building and many firms have had all their employees checked. Thousands more will be.

At schools, the skin test is being given to children to make sure they are not infected with TB — and to get quick treatment for those who are.

The cost for the breathing machine and skin tests?

"A lot in dollars, but especially in time," Kohler said.

"Members of the TB Board of Directors and so many private groups donate their time. The actual cost is paid by the cheerful Christmas seal, which is another way of saying the people who buy seals are financing the way to lung health for everyone." And he added, "I want everyone to buy Christmas Seals this year."

Kohler is married. His wife is Helen and his three daughters are Karen, 13, Debbie, 11 and Trudy, 7.

At Kohler's right hand in the drive will be Mrs. Charles O. Giese, hard working member of the TB board. As assistant chairman it is her job to get workers together at the right place at the time they are needed, and to help make sure the campaign throttle is wide open.

Kohler paid high tribute to the organizations which will be behind him this year. These include the National Secretaries Association whose members help with the typing under Chairman Mrs. May L. Greene; the VFW Auxiliary No. 101 under President Mrs. C. A. Breeded; VFW Auxiliary No. 4051 with President Mrs. Garvan Harris; ARADCOM Officers Wives Club and Mrs. Clifton Semens; Ent Officers Wives Club, Chairman Mrs. M. Gage Mersereau; the Colorado Springs Fire Department; and the individuals throughout the region who number in the many dozens.

"But the biggest helper of all is you, the citizen, whose purchase of Christmas Seals this year means everything to those who are now stricken with respiratory disease, and those who will be."

Kohler said he wants the region to make history this year.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

© 1964 by Chicago Tribune N.Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

QUESTION: Why did my mother have to die? She was such a wonderful person. I can't figure it out, and I can hardly stand it. Please tell me why good people have to die? E.J.

ANSWER: First, death is a penalty of sin. "The wages of sin is death", says the Bible. God never meant for man to die. However, when man rebelled against God—he began to die. "Thus it is appointed unto man once to die." There are many reasons for death.

Second, death is a friend to the aged. When the body begins to waste away, and the tortures of old age come upon our elders, they welcome death. He takes an aged Christian by the hand and gently leads them to a realm where there is no sorrow, death or pain.

Again, if there were no death, the old would get older and would dominate the race. Youth and newness would have no meaning. The world would be overpopulated so that the young could not grow food enough for those who were old. Death is the great population stabilizer.

Death, again, is a reminder of the brevity of time. The Psalmist said; "Teach us to number our days." Someone has pointed out that if our life-time is likened to a day beginning at 7:00 and ending at 11:00 at night, at fifteen years of age it would be 10:25 in the morning. If you are eighteen, it is 11 o'clock. If you are twenty five, it is 12:42 in the afternoon. "Teach us to number our days."

Then death is necessary in the economy of God. "This mortal must put on immortality. This corruptible must put on incorruption." Your mother is not dead. She has just changed addresses. So live that you can join her in heaven.

QUESTION: I would like your opinion on which of these you think is most important: Bible study, prayer, wrship, or service?—M.T.

ANSWER: It is not easy to single out the most important for they are all necessary. But since Christian faith is a matter of fellowship between Christ and the believer, I would say that constant communion with Him should take precedence over all else. Henry Drummond once said: "Ten minutes spent in Christ's society every day; aye, two minutes, if it be face to face and heart to heart, will make the whole life different."

Sometimes the person of Christ is lost in the ritual of worship; the intricacies of theology, and the struggle to serve. These can only find true meaning when we have a personal relationship with Him. When He abides in our hearts, prayer is not begging to do what we want, but giving God an opportunity to do what He wants. Worship becomes a living adoration of One worthy of our love, and service becomes a privilege rather than a duty.

Broadcasting System Bankrolls Musical

NEW YORK (AP)—For the third time, the Columbia Broadcasting System is acting as sole bankroller for a Broadway musical.

The latest venture is a songstage version of Thornton Wilder's "The Skin of Our Teeth," which is being composed by Leonard Bernstein and written by Adolph Green and Betty Comden. The $400,000 show is on the 1965-'66 schedule.

The previous CBS exclusively financed shows were "My Fair Lady" and "Camelot." The corporation has additionally produced productions.

Rude Awakening Seen in Silence

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — A University of California study has proven that it is possible to be rudely awakened by silence as well as by noise.

In the study, animals who had grown accustomed to sleeping in noisy surroundings were aroused when the noise was stopped for three seconds. Their brain wave responses were virtually identical to those of animals who slept in quiet and were awakened by noise.

Unproduced Play Bought by Movies

NEW YORK (AP) — "Sweet November" is a play already yielding sweet dividends to its author, Herman Racher, although it hasn't yet been produced.

Universal Pictures bought both stage and screen rights for $100,000. The company explained the purchase was the first move under a new policy of providing opportunity for new authors. Raucher, an advertising executive, previously wrote "Harold," which was a quick Broadway flop in 1962.

Finian's Rainbow Cast In Last Minute Rehearsals

Last minute rehearsals, finishing of sets, getting accustomed to the Fine Arts Center stage, and the solving of seemingly impossible situations is now facing the cast of "Finian's Rainbow" which will be presented Thursday, Friday and Saturday under the direction of Capt. Thomas Smith and David L. Porter.

When the cast takes the stage for this fascinating musical, much in evidence will be people associated with the military.

Directing the show will be Captain Thomas J. Smith who is with the 4th Weather Wing at Ent Air Force Base and who has had previous overseas experience in directing plays and musicals.

One of the strong characters in the show is played by 2nd Lt. Jarrett Robertson taking the part of the "yes-man," Buzz Collins. Jarrett is stationed at Ft. Carson and came to Colorado Springs a year ago from Springfield, Mo. He is a dramatics major from Southwest Missouri State College. Past experience in "Finian's Rainbow" include a two months tour with the USO in Europe where he played the romantic lead, Woody. He is also a student of folk music and was a member for two years with a folk trio "The Missourians."

The part of the politically minded Sheriff, always looking out for himself, is played by Maj. Joe Manci from Bay Minette, Alabama and stationed at the Air Force Academy. Joe entered the U.S. Air Force upon graduation from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1950.

While at the Academy, he sang in the musical clubs production and the Chapel Choir of which he was Midshipman in charge during his first class year. While earning his Ph.D. degree at the University of Michigan, Joe sang with the University Choral Union Society and was principal baritone in the First Methodist Church Choir. Joe arrived at the Air Academy where he is the director of the Aerospace Mechanic Division of the Frank J. Seiler Research Laboratory, from Brussels, Belgium and has been here a little over a year.

Pfc. Leslie R. Graifman from Ft. Carson is playing the part of the first Sharecropper and has served as chorus choreograph as well. He is from New York City where he studied dance and voice and has appeared in supper clubs in New York and Miami.

During the past year he has appeared in several dramatic plays at Ft. Carson Little Theatre and is directing the next production of "The Fantasticks," the first musical at Carson for several years. His wife, Margaret, is assistant prop master for the production of "Finian's Rainbow."

Maj. and Mrs. R. E. Ives from Ent A.F.B. are another husband and wife team helping to make the show a success. Maj. Ives is the Second Sharecropper and Mrs. Ives is properties master. They were both in the Chorale in Anchorage, Alaska for two years, three Civic musicals in Valdosta, Georgia and in two productions in Panama City, Florida and bring a wealth of experience and talent to the Colorado Springs Chorale. Mrs. Ives is also president of the Chorale, a member of the Guild and an all round worker and Major Ives uses his talents as an artist to provide posters and other art work Ft. Carson, is taking two roles in the show; that of Howard the butler and also the First Passion Pilgrim Gospeleer. He is from Houston, Texas and has appeared as a singer and dancer in a number of small productions on the East and West Coasts. He entered the U.S. Army in 1961 and has been a miere in mid-December.

Colorado Springs resident for two years. After a tour of duty in South Viet Nam, he returned to the Springs this August just in time to enter the cast of "Finian's."

Another dual role is taken by Pfc. Theodies Richardson, also from Ft. Carson, where he is Chaplains Assistant in the Religious Education Center. He is taking the part of the Second Geologist and the Second Gospeleer. He most recently appeared in "Just Two Lears," produced at Carson, and has sung and danced in many other musical productions.

Other cast members who are affiliated with "Finian's Rainbow" include Mrs. Ada McGurk, Mrs. Donna Bawcom, and Mrs. Patricia Burns, all members of the Ent Officers Wives Choral Group; and Frank Macon who is Chief Technical Aircraft Inspector at Butts Field, Ft. Carson.

Show time for "Finian's Rainbow" is 8:15 p.m. and tickets are $2.50. Tickets are now available North Tejon, Chinook Book Shop and Montgomery Ward. A limited number of tickets will be available at the door at the Fine Arts Center before the show. For additional information, call Mrs. Lewis Reimer at 636-2688.

Eight Persons Are Killed in Chicago Fire

CHICAGO (AP) — At least eight persons, five of them children, perished early today in a fire which swept through an artment hotel on t he city apartment hotel on the city's South Side, hospital and police officials said.

Twelve persons, including two firemen were hospitalized.

Fire Commissioner Robert J. Quinn said the victims apparently were killed by smoke inhalation.

Quinn said some 20 of the 120 residents of the four-story brick building, the Dorchester Manor Hotel in the Hyde Park district were rescued by firemen.

Quinn said the fire apparently began in the first floor and smoke quickly spread through the interior of the building. The flames were confined to the first floor. Quinn said the cause had not been determined.

Pope Congratulates President Johnson

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI cabled congratulations to President Johnson today.

The Vatican press office said the Roman Catholic spiritual ruler sent this message to the victorious U.S. chief executive:

"On the occasion of Your Excellency's election as President of the United States of America, we express to you our cordial felicitations and best wishes, and while praying Almighty God to grant Your Excellency strength and guidance in the weighty responsibilities entrusted to you, we invoke from on high upon Your Excellency and the noble nation of the United States of America an abundance of heavenly blessings."

Actors Studio Is Doing Odets Play

NEW YORK (AP) — A revival of "The Flowering Peach" by Clifford Odets is marked down as the first production project this season by the Actors Studio.

The author directed the original presentation in 1954. Lee Strasberg, an associate of Odets in the old Group Theater and now artistic head of the Studio, is to be in charge of the new staging, set tenatively for pre-

Edna Millay's Play to Be Produced

NEW YORK (AP)—The only full-length play written by poetess Edna St. Vincent Millay is being presented on Broadway 28 years later by Robert Gist.

The sponsor said he ran across "Conversations at Midnight" in a library and read it several times.

"The play was very much ahead of its time," says Gist. "The play is of this moment."

Death Stalks Coast Guard Flight Mission

By PETER J. HAYES

ANNETTE ISLAND, Alaska (UPI) — There's an old saying of U.S. Coast Guardsmen: "You have to go out but you don't have to come back."

It was spoken by men who launched lifeboats into pounding surf to rescue crewmen of storm-wrecked windjammers.

And it applied with equal meaning recently when five Coast Guardsmen died in the crash of an Albatross amphibian while returning from a rescue mission to their base here in southeastern Alaska.

"Our search and rescue people in Alaska have the heaviest workload and fly under the most hazardous conditions of any Coast Guard district," says Rear Adm. George D. Synon, commander of the 17th Coast Guard district.

As North Pacific Search and Rescue (SAR) coordinator, Synon is responsible for an area covering 2.5 million square miles.

Real Trouble

"The vast majority of the hundreds of fishing boat skippers in these waters are not amateurs," Synon said. "When they get in trouble, you've got a real case."

Twelve-knot currents churn through narrow crannels between the hundreds of islands. Tides sweep around the ends of an island, meeting on the inland side in a dangerous swirl. The winter wind off the Taku Glacier near Juneau reaches 100 miles per hour.

The Coast Guard must move fast because a person can live only about three hours in the cold seas.

About one-half of all SAR calls are for emergency removal of medical cases from isolated points that would take up to two days to reach by boat.

A fisherman may mangle his hand in a winch or stab himself with a hook. A logger is clipped by a falling tree. Or a pregnant Indian woman may delay too long in heading for Ketchikan to have her baby and must be flown out. (A few years ago a Coast Guard mechanic doubled as midwife on a flight from Hydaburg to Ketchikan.)

Guardsmen Popular

As a result of such mercy missions, the Coast Guard is perhaps the most popular military service among Alaskans.

With an average of two SAR cases a day, Coast Guard flight crews have little time for training—a situation that adds to the gray hair of commanders.

The mountainous islands of southeastern Alaska are uniuniformly covered with spruce and hemlock, making the terrain appear the same to inexperienced flayers. Downdrafts are swift and sudden and partly-submerged logs can sink an unwary amphibian.

Lt. Cmdr. Tom Rutledge, Seattle, Wash., has flown SAR missions here for 27 months. He said one of trickiest experiences is to enter a dead-end, canyon-lined inlet about as wide as a hangar and with no alternative but to land.

"Here," he said, "you are allowed only one mistake."

Old-Fashioned River Boat Is Modern

By JACK WOLISTON
United Press International

One of the strange sights on the Ohio River near Cincinnati this summer was a 42-foot craft which resembled in every detail one of the sidewheel packet boats of the 19th century.

It was designed by Lloyd Ostendorf, a Dayton, Ohio, commercial artist, and while a faithful replica of a boat of another era, it is pretty much modern otherwise.

There are dummy smoke stacks and dummy sidewheel, and while the latter spin and throw a wake just like the real thing, power is actually supplied by a pair of 190-horsepower MerCruiser stern drives.

The boat, named the Abraham Lincoln, was built by a Cincinnati marine contractor, but the Ostendorf family played a major role in its creation. Ostendorf's son Dan, 16, translated his father's design into working drawings and another son, Tom, 15, designed much of the interior woodwork.

The craft, two years in construction, has a cabin which sleeps six, four in a master bedroom. A 7,500-watt generator provides electricity for lights, galley stove and oven, refrigerator, and water pumps for shower and taps.

Her "texas deck," instead of providing officers' quarters as on her oldtime counterparts, houses a dinghy and davits for swinging it over the side.

And like the riverboats of another day, she has a gangplank which is raised and lowered by means of a derrick at the bow.

Her power installation propels the steel-hulled craft through the river waters at a 15-miles-per-hour clip.

The American Power Boat Association meets in Rochester, time its Unlimited Commission will open sealed bids for the site of the 1965 APBA Gold Cup Regatta.

The site award each year usually goes to the city or group offering the largest cash purse for the race. In recent years, the bids have been rising steadily, and the all-time record for a Gold Cup race was hit this year when the Spirit of Detroit Association put up $40,000.
